Competency Based Training (CBT) and assessment – An introduction for trainers

Competency

Competency refers to the ability to perform particular tasks and duties to the standard of performance expected in the workplace.

Competency requires the application of specified knowledge, skills and attitudes relevant to effective participation, consistently over time and in the workplace environment.

The essential skills and knowledge are either identified separately or combined.

Knowledge identifies what a person needs to know to perform the work in an informed and effective manner.

Skills describe the application of knowledge to situations where understanding is converted into a workplace outcome.

Attitude describes the founding reasons behind the need for certain knowledge or why skills are performed in a specified manner.

Competency covers all aspects of workplace performance and involves:

- Performing individual tasks
- Managing a range of different tasks
- Responding to contingencies or breakdowns
- Dealing with the responsibilities of the workplace
- Working with others.

Unit of Competency

Like with any training qualification or program, a range of subject topics are identified that focus on the ability in a certain work area, responsibility or function.

Each manual focuses on a specific unit of competency that applies in the hospitality workplace.

In this manual a unit of competency is identified as a 'unit'.

Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace requirement and includes:

- Knowledge and skills that underpin competency
- Language, literacy and numeracy
- Occupational safety and health requirements.

Each unit of competency must be adhered to in training and assessment to ensure consistency of outcomes.

Element of Competency

An element of competency describes the essential outcomes within a unit of competency.

The elements of competency are the basic building blocks of the unit of competency. They describe in terms of outcomes the significant functions and tasks that make up the competency.

In this manual elements of competency are identified as an 'element'.

Performance criteria

Performance criteria indicate the standard of performance that is required to demonstrate achievement within an element of competency. The standards reflect identified industry skill needs.

Performance criteria will be made up of certain specified skills, knowledge and attitudes.

Learning

For the purpose of this manual learning incorporates two key activities:

- Training
- Assessment.

Both of these activities will be discussed in detail in this introduction.

Today training and assessment can be delivered in a variety of ways. It may be provided to participants:

- On-the-job – in the workplace
- Off-the-job – at an educational institution or dedicated training environment
- As a combination of these two options.

No longer is it necessary for learners to be absent from the workplace for long periods of time in order to obtain recognised and accredited qualifications.

Learning Approaches

This manual will identify two avenues to facilitate learning:

Competency Based Training (CBT)

This is the strategy of developing a participant's competency.

Educational institutions utilise a range of training strategies to ensure that participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required for successful:

- Completion of the training program or qualification
- Implementation in the workplace.

The strategies selected should be chosen based on suitability and the learning styles of participants.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

This is the strategy of assessing competency of a participant.

Educational institutions utilise a range of assessment strategies to ensure that participants are assessed in a manner that demonstrates validity, fairness, reliability, flexibility and fairness of assessment processes.

Flexibility in Learning

It is important to note that flexibility in training and assessment strategies is required to meet the needs of participants who may have learning difficulties. The strategies used will vary, taking into account the needs of individual participants with learning difficulties. However they will be applied in a manner which does not discriminate against the participant or the participant body as a whole.

Catering for Participant Diversity

Participants have diverse backgrounds, needs and interests. When planning training and assessment activities to cater for individual differences, trainers and assessors should:

- Consider individuals' experiences, learning styles and interests
- Develop questions and activities that are aimed at different levels of ability
- Modify the expectations for some participants
- Provide opportunities for a variety of forms of participation, such as individual, pair and small group activities
- Assess participants based on individual progress and outcomes.

The diversity among participants also provides a good reason for building up a learning community in which participants support each other's learning.

Participant Centred Learning

This involves taking into account structuring training and assessment that:

- Builds on strengths – Training environments need to demonstrate the many positive features of local participants (such as the attribution of academic success to effort, and the social nature of achievement motivation) and of their trainers (such as a strong emphasis on subject disciplines and moral responsibility). These strengths and uniqueness of local participants and trainers should be acknowledged and treasured
- Acknowledges prior knowledge and experience – The learning activities should be planned with participants' prior knowledge and experience in mind
- Understands learning objectives – Each learning activity should have clear learning objectives and participants should be informed of them at the outset. Trainers should also be clear about the purpose of assignments and explain their significance to participants
- Teaches for understanding – The pedagogies chosen should aim at enabling participants to act and think flexibly with what they know
- Teaches for independent learning – Generic skills and reflection should be nurtured through learning activities in appropriate contexts of the curriculum. Participants should be encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning

- Enhances motivation – Learning is most effective when participants are motivated. Various strategies should be used to arouse the interest of participants
- Makes effective use of resources – A variety of teaching resources can be employed as tools for learning
- Maximises engagement – In conducting learning activities, it is important for the minds of participants to be actively engaged
- Aligns assessment with learning and teaching – Feedback and assessment should be an integral part of learning and teaching
- Caters for learner diversity – Trainers should be aware that participants have different characteristics and strengths and try to nurture these rather than impose a standard set of expectations.

Active Learning

The goal of nurturing independent learning in participants does not imply that they always have to work in isolation or solely in a classroom. On the contrary, the construction of knowledge in tourism and hospitality studies can often best be carried out in collaboration with others in the field. Sharing experiences, insights and views on issues of common concern, and working together to collect information through conducting investigative studies in the field (active learning) can contribute a lot to their eventual success.

