Competency Based Training (CBT) and assessment an introduction for trainers

Competency

Competency refers to the ability to perform particular tasks and duties to the standard of performance expected in the workplace.

Competency requires the application of specified knowledge, skills and attitudes relevant to effective participation, consistently over time and in the workplace environment.

The essential skills and knowledge are either identified separately or combined.

Knowledge identifies what a person needs to know to perform the work in an informed and effective manner.

Skills describe the application of knowledge to situations where understanding is converted into a workplace outcome.

Attitude describes the founding reasons behind the need for certain knowledge or why skills are performed in a specified manner.

Competency covers all aspects of workplace performance and involves:

- Performing individual tasks
- Managing a range of different tasks
- Responding to contingencies or breakdowns
- Dealing with the responsibilities of the workplace
- Working with others.

Unit of Competency

Like with any training qualification or program, a range of subject topics are identified that focus on the ability in a certain work area, responsibility or function.

Each manual focuses on a specific unit of competency that applies in the hospitality workplace.

In this manual a unit of competency is identified as a 'unit'.

Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace requirement and includes:

- Knowledge and skills that underpin competency
- Language, literacy and numeracy
- Occupational safety and health requirements.

Each unit of competency must be adhered to in training and assessment to ensure consistency of outcomes.

Element of Competency

An element of competency describes the essential outcomes within a unit of competency.

The elements of competency are the basic building blocks of the unit of competency. They describe in terms of outcomes the significant functions and tasks that make up the competency.

In this manual elements of competency are identified as an 'element'.

Performance criteria

Performance criteria indicate the standard of performance that is required to demonstrate achievement within an element of competency. The standards reflect identified industry skill needs.

Performance criteria will be made up of certain specified skills, knowledge and attitudes.

Learning

For the purpose of this manual learning incorporates two key activities:

- Training
- Assessment.

Both of these activities will be discussed in detail in this introduction.

Today training and assessment can be delivered in a variety of ways. It may be provided to participants:

- On-the-job – in the workplace
- Off-the-job – at an educational institution or dedicated training environment
- As a combination of these two options.

No longer is it necessary for learners to be absent from the workplace for long periods of time in order to obtain recognised and accredited qualifications.

Learning Approaches

This manual will identify two avenues to facilitate learning:

Competency Based Training (CBT)

This is the strategy of developing a participant's competency.

Educational institutions utilise a range of training strategies to ensure that participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required for successful:

- Completion of the training program or qualification
- Implementation in the workplace.

The strategies selected should be chosen based on suitability and the learning styles of participants.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

This is the strategy of assessing competency of a participant.

Educational institutions utilise a range of assessment strategies to ensure that participants are assessed in a manner that demonstrates validity, fairness, reliability, flexibility and fairness of assessment processes.

Flexibility in Learning

It is important to note that flexibility in training and assessment strategies is required to meet the needs of participants who may have learning difficulties. The strategies used will vary, taking into account the needs of individual participants with learning difficulties. However they will be applied in a manner which does not discriminate against the participant or the participant body as a whole.

Catering for Participant Diversity

Participants have diverse backgrounds, needs and interests. When planning training and assessment activities to cater for individual differences, trainers and assessors should:

- Consider individuals' experiences, learning styles and interests
- Develop questions and activities that are aimed at different levels of ability
- Modify the expectations for some participants
- Provide opportunities for a variety of forms of participation, such as individual, pair and small group activities
- Assess participants based on individual progress and outcomes.

The diversity among participants also provides a good reason for building up a learning community in which participants support each other's learning.