Active learning has an important part to play in fostering a sense of community in the class. First, to operate successfully, a learning community requires an ethos of acceptance and a sense of trust among participants, and between them and their trainers. Trainers can help to foster acceptance and trust through encouragement and personal example, and by allowing participants to take risks as they explore and articulate their views, however immature these may appear to be. Participants also come to realise that their classmates (and their trainers) are partners in learning and solving.

Trainers can also encourage cooperative learning by designing appropriate group learning tasks, which include, for example, collecting background information, conducting small-scale surveys, or producing media presentations on certain issues and themes. Participants need to be reminded that, while they should work towards successful completion of the field tasks, developing positive peer relationships in the process is an important objective of all group work.

Competency Based Training (CBT)

Principle of Competency Based Training

Competency based training is aimed at developing the knowledge, skills and attitudes of participants, through a variety of training tools.

Training Strategies

The aims of this curriculum are to enable participants to:

- Undertake a variety of subject courses that are relevant to industry in the current environment
- Learn current industry skills, information and trends relevant to industry
- Learn through a range of practical and theoretical approaches
- Be able to identify, explore and solve issues in a productive manner

- Be able to become confident, equipped and flexible managers of the future
- Be 'job ready' and a valuable employee in the industry upon graduation of any qualification level.

To ensure participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required to meet competency in each unit of competency in the qualification, a range of training delivery modes are used.

Types of Training

In choosing learning and teaching strategies, trainers should take into account the practical, complex and multi-disciplinary nature of the subject area, as well as their participant's prior knowledge, learning styles and abilities.

Training outcomes can be attained by utilising one or more delivery methods:

Lecture/Tutorial

This is a common method of training involving transfer of information from the trainer to the participants. It is an effective approach to introduce new concepts or information to the learners and also to build upon the existing knowledge. The listener is expected to reflect on the subject and seek clarifications on the doubts.

Demonstration

Demonstration is a very effective training method that involves a trainer showing a participant how to perform a task or activity. Through a visual demonstration, trainers may also explain reasoning behind certain actions or provide supplementary information to help facilitate understanding.

Group Discussions

Brainstorming in which all the members in a group express their ideas, views and opinions on a given topic. It is a free flow and exchange of knowledge among the participants and the trainer. The discussion is carried out by the group on the basis of their own experience, perceptions and values. This will facilitate acquiring new knowledge. When everybody is expected to participate in the group discussion, even the introverted persons will also get stimulated and try to articulate their feelings.

The ideas that emerge in the discussions should be noted down and presentations are to be made by the groups. Sometimes consensus needs to be arrived at on a given topic. Group discussions are to be held under the moderation of a leader guided by the trainer. Group discussion technique triggers thinking process, encourages interactions and enhances communication skills.

Role Play

This is a common and very effective method of bringing into the classroom real life situations, which may not otherwise be possible. Participants are made to enact a particular role so as to give a real feel of the roles they may be called upon to play. This enables participants to understand the behaviour of others as well as their own emotions and feelings. The instructor must brief the role players on what is expected of them. The role player may either be given a ready-made script, which they can memorize and enact, or they may be required to develop their own scripts around a given situation. This technique is extremely useful in understanding creative selling techniques and human relations. It can be entertaining and energizing and it helps the reserved and less literate to express their feelings.

Simulation Games

When trainees need to become aware of something that they have not been conscious of, simulations can be a useful mechanism. Simulation games are a method based on "here and now" experience shared by all the participants. The games focus on the participation of the trainees and their willingness to share their ideas with others. A "near real life" situation is created providing an opportunity to which they apply themselves by adopting certain behaviour. They then experience the impact of their behaviour on the situation. It is carried out to generate responses and reactions based on the real feelings of the participants, which are subsequently analysed by the trainer.

While use of simulation games can result in very effective learning, it needs considerable trainer competence to analyse the situations.

Individual /Group Exercises

Exercises are often introduced to find out how much the participant has assimilated. This method involves imparting instructions to participants on a particular subject through use of written exercises. In the group exercises, the entire class is divided into small groups, and members are asked to collaborate to arrive at a consensus or solution to a problem.

Case Study

This is a training method that enables the trainer and the participant to experience a real life situation. It may be on account of events in the past or situations in the present, in which there may be one or more problems to be solved and decisions to be taken. The basic objective of a case study is to help participants diagnose, analyse and/or solve a particular problem and to make them internalize the critical inputs delivered in the training. Questions are generally given at the end of the case study to direct the participants and to stimulate their thinking towards possible solutions. Studies may be presented in written or verbal form.

Field Visit

This involves a carefully planned visit or tour to a place of learning or interest. The idea is to give first-hand knowledge by personal observation of field situations, and to relate theory with practice. The emphasis is on observing, exploring, asking questions and understanding. The trainer should remember to brief the participants about what they should observe and about the customs and norms that need to be respected.

Group Presentation

The participants are asked to work in groups and produce the results and findings of their group work to the members of another sub-group. By this method participants get a good picture of each other's views and perceptions on the topic and they are able to compare them with their own point of view. The pooling and sharing of findings enriches the discussion and learning process.

Practice Sessions

This method is of paramount importance for skills training. Participants are provided with an opportunity to practice in a controlled situation what they have learnt. It could be real life or through a make-believe situation.

Games

This is a group process and includes those methods that involve usually fun-based activity, aimed at conveying feelings and experiences, which are everyday in nature, and applying them within the game being played. A game has set rules and regulations, and may or may not include a competitive element. After the game is played, it is essential that the participants be debriefed and their lessons and experiences consolidated by the trainer.

Research

Trainers may require learners to undertake research activities, including online research, to gather information or further understanding about a specific subject area.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

Principle of Competency Based Assessment

Competency based assessment is aimed at compiling a list of evidence that shows that a person is competent in a particular unit of competency.

Competencies are gained through a multitude of ways including:

- Training and development programs
- Formal education
- Life experience
- Apprenticeships
- On-the-job experience
- Self-help programs.

All of these together contribute to job competence in a person. Ultimately, assessors and participants work together, through the 'collection of evidence' in determining overall competence.

This evidence can be collected:

- Using different formats
- Using different people
- Collected over a period of time.

The assessor who is ideally someone with considerable experience in the area being assessed, reviews the evidence and verifies the person as being competent or not.

Flexibility in Assessment

Whilst allocated assessment tools have been identified for this subject, all attempts are made to determine competency and suitable alternate assessment tools may be used, according to the requirements of the participant.

The assessment needs to be equitable for all participants, taking into account their cultural and linguistic needs.

Competency must be proven regardless of:

- Language
- Delivery Method
- Assessment Method.

Assessment Objectives

The assessment tools used for subjects are designed to determine competency against the 'elements of competency' and their associated 'performance criteria'.

The assessment tools are used to identify sufficient:

- a) Knowledge, including underpinning knowledge
- b) Skills
- c) Attitudes

Assessment tools are activities that trainees are required to undertake to prove participant competency in this subject.

All assessments must be completed satisfactorily for participants to obtain competence in this subject. There are no exceptions to this requirement, however, it is possible that in some cases several assessment items may be combined and assessed together.

Types of Assessment

Allocated Assessment Tools

There are a number of assessment tools that are used to determine competency in this subject:

- Work projects
- Written questions
- Oral questions
- Third Party Report
- Observation Checklist.

Instructions on how assessors should conduct these assessment methods are explained in the Assessment Manuals.

Alternative Assessment Tools

Whilst this subject has identified assessment tools, as indicated above, this does not restrict the assessor from using different assessment methods to measure the competency of a participant.

Evidence is simply proof that the assessor gathers to show participants can actually do what they are required to do.

Whilst there is a distinct requirement for participants to demonstrate competency, there are many and diverse sources of evidence available to the assessor.

Ongoing performance at work, as verified by a supervisor or physical evidence, can count towards assessment. Additionally, the assessor can talk to customers or work colleagues to gather evidence about performance.

A range of assessment methods to assess competency include:

- Practical demonstrations
- Practical demonstrations in simulated work conditions
- Problem solving
- Portfolios of evidence
- Critical incident reports
- Journals
- Oral presentations
- Interviews
- Videos
- Visuals: slides, audio tapes
- Case studies
- Log books
- Projects
- Role plays
- Group projects
- Group discussions
- Examinations.

Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning is the process that gives current industry professionals who do not have a formal qualification, the opportunity to benchmark their extensive skills and experience against the standards set out in each unit of competency/subject.

Also known as a Skills Recognition Audit (SRA), this process is a learning and assessment pathway which encompasses:

- Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC)
- Skills auditing
- Gap analysis and training
- Credit transfer.

Assessing competency

As mentioned, assessment is the process of identifying a participant's current knowledge, skills and attitudes sets against all elements of competency within a unit of competency. Traditionally in education, grades or marks were given to participants, dependent on how many questions the participant successfully answered in an assessment tool.

Competency based assessment does not award grades, but simply identifies if the participant has the knowledge, skills and attitudes to undertake the required task to the specified standard.

Therefore, when assessing competency, an assessor has two possible results that can be awarded:

- Pass Competent (PC)
- Not Yet Competent (NYC).

Pass Competent (PC)

If the participant is able to successfully answer or demonstrate what is required, to the expected standards of the performance criteria, they will be deemed as 'Pass Competent' (PC).

The assessor will award a 'Pass Competent' (PC) if they feel the participant has the necessary knowledge, skills and attitudes in all assessment tasks for a unit.

Not Yet Competent' (NYC)

If the participant is unable to answer or demonstrate competency to the desired standard, they will be deemed to be 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

This does not mean the participant will need to complete all the assessment tasks again. The focus will be on the specific assessment tasks that were not performed to the expected standards.

The participant may be required to:

- a) Undertake further training or instruction
- b) Undertake the assessment task again until they are deemed to be 'Pass Competent'.

UNIT TITLE: MANAGE THE EFFECTIVE USE OF HUMAN RESOURCES		NOMINAL HOURS: 70
UNIT NUMBER: D1.HML.CL10.10 D1.HRM.CL9.01
UNIT DESCRIPTOR: This unit deals with skills and knowledge required to manage and develop staff within an operational industry context
ELEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE CRITERIA		UNIT VARIABLE AND ASSESSMENT GUIDE
Element 1: Determine human resource needs 1.1 Identify operational need of the enterprise and allocated human resources budget 1.2 Evaluate current staffing competencies against identified current and future required competencies 1.3 Consider external and internal factors likely to impact future human resource requirements 1.4 Determine key internal human resource issues 1.5 Consult with key personnel to obtain their input 1.6 Develop a human resources plan to meet identified need 1.7 Implement a human resources plan in accordance with identified strategies Element 2: Develop and administer human resource policies and procedures 2.1 Research and document enterprise needs in relation to human resource performance 2.2 Develop and document organisational disciplinary policies and procedures		Unit Variables The Unit Variables provide advice to interpret the scope and context of this unit of competence, allowing for differences between enterprises and workplaces. It relates to the unit as a whole and facilitates holistic assessment This unit applies to the application of a human resources framework for managing and developing staff within an operational industry context of the labour divisions of the hotel and travel industries and may include: 1. Front Office 2. Housekeeping 3. Food and Beverage Service 4. Food Production 5. Travel Agencies 6. Tour Operation Operational need may be related to: • Contents of business plan and strategic plans • Levels of service and customer service standards required by the organisation • Trading times, level of competition, nature of the business, operational departments