Participant Centred Learning

This involves taking into account structuring training and assessment that:

- Builds on strengths – Training environments need to demonstrate the many positive features of local participants (such as the attribution of academic success to effort, and the social nature of achievement motivation) and of their trainers (such as a strong emphasis on subject disciplines and moral responsibility). These strengths and uniqueness of local participants and trainers should be acknowledged and treasured
- Acknowledges prior knowledge and experience – The learning activities should be planned with participants' prior knowledge and experience in mind
- Understands learning objectives – Each learning activity should have clear learning objectives and participants should be informed of them at the outset. Trainers should also be clear about the purpose of assignments and explain their significance to participants
- Teaches for understanding – The pedagogies chosen should aim at enabling participants to act and think flexibly with what they know
- Teaches for independent learning – Generic skills and reflection should be nurtured through learning activities in appropriate contexts of the curriculum. Participants should be encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning

- Enhances motivation – Learning is most effective when participants are motivated. Various strategies should be used to arouse the interest of participants
- Makes effective use of resources – A variety of teaching resources can be employed as tools for learning
- Maximises engagement – In conducting learning activities, it is important for the minds of participants to be actively engaged
- Aligns assessment with learning and teaching – Feedback and assessment should be an integral part of learning and teaching
- Caters for learner diversity – Trainers should be aware that participants have different characteristics and strengths and try to nurture these rather than impose a standard set of expectations.

Active Learning

The goal of nurturing independent learning in participants does not imply that they always have to work in isolation or solely in a classroom. On the contrary, the construction of knowledge in tourism and hospitality studies can often best be carried out in collaboration with others in the field. Sharing experiences, insights and views on issues of common concern, and working together to collect information through conducting investigative studies in the field (active learning) can contribute a lot to their eventual success.

Active learning has an important part to play in fostering a sense of community in the class. First, to operate successfully, a learning community requires an ethos of acceptance and a sense of trust among participants, and between them and their trainers. Trainers can help to foster acceptance and trust through encouragement and personal example, and by allowing participants to take risks as they explore and articulate their views, however immature these may appear to be. Participants also come to realise that their classmates (and their trainers) are partners in learning and solving.

Trainers can also encourage cooperative learning by designing appropriate group learning tasks, which include, for example, collecting background information, conducting small-scale surveys, or producing media presentations on certain issues and themes. Participants need to be reminded that, while they should work towards successful completion of the field tasks, developing positive peer relationships in the process is an important objective of all group work.

Competency Based Training (CBT)

Principle of Competency Based Training

Competency based training is aimed at developing the knowledge, skills and attitudes of participants, through a variety of training tools.

Training Strategies

The aims of this curriculum are to enable participants to:

- Undertake a variety of subject courses that are relevant to industry in the current environment
- Learn current industry skills, information and trends relevant to industry
- Learn through a range of practical and theoretical approaches
- Be able to identify, explore and solve issues in a productive manner

- Be able to become confident, equipped and flexible managers of the future
- Be 'job ready' and a valuable employee in the industry upon graduation of any qualification level.

To ensure participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required to meet competency in each unit of competency in the qualification, a range of training delivery modes are used.

Types of Training

In choosing learning and teaching strategies, trainers should take into account the practical, complex and multi-disciplinary nature of the subject area, as well as their participant's prior knowledge, learning styles and abilities.

Training outcomes can be attained by utilising one or more delivery methods:

Lecture/Tutorial

This is a common method of training involving transfer of information from the trainer to the participants. It is an effective approach to introduce new concepts or information to the learners and also to build upon the existing knowledge. The listener is expected to reflect on the subject and seek clarifications on the doubts.

Demonstration

Demonstration is a very effective training method that involves a trainer showing a participant how to perform a task or activity. Through a visual demonstration, trainers may also explain reasoning behind certain actions or provide supplementary information to help facilitate understanding.

Group Discussions

Brainstorming in which all the members in a group express their ideas, views and opinions on a given topic, is a free flow and exchange of knowledge among the participants and the trainer. The discussion is carried out by the group on the basis of their own experience, perceptions and values. This will facilitate acquiring new knowledge. When everybody is expected to participate in the group discussion, even the introverted persons will also get stimulated and try to articulate their feelings.

The ideas that emerge in the discussions should be noted down and presentations are to be made by the groups. Sometimes consensus needs to be arrived at on a given topic. Group discussions are to be held under the moderation of a leader guided by the trainer. Group discussion technique triggers thinking process, encourages interactions and enhances communication skills.