2.3 Develop and document organisational issue resolution and grievance policies and procedures 2.4 Develop and document human resource manual to guide and govern day-to-day human resource practice 2.5 Distribute and explain organisational human resource policies and procedures Element 3: Organise human resources 3.1 Participate in staff selection 3.2 Develop staff induction programs 3.3 Organise work programs 3.4 Develop teams to support work 3.5 Provide for supervision of staff Element 4: Lead and motivate staff 4.1 Set goals to optimise work achievement 4.2 Advise and support staff in their work 4.3 Encourage and recognise initiative, effort and contribution from staff Element 5: Develop human resource performance 5.1 Develop staff appraisal system 5.2 Notify staff in regard to implementation of internal staff appraisals 5.3 Implement staff appraisals in-line with established protocols 5.4 Support staff as a result of staff appraisals Element 6: Provide for human resource development 6.1 Identify training and development activities and opportunities for staff	• Internal and external factors impacting the business • Specific staffing requirements Staffing competencies may be identified and analysed using: • Task analysis • Training needs analysis • Practical tests • Review of staff resumes • Skills audit • Personality profiling External and internal factors may include: • Changes to business direction, including changes to financial or other circumstances • Downsizing, growth, or re-structuring of the business • Opportunities for out-sourcing human resources • Changes to legislation and/or core activities of the business • Labour market factors, including levels of unemployment, availability of suitable skills, qualified and experienced staff • Incentives available from government to employ and/or train staff Key internal human resource issues will vary between premises, but may be related to: • Level of staff turnover • Remuneration • Supervision and levels of training, motivation and reward/recognition in place • Analysis of reasons why staff leave/remain with employer

6.2 Provide and resource training and development activities and opportunities for staff 6.3 Monitor the progress and effectiveness of human resource development that has been provided Element 7: Evaluate the implementation of the human resource plan 7.1 Use suitable methods to evaluate the effectiveness of the human resource plan 7.2 Assess the extent to which the objectives of the human resource plan have been achieved 7.3 Review external and internal factors that have impacted human resource performance 7.4 Review and evaluate human resource policies and procedures 7.5 Review and evaluate the organisation of human resources 7.6 Review and evaluate the supervision, leadership and motivation of staff 7.7 Review and evaluate staff performance appraisal system 7.8 Review and evaluate the provision of human resource development 7.9 Recommend strategies to maintain or improve human resource outcomes	Key personnel could include: • Supervisors, managers and owners • Head office • Investors • Government officials The human resources plan could relate to: • Information and feedback from key stakeholders • Relevant good practice models for the industry/business • Risk identification • Nominated strategies designed to achieve the identified objectives of the business plan and strategic plans • Budget • Development and identification of performance indicators that will be used to evaluate effectiveness Implement a human resources plan may include: • Communication and explanation of the human resources plan to relevant personnel • Practical application and implementation of the strategies outlined in the plans • Support to individual department and individuals in plan implementation and execution • Monitoring actual outcomes and evaluating them against projections • Taking remedial action to bring plans back in-line with objectives • Development of job specifications and job descriptions. Enterprise needs may relate to: • Service levels and service standards • Preferences and requirements for standard operating procedures.

	Organisational disciplinary policies and procedures may relate to: • Verbal and written warnings • Sanctions for non-compliance • Scope of authority for management personnel • Counselling procedures and protocols. Organisational issue resolution and grievance policies and procedures may relate to: • Consideration of relevant host country employment and industrial relations legislation • Identification of procedures for dealing with and referring disputes, problems and issues through an identified hierarchy within the enterprise • Identification of external assistance that may be employed in the event that an issue cannot be resolved internally. The human resource manual may refer to policies and procedures that relate to topics that vary between establishments, but which may include: • Uniform and personal appearance • Meals and rest breaks, including rosters, holidays/leave entitlements • Time sheets/clocks and the authorisation of overtime, including notification of absence and sickness provisions • Use of company equipment, facilities and services • Confidentiality and privacy, including commercial in confidence material • Personal performance, including performance assessments, standards and reviews • Training and promotions • Discipline and issue resolution • Workplace health and safety • Responsibilities, including organisational structure, hierarchy and attendant authorities.

Staff selection activities may include:

- Advertising and recruiting employees
- Short-listing applicants
- Reference checking
- Application of trade/competency tests
- Establishing key selection criteria
- Interviewing applicants.

Staff induction programs may include:

- Tour of premises, including detailed tour of relevant individual department
- Meeting with management and co-workers
- Explanation of duties, performance standards, staff performance appraisals
- Training and rewards available
- Explanation and demonstration of relevant safety requirements and other legislated obligations that apply to the position in question

Work programs may include:

- Identification of workloads and work flows for each job
- Identification of legal and safety issues that apply
- Description of relevant service standards
- Allocation of necessary materials, safety equipment and resources to enable role completion
- Benchmarking of work and standards
- Employer expectations.

	Supervision of staff may include: • Planning work • Organising resources to enable work to be completed as required • Ensuring suitable and adequate staff to achieve identified workplace and service needs • Directing staff regarding priorities, work to be done, standards, timing and work methods • Controlling production, service, costs and staff performance, including the resolution of workplace issues that arise. Set goals may include: • Alignment with business plans and objectives • Equality of workload and responsibilities amongst staff • Creation of goals that are achievable, realistic, specific, measurable and track able • Explanation of goals to those who are responsible for their attainment • Provision of the necessary resources to enable goal attainment • Negotiation and delegation. Encourage and recognise staff contribution may include: • Development of an establishment-wide system to recognise and reward staff • Development of trigger points that will activate rewards • Personal interaction with staff • Public and internal mention of staff contributions • Use of personal efforts as role/model for other staff. The staff appraisal system may include: • Evaluation of workplace skills, knowledge and attitudes • Evaluation of interactions with others, including co-workers, management, customers • Attainment of designated goals • Comparison with key performance indicators.

	To support staff following staff appraisals may include: • Counselling and advice • Training, including on-the-job training, mentoring, coaching, formal courses • Empathetic interaction with staff, including practical and emotional support • Re-allocation of workloads, duties and responsibilities. Training and development activities and opportunities may include: • Formal courses, including structured in-house training • Extension and training to multi-skill • On-the-job and off-the-job training, including full time courses, short course • Attendance at conferences, seminars • Work exchanges, job rotations and secondments • Mentoring and coaching • Training and development offered by industry groups, government agencies and suppliers • Promotion of staff to 'acting' positions. Suitable methods to evaluate the human resource plan may include: • Statistical analysis of costs, trade, revenue, materials used and other key indicators • Interviews with and surveys of stakeholders, including staff and management and which may include the use of focus groups • Solicited and unsolicited feedback • Organisational reviews • Workforce management data with an emphasis on staffing levels and labour cost figures.

Assessment Guide

The following skills and knowledge must be assessed as part of this unit:

- Host country legislation in relation to occupational safety and health, industrial relations, equal opportunity and employment, including conditions of employment and remuneration
- Leadership theory and principles
- Management theory and principles
- Conflict and grievance resolution principles and practice
- Communication, collaboration and interpersonal skills
- Training principles and an understanding of the application of training needs analysis and skills audit
- Team management protocols, including motivation, staff support
- Staff appraisals, including development, implementation and follow-up
- Goal setting
- Writing skills to produce job descriptions and specifications, human resource plans, reports and recommendations, policies and procedures.

Linkages To Other Units

- Lead and manage people
- Recruit and select staff
- Roster staff
- Develop and implement a business plan
- Plan, conduct and evaluate a staff performance assessment
- Develop and supervise operational approaches
- Develop and implement operational plans

- Apply industry standards to team supervision
- Manage and maintain effective workplace relations
- Monitor staff performance
- Monitor workplace operations
- Plan and implement a series of training events.

Critical Aspects of Assessment

Evidence of the following is essential:

- Demonstrated ability to prepare and implement a human resource plan
- Demonstrated ability to organise and manage staff
- Demonstrated ability to undertake staff performance appraisals
- Demonstrated ability to support staff in actual workplace situations
- Demonstrated ability to address and resolve emerging human resource issues and problems that arise
- Demonstrated ability to integrate all the above in an effective workplace context.

Context of Assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- Actual or simulated workplace conditions.

Resource Implications

Training and assessment must include the application of human resource practices in an actual or simulated, practical, operational workplace setting; and access to workplace standards, procedures, policies, guidelines, tools and equipment.

Assessment Methods

The following methods may be used to assess competency for this unit:

- Observation of practical candidate performance

- Case studies
- Role plays
- Oral and written questions
- Third party reports completed by a supervisor
- Project and assignment work.

Key Competencies in this Unit

Level 1 = competence to undertake tasks effectively

Level 2 = competence to manage tasks

Level 3 = competence to use concepts for evaluating

Key Competencies	Level	Examples
Collecting, organising and analysing information	2	Research workplace contexts and factors that impact on human resource needs and functions; administer human resource policies
Communicating ideas and information	2	Report to management; communicate human resource requirements to staff
Planning and organising activities	2	Administer induction programs, staff recruitment and selection procedures, training plans and staff appraisals
Working with others and in teams	2	Motivate, supervise and monitor staff activities
Using mathematical ideas and techniques	2	Monitor and analyse human resource data

	Solving problems	2	Develop contingency plans; resolve workplace issues
	Using technology	1	Input data, manipulate data and generate reports; use staff management software

Subject elements

This unit comprises seven Elements:

- Determine human resource needs
- Develop and administer human resource policies and procedures
- Organize human resources
- Lead and motivate staff
- Develop human resource performance
- Provide for human resource development
- Evaluate the implementation of the human resource plan

Slide

Identifying staff competencies

Training needs analysis

TNA is a way of identifying the difference that exists between:

- The work which staff are performing
- The standard of performance required by the business
- This difference is known as 'the training gap'

Slide 13

Slide No	Trainer Notes
13.	Class Activity – General Discussion • What are the processes associated in conducting a TNA? • What documents are used (Trainer to show examples of this documentation where relevant) • Who undertakes these activities?