Role Play

This is a common and very effective method of bringing into the classroom real life situations, which may not otherwise be possible. Participants are made to enact a particular role so as to give a real feel of the roles they may be called upon to play. This enables participants to understand the behaviour of others as well as their own emotions and feelings. The instructor must brief the role players on what is expected of them. The role player may either be given a ready-made script, which they can memorise and enact, or they may be required to develop their own scripts around a given situation. This technique is extremely useful in understanding creative selling techniques and human relations. It can be entertaining and energising and it helps the reserved and less literate to express their feelings.

Simulation Games

When trainees need to become aware of something that they have not been conscious of, simulations can be a useful mechanism. Simulation games are a method based on "here and now" experience shared by all the participants. The games focus on the participation of the trainees and their willingness to share their ideas with others. A "near real life" situation is created providing an opportunity to which they apply themselves by adopting certain behaviour. They then experience the impact of their behaviour on the situation. It is carried out to generate responses and reactions based on the real feelings of the participants, which are subsequently analysed by the trainer.

While use of simulation games can result in very effective learning, it needs considerable trainer competence to analyse the situations.

Individual /Group Exercises

Exercises are often introduced to find out how much the participant has assimilated. This method involves imparting instructions to participants on a particular subject through use of written exercises. In the group exercises, the entire class is divided into small groups, and members are asked to collaborate to arrive at a consensus or solution to a problem.

Case Study

This is a training method that enables the trainer and the participant to experience a real life situation. It may be on account of events in the past or situations in the present, in which there may be one or more problems to be solved and decisions to be taken. The basic objective of a case study is to help participants diagnose, analyse and/or solve a particular problem and to make them internalise the critical inputs delivered in the training. Questions are generally given at the end of the case study to direct the participants and to stimulate their thinking towards possible solutions. Studies may be presented in written or verbal form.

Field Visit

This involves a carefully planned visit or tour to a place of learning or interest. The idea is to give first-hand knowledge by personal observation of field situations, and to relate theory with practice. The emphasis is on observing, exploring, asking questions and understanding. The trainer should remember to brief the participants about what they should observe and about the customs and norms that need to be respected.

Group Presentation

The participants are asked to work in groups and produce the results and findings of their group work to the members of another sub-group. By this method participants get a good picture of each other's views and perceptions on the topic and they are able to compare them with their own point of view. The pooling and sharing of findings enriches the discussion and learning process.

Practice Sessions

This method is of paramount importance for skills training. Participants are provided with an opportunity to practice in a controlled situation what they have learnt. It could be real life or through a make-believe situation.

Games

This is a group process and includes those methods that involve usually fun-based activity, aimed at conveying feelings and experiences, which are everyday in nature, and applying them within the game being played. A game has set rules and regulations, and may or may not include a competitive element. After the game is played, it is essential that the participants be debriefed and their lessons and experiences consolidated by the trainer.

Research

Trainers may require learners to undertake research activities, including online research, to gather information or further understanding about a specific subject area.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

Principle of Competency Based Assessment

Competency based assessment is aimed at compiling a list of evidence that shows that a person is competent in a particular unit of competency.

Competencies are gained through a multitude of ways including:

- Training and development programs
- Formal education
- Life experience
- Apprenticeships
- On-the-job experience
- Self-help programs.

All of these together contribute to job competence in a person. Ultimately, assessors and participants work together, through the 'collection of evidence' in determining overall competence.

This evidence can be collected:

- Using different formats
- Using different people
- Collected over a period of time.

The assessor, who is ideally someone with considerable experience in the area being assessed, reviews the evidence and verifies the person as being competent or not.

Flexibility in Assessment

Whilst allocated assessment tools have been identified for this subject, all attempts are made to determine competency and suitable alternate assessment tools may be used, according to the requirements of the participant.

The assessment needs to be equitable for all participants, taking into account their cultural and linguistic needs.

Competency must be proven regardless of:

- Language
- Delivery Method
- Assessment Method.

Assessment Objectives

The assessment tools used for subjects are designed to determine competency against the 'elements of competency' and their associated 'performance criteria'.

The assessment tools are used to identify sufficient:

- a) Knowledge, including underpinning knowledge
- b) Skills
- c) Attitudes

Assessment tools are activities that trainees are required to undertake to prove participant competency in this subject.