Slide

Identifying required competencies

Slide

Determine key human resources issues

Common HR issues

- Ensuring correct staff categories
- Coverage of staff movement
- Unpredictable staff movement
- Remuneration and motivating staff
- Level of staff turnover

Slide 19

Slide No	Trainer Notes
19.	Class Activity – General Discussion • What are the challenges associated with each of these HR issues?

Slide

Consult with key personnel

You may need to consult with stakeholders about staffing needs:

- Owners
- Board of Directors
- Shareholders
- Senior management
- Supervisors
- Customers
- Suppliers

Slide 20

Slide No	Trainer Notes
20.	Class Activity – General Discussion • Why is it important to involve these stakeholders? • What information can you get from each of them?

Slide

Develop human resources plan

Role of an HR plan

An HR plan should serve as a link between:

- Human resources management
- Overall strategic plan of a hospitality organisation

Slide

Document enterprise human resources needs

Importance of documenting needs

Given that the Human Resources Department is often responsible for the hiring and development of staff it is only natural that they will take a proactive role in either establishing or documenting and controlling:

- Staff performance expectations
- Standard operating procedures
- Other staffing related matters

Slide 33

Slide No	Trainer Notes
33.	Class Activity – Discussion • What should be documented under each of these points?

Slide

Performance standards

- Every job has standards of performance that are required to be met by the employee undertaking that job
- Performance standards are specific targets of what a staff member must achieve
- What are examples of performance standards?

Slide 34

Slide No	Trainer Notes
34.	Class Activity – Questions What are examples of performance standards for the following job roles: • Waiter • Chef • Reservationist • Receptionist • Porter • Room attendant.

Slide

Performance standards

Examples of performance standards

Slide 37

Slide No	Trainer Notes
37.	Class Activity – Questions • How can you determining performance standards from each of these points? • What other ways can you determine performance standards?

Slide

Performance standards

Documentation of performance standards

Standards of performance can be documented in either:

- A job description
- An employment contract
- Company policy documents
- Induction and orientation

Slide 38

Slide No	Trainer Notes
38.	Class Activity – Discussion and Review Trainer explain point in more detail (see below) and hand out actual examples of these documents highlighting the performance standards: • A job description - a detailed breakdown of the responsibilities and tasks within a job • An employment contract - specifically for management positions • Company policy documents – including policies, procedures and SOPs • Induction and orientation - It is essential that upon commencement, the employee is informed and acknowledges they understand the requirements of their job.

Slide

Types of performance standards

- Productivity
- Punctuality
- Personal presentation
- Level of accuracy in work performed
- Adherence to procedures
- Customer service standards
- Team interaction
- Response times/waiting times

Slide 39

Slide No	Trainer Notes
39.	Class Activity – Questions • What other performance standards could you develop for these areas?

Slide

Job behaviour standards

As well as having performance standards for the various jobs, an organisation will also have job behaviour standards for employees.

These include:

- Initiative
- Motivation
- Attitude

Slide 40

Slide No	Trainer Notes

Element 3: Organize human resources

Slide 60

Slide No	Trainer Notes
60.	Introduce topic. Class Activity – General Discussion Ask general questions: • What are the different activities that need to be performed by Human Resources?

Slide

Organize human resources

Performance Criteria for this Element are:

- Participate in staff selection
- Develop staff induction programs
- Organize work programs
- Develop teams to support work
- Provide for supervision of staff

Slide 61

Slide No	Trainer Notes
61.	Trainer identifies the Performance Criteria for this Element, as listed on the slide.

Slide

Staff selection

Participate in staff selection

- One of the key roles of human resources is to recruit new staff for an organisation.
- There are many steps associated with this process before a new staff members starts their first day of employment
- What is involved in this process?

Slide 62

Slide No	Trainer Notes

Slide

Identify sources of staff

Sources of staff

- Media advertisements
- Job agencies and recruitment agencies
- Internet recruitment
- Internal advertising
- Schools and trade colleges
- Industry network contacts
- Other staff
- Considering people who have already registered with you
- Participating in career fairs

Slide 65

Slide No	Trainer Notes
65.	Class Activity – Discussion • When would each of these sources be appropriate? • What are the advantages of each? • What are the disadvantages of each?

Slide

Develop and lodge job advertisements

What needs to be considered when preparing:

- Producing media advertisements
- Providing information to recruitment agencies

Slide 66

Slide No	Trainer Notes
66.	Trainer highlights for trainees points to consider when writing a job advertisement include: • Business name and contact details – check with the business first however because some establishments prefer not to advertise their name as it can cause too many calls to be made to the premises • Businesses may want to include the address and telephone number – or there may be a requirement not to do so • Job title and job description – providing a brief outline of the tasks required to be carried out. This may need to be highlighted as it is often the element of the advertisement that attracts the attention of potential applicants • Description of the ideal applicant – this must be based on the job description and detail experience, skills, personal qualities and qualifications. It is important this is an accurate and honest depiction of what is required as it enables the advertisement itself to screen out inappropriate applicants.