All assessments must be completed satisfactorily for participants to obtain competence in this subject. There are no exceptions to this requirement, however, it is possible that in some cases several assessment items may be combined and assessed together.

Types of Assessment

Allocated Assessment Tools

There are a number of assessment tools that are used to determine competency in this subject:

- Work projects
- Written questions
- Oral questions
- Third Party Report
- Observation Checklist.

Instructions on how assessors should conduct these assessment methods are explained in the Assessment Manuals.

Alternative Assessment Tools

Whilst this subject has identified assessment tools, as indicated above, this does not restrict the assessor from using different assessment methods to measure the competency of a participant.

Evidence is simply proof that the assessor gathers to show participants can actually do what they are required to do.

Whilst there is a distinct requirement for participants to demonstrate competency, there are many and diverse sources of evidence available to the assessor.

Ongoing performance at work, as verified by a supervisor or physical evidence, can count towards assessment. Additionally, the assessor can talk to customers or work colleagues to gather evidence about performance.

A range of assessment methods to assess competency include:

- Practical demonstrations
- Practical demonstrations in simulated work conditions
- Problem solving
- Portfolios of evidence
- Critical incident reports
- Journals
- Oral presentations
- Interviews
- Videos
- Visuals: slides, audio tapes
- Case studies
- Log books
- Projects
- Role plays
- Group projects
- Group discussions
- Examinations.

Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning is the process that gives current industry professionals who do not have a formal qualification, the opportunity to benchmark their extensive skills and experience against the standards set out in each unit of competency/subject.

Also known as a Skills Recognition Audit (SRA), this process is a learning and assessment pathway which encompasses:

- Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC)
- Skills auditing
- Gap analysis and training
- Credit transfer.

Assessing competency

As mentioned, assessment is the process of identifying a participant's current knowledge, skills and attitudes sets against all elements of competency within a unit of competency. Traditionally in education, grades or marks were given to participants, dependent on how many questions the participant successfully answered in an assessment tool.

Competency based assessment does not award grades, but simply identifies if the participant has the knowledge, skills and attitudes to undertake the required task to the specified standard.

Therefore, when assessing competency, an assessor has two possible results that can be awarded:

- Pass Competent (PC)
- Not Yet Competent (NYC).

Pass Competent (PC)

If the participant is able to successfully answer or demonstrate what is required, to the expected standards of the performance criteria, they will be deemed as 'Pass Competent' (PC).

The assessor will award a 'Pass Competent' (PC) if they feel the participant has the necessary knowledge, skills and attitudes in all assessment tasks for a unit.

Not Yet Competent' (NYC)

If the participant is unable to answer or demonstrate competency to the desired standard, they will be deemed to be 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

This does not mean the participant will need to complete all the assessment tasks again. The focus will be on the specific assessment tasks that were not performed to the expected standards.

The participant may be required to:

- a) Undertake further training or instruction
- b) Undertake the assessment task again until they are deemed to be 'Pass Competent'.

UNIT TITLE: PERFORM CLERICAL PROCEDURES		NOMINAL HOURS: 15 hours
UNIT NUMBER: D1.HRS.CL1 11, D1.HOT.CL1.05, D2.TCC.CL1.09
UNIT DESCRIPTOR: This unit deals with the skills and knowledge required to perform clerical procedures in a range of settings within the six labour divisions of the hotel and travel industries.
ELEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE CRITERIA		UNIT VARIABLE AND ASSESSMENT GUIDE
Element 1: Process office documents 1.1 Process documents with appropriate office equipment in accordance with enterprise procedures and within designated timelines 1.2 Identify and rectify and/or report malfunctions promptly in accordance with enterprise procedures 1.3 Use office equipment to process documents Element 2: Draft correspondence 2.1 Write text using clear and concise language 2.2 Ensure text is without spelling, punctuation and/or grammatical errors 2.3 Check information for accuracy prior to sending		Unit Variables The Unit Variables provide advice to interpret the scope and context of this unit of competence, allowing for differences between enterprises and workplaces. It relates to the unit as a whole and facilitates holistic assessment This unit applies to performing clerical procedures in a range of settings within the labour divisions of the hotel and travel industries and may include: 1. Front Office 2. Housekeeping 3. Food and Beverage Service 4. Food Production 5. Travel Agencies 6. Tour Operation.