Slide

Develop and lodge job advertisements

What needs to be considered when:

- Producing media advertisements
- Providing information to recruitment agencies

Slide 67

Slide No	Trainer Notes
67.	Class Activity – Handouts Trainer assembles a wide range of newspaper job vacancy advertisements relevant to the trainee cohort and: • Distributes and discusses them • Asks trainees to evaluate them from the point of view of a person seeking employment: ▪ How good or bad are they? ▪ Do they provide enough information? ▪ What extra information should have been included? ▪ Which adverts seem most effective and why? • Highlights the media used • Examines the days of the week the advertisements are lodged.

Accept job applications

- Expect applications immediately
- Expect calls and queries from job-seekers and recruitment agencies
- Accept and file the applications
- Unsuitable applicants can be rejected at this stage
- A 'Letter of Thanks and Regret' should be sent
- Some businesses also return applicant's CV
- Some businesses retain all applications

Slide 68

Slide No	Trainer Notes
----------	---------------

68.

Class Activity – Discussion

- Discuss the importance of these steps.

Slide

Short-list applicants

Process of developing a list of applicants who will proceed through to the interview stage of the selection process:

Determining who will be short-listed may involve:

- Reading 'Covering letter' of application
- Brief reading of CV
- Brief reading of application form
- Advising them of interview
- Sending letters to unsuccessful persons

Slide 69

Slide No	Trainer Notes
69.	Class Activity – Discussion • Discuss the importance of these steps.

Slide

Check references and referees

Need to check:

- References
- Referees
- Statement of Employment

Slide 70

Slide No	Trainer Notes
70.	Class Activity – Handouts Trainer obtains a selection of references (with names of people blocked out) and: • Distributes them to trainees to read • Asks trainees their opinions about them – what do the references tell them about the person? • Points to the fact there is never a bad reference – they are all written in glowing terms.

Slide

Notify applicant of interview

Notifying an applicant about an interview should address:

- Date and time
- Location
- What they should bring with them
- Duration of interview
- Interview format

Slide 71

Slide No	Trainer Notes
71.	Class Activity – Discussion • How can you notify the person? • What do people need to bring to an interview? • What other information may be helpful?

Slide

Conduct job interview

Planning and preparation

- Booking room for interviews
- Determining duration of interviews
- Scheduling interviews with applicants
- Identifying who will conduct the interviews
- Pre-reading and digesting all appropriate résumés

Slide

Conduct job interview

Before interviews staff involved must ensure:

- Applicants have been notified and advised about what to bring
- Applications have been read
- Job Description and Specification have been read
- KSC have been read
- An appropriate interview location is ready
- Interviewee roles have been clarified

Slide 74

Slide No	Trainer Notes
74.	Class Activity – Guest Speaker Trainer arranges for a suitable HR manager (or similar) to attend and: • Discuss their views on interviewing applications for vacancies • Present details of the planning and preparation they do prior to an interview • Provide examples of documentation they use related to interviews • Give opinions and tips on effective interview techniques.

Slide

Conduct job interview

What should you do?

- Start of the interview
- Middle or main part of interview
- End of interview

Slide 75

Slide No	Trainer Notes
75.	Class Activity – Demonstration (Mock interview) Trainer arranges for experienced people (from the Training Institute or an industry workplace) to: • Attend class • Describe a job they will be interviewing for • Arrange the room as required – explaining why this is being done the way it is • Show/explain any prepared questions or documentation to be used throughout the demonstration • Conduct the interview – welcoming the ‘interviewee’, asking planned questions and follow-up questions, demonstrating techniques they apply when interviewing staff • De-brief after the mock interview – explaining what they did and why they did it • Answer questions from trainees. Trainer may elect to video-tape the mock interview for later analysis.

Apply relevant testing procedures

Testing is done to:

- Determine competency levels
- Prove health of the applicant
- Identify drugs or alcohol
- 'Profile' the person

Slide 76

Slide No	Trainer Notes
76.	Class Activity – Discussion • What are common tests that are undertaken in a hospitality environment? • What is the purpose for the test?

Slide

File application and interview documentation

Filing activities

- File documents
- Detail all 'Thanks and Regret' letters sent
- Forward all applications that 'just missed out' to Personnel or various department heads
- Photocopy and forward documents of successful applicants to HRD
- Notify departments as necessary regarding employment of a new person

Slide 77

Slide No	Trainer Notes
77.	Class Activity – Discussion • Why is it important to file all interview documents?

Slide

Choose successful applicant

Selecting the successful applicant

- Comparing the applicant with the job analysis, description and specification
- Reviewing the interview
- Consider impressions and opinions
- Rating the applicants into priority order using 'Interview Rating Sheet'
- Determining if an offer should be made

Slide 78

Slide No	Trainer Notes
78.	Class Activity – Show 'Interview Rating Sheet' • Review document • What should be in the document?

Slide

Notify successful applicants and make formal job offer

When the successful candidate has been selected they must be advised of this:

- A telephone call is the usual method
- A formal 'Letter of Offer/Appointment' should also be provided
- All enterprise policies and procedures must be complied with

Slide 79

Slide No	Trainer Notes

Notify successful applicants and make formal job offer

The Letter of Appointment

- Start date and time
- Start location
- Name of award they are being employed under
- Job classification and employment status
- Details of probationary period
- Leave entitlements
- Specified hours of work

Slide

Notify unsuccessful applicants

Most common method of advising unsuccessful candidates is by sending a Letter of Thanks and Regret:

- Date
- Thanks
- Name of position applied for
- Statement they have been unsuccessful
- Encouragement statements

Slide 82

Slide No

Trainer Notes

82.