Element 3: Maintain document systems 3.1 File/store documents in accordance with enterprise procedures 3.2 Modify and/or update records management systems in accordance with enterprise procedures	Documents may include: • Mail, such as incoming and outgoing correspondence, guest mail and courier • Files, such as customer records, correspondence, financial records, receipts, invoices and orders • Correspondence, such as letters, facsimiles, memos and reports • Menus. Process refers to: • Collating • Binding • Photocopying • Mailing • E-mailing • Filing. Office equipment may include: • Photocopier • Facsimile • Computer • Printer • Scanner.

Assessment Guide

The following skills and knowledge must be assessed as part of this unit:

- The enterprise's policies and procedures in regard to processing office documents
- The enterprise's policies and procedures in regard to using the filing system
- Demonstrated ability to draft correspondence, process documentation and maintain document systems.

Linkages to other units

This is a core unit that underpins effective performance in all other units. Combined training and assessment may be appropriate.

Critical Aspects of Assessment

Evidence of the following is essential:

- Demonstration of the ability to accurately process a range of office documentation within enterprise acceptable timeframes
- Demonstration of the ability to produce documents that are easily understood and error free.

Context of Assessment

- This unit may be assessed on or off the job
- Assessment should include practical demonstration either in the workplace or through a simulation, supported by a range of methods to assess underpinning knowledge
- Assessment must relate to the individual's work area or area of responsibility
- Demonstration of skills across an operating period to address an adequate range of clerical procedures/tasks
- Performance of clerical procedures within typical workplace time constraints.

	Resource Implications Training and assessment to include access to a real or simulated office environment; and access to industry-current equipment.
	Assessment Methods The following methods may be used to assess competency for this unit: • Observation of candidate performance • Oral and written questions • Practical exercises/case studies.
	Key Competencies in this Unit Level 1 = competence to undertake tasks effectively Level 2 = competence to manage tasks Level 3 = competence to use concepts for evaluating and reshaping tasks
	Key Competencies	Level	Examples
	Collecting, organizing and analysing information	1	Identify what information to include in written correspondence
	Communicating ideas and information	1	Produce written correspondence
	Planning and organizing activities	1	Plan content and layout of written correspondence; file documentation
	Working with others and in teams	1	Produce written documentation for Others

	Using mathematical ideas and techniques	-
	Solving problems	1	Resolve equipment malfunctions
	Using technology	1	Use routine software to produce routine office documents

8.	Trainer to explain types of computers and his/her own experience. Notebook or Laptop These are portable computers which are used by people “on the go”. A notebook is similar in size to a standard book. A laptop is larger than a notebook. They are both lightweight, very convenient but are not as fast as a fixed PC, have a shorter battery life and can easily be damaged if not taken care of. Touch Screen PC This is a PC that can be held in the hand. A touch screen looks similar to a notebook/laptop monitor, though they can vary in style. A special pen is used to access different menu options on the touch screen. There is no keyboard or mouse. Palmtops Mini computers are designed to perform basic computer functions and fit in the palm of the hand. Many are used in conjunction with a normal PC. There are different styles available. Two common types are shown. You can transfer data from your PC to the Palmtop as reference or to edit on the go. The palmtop is not as powerful as a PC. Palmtops can be connected to the internet, or to a PC and are useful when travelling to send and receive email. Tablets/I pads and I phones IPads and android tablets are a combination of a modern smart phone and a laptop computer. Business owners often use tablets to get tasks done on the run, create presentations for meetings and update websites and blogs. They are lightweight, compact and affordable. They can easily be synchronised with your computer when returning to the office.

Work project 1.1 to 1.3

In pairs, you are to set up a new office for an Adventure Tourism Company in Bangkok. Give the company a name. Your company will have 4 employees which will consist of one Director, one Operations Manager, one Operations Assistant and one Marketing Coordinator. Your office will be in an office building, within the central business district. Create a layout which reflects the needs of these 4 employees.

Research needs to be undertaken, taking into consideration business technology that you would require including hardware and software, as well as ergonomics.

Work project 2.1

You are the owner of a very busy Bangkok restaurant. Business has been good and to reward your staff for their hard work, you are organising a party on 20 June 2012 at 8 pm. Please type up a memo to your staff advising them of the party and inviting them to bring their partner and/or family. You want to hold the party in your own apartment above the restaurant. For catering purposes, you need them to respond by 14 June.

Please ensure you:

- Design a professional memo layout
- Use correct memo spacing
- Do a spell check and grammar check.

Save your memo on your USB under the new folder "Homework". Name it "Memo_20June2012".

Slide 45

Slide 46

Slide No	Trainer Notes
46.	Rule of 7 Cs: • Clear - able to be understood in one reading by the recipient (time = money) • Concise - conveying what has to be stated with a minimum of words, sentences and paragraphs • Complete - all of the information necessary to understand the correspondence is passed on • Correct - all of the information conveyed is accurate. • Courteous - your tone is always polite as you are representing your organization and wish to create goodwill • Clean - this means that there are no coffee stains, liquid paper, or crossing out on your correspondence. It also means that your work is not cluttered and there is plenty of white space so that the document looks appealing and professional • Checked - this means your work has been examined for spelling mistakes, grammatical mistakes, format and layout and found to be mistake-free.

Holidays on the Mekong River

Background

The Mekong River is a great place to spend a few relaxing days and nights exploring one of the most scenic and legendary waterways in the world. It is the world's 10th longest river and the 7th longest in Asia. Its estimated length is 4,909 km and it drains an area of 795,000 km² (307,000 sq mi), discharging 475 km³ of water annually.

From the Tibetan Plateau this river runs through China, Burma, Laos, Thailand, Cambodia and Vietnam. The Mekong River Commission (MRC) was established in 1995 to assist in the management and coordinated use of the Mekong's resources. In 1996 China and Burma became "dialogue partners" of the MRC and the six countries now work together within a cooperative framework.

Accommodation

A wide range of accommodation alternatives are available:

- Houseboats
- Hotels
- Motels
- Small Bed and breakfasts.

To book a two day cruise on the Mekong River, please call us at Vietnam & Cambodia Travel on tel (0084) 435 642 164 or visit <http://www.vietnamdhttravel.com>

Work project 2.3

You are the owner of a charter bus company, VLines, in 3345 Truong Street, Vientiane, Laos. Due to the recent global economic downturn, internal tourism numbers have dropped by 50%.

- Write a memo advising all staff of an upcoming meeting to discuss repercussions of this downturn
- Write a letter to your coach captains advising them of the meeting on July 1, 2012 at 2 pm in your office. Firstly consider the type of letter (routine letter, good news letter, bad news letter). Secondly, ensure you follow the correct steps. Explain why you have chosen this type of letter
- Type out an envelope using the 'mailings' tab.

Spelling, grammar and sentence construction must be correct. Ensure that there is sufficient information in the document so that all the recipients understand what will be expected of them in terms of attendance.

Or "What did you like about the filing system in use and why?" Trainer to link the above with the various filing techniques: Alphabetical The most commonly used method of filing, the alphabetical system, places files in alphabetical order according to the customer or business name e.g. the telephone book Numerical Each file or piece of information is filed in number order, from lowest to highest, according to the number on the document (for example, invoice number) or the customer number Geographical Information is indexed alphabetically according to geographical location. States/Provinces are indexed first, followed by the city, town or suburb, then other appropriate information e.g. customer name Subject Records are sorted according to the subject matter and filed alphabetically. This allows information on the one topic, or subject, to be easily located.

	Key word A particular word is used as the subject classification and specific descriptors are also allocated to further classify the information. Keyword systems are usually used in large organisations where the keywords are specifically designated. Chronological Chronological filing is used in conjunction with other filing methods and involves sorting records according to their date.