Class Activity – Discussion

- Why is it important to notify unsuccessful applicants?

Slide

Follow-up as required

After an offer has been made to an applicant you may need to follow-up to:

- Obtain originals of documents
- Explain details of the offer
- Confirm offer has been received
- Offer a rejected offer to another applicant

Slide 83

Slide No	Trainer Notes
83.	Class Activity – Discussion • What activities are associated with each?

Slide

Plan the induction session

Considerations

- Timing
- Familiar face
- OHS considerations
- Materials
- Location

Slide 84

Slide No	Trainer Notes
84.	Class Activity – Discussion • What are other considerations? • What needs to be planned for an induction program?

Slide

Plan the induction

Formal induction and orientation sessions must address:

- Completion of necessary paperwork
- 'Need to know' information
- Tour of the workplace
- Meeting with management, supervisors and co-workers
- Allocation of uniform

Slide 85

Slide No	Trainer Notes
85.	Class Activity – Handouts Trainer obtains sample documentation as identified on this slide and: • Distributes to trainees • Discusses and explains their role • Tells trainees where these forms may be obtained.

Slide

Plan the induction

- Detailed department and position induction
- Expectations of the role
- Coverage of job description
- Copy of roster
- Enterprise-based terminology, acronyms and abbreviations
- Explanation of the operation of the business

Slide 86

- Safety and security issues
- Company benefits
- Workplace awards
- Performance appraisals
- Allocation of a 'buddy'

Slide 87

Slide No	Trainer Notes
87.	Class Activity – Handouts • Refer to handouts in Slide 85.

Slide

Conduct the induction session

When conducting an induction and orientation session:

- You only have once chance to make a positive impression
- Arrive early – never keep new staff waiting
- Welcome them
- Express appropriate sentiments

Slide 88

Slide No	Trainer Notes
88.	Class Activity – Excursion Trainer arranges for trainees to visit a local enterprise and: • Talk to management about staff recruitment, selection and induction and orientation sessions • View management offices where they work and see the facilities they have to work with • View relevant management policies and procedures related to staffing functions • Observe a hiring interview – if possible (or a mock interview) • Participate in a mock induction and orientation session.

Slide

Conduct the induction session

- Explain what orientation will cover
- Tell them how long it will take
- Encourage questions
- Stick to the plan for the session
- Be flexible
- Focus on the new employee
- Do not rush
- Do not drown the employee with information

Slide 89

Slide No	Trainer Notes

Slide

Conduct the induction session

- Provide personal insight
- Try to ensure privacy
- Answer all questions asked by new employee
- Read through important documents with them
- Avoid 'group' inductions
- Facilitate integration of new employee with existing structures and workforce
- Seek feedback on the induction and orientation

Organise work programs

Types of work programs

Work programs may include:

- Identification of workloads and work flows for each job
- Identification of legal and safety issues that apply
- Description of relevant service standards
- Allocation of necessary materials, safety equipment and resources to enable role completion
- Benchmarking of work and standards
- Employer expectations

Slide 91

What to plan for

Any aspect of work operations can be planned including:

- The procedures or systems that exist
- The workflow
- Gaps or overlaps in service provision
- The workload of staff
- The time it takes to do a task or job
- The job design of individual staff
- The level of customer satisfaction

Slide

Identify tasks to be completed

Ways to identify what needs to be done

- Personal experience
- Bookings/reservations
- Directives from management
- Day-to-day workplace problems
- Knowledge of external factors impacting on the business
- Personal observation of what staff are doing or not doing
- Feedback from staff, customers and supervisors

Slide 95

Slide

Prioritise work activities

Prioritising your tasks means that you will have to determine which tasks are the:

- Most important and should be done first
- Which ones can be left until later

Slide 97

Slide No	Trainer Notes
97.	Class Activity – General Discussion In your past experience: • What work activities do you need to do on a daily basis? • How do you prioritise your work activities? • Are you good at managing your time? • If so, how do you do it? • If not, why not and how could you be better at it? • Do you procrastinate? Why?

Slide

Prioritising work

Steps in prioritising work

The four basic steps in prioritising work are:

- Involve staff in the process wherever possible
- Make three lists:
 - Essential tasks
 - Non-essential tasks that add quality
 - Non-essential tasks that would be nice to do

Slide 98

Slide No	Trainer Notes
98.	Class Activity – Activity on Prioritising Work • Trainer to get the audience to pick a position • They are to list a range of tasks that need to be completed • They should decide on a priority order for task completion explaining the reasoning behind the order.

Slide

Prioritising work

Steps in prioritising work

- Compare the lists you have generated with the overall goals and objectives of the unit
- Adjust the lists accordingly, allocate the work and take action to achieve the lists in priority order

Slide

Organising workflow

- Workflow is basically the order in which work is best done
- Organising this involves determining the logical sequence of tasks
- The aim is to make sure the job is done efficiently and effectively

Slide 100

Slide No

Trainer Notes

100.

Class Activity – Questions

- How can you organise workflow?

Slide

Organising workflow

Things to take into account when organising workflow include:

- How long each individual task should take
- Recognition of staff needs and award requirements such as breaks
- The number of people to best achieve a result or task
- Occupational health and safety requirements
- The most logical order of tasks to avoid duplication and gaps in service
- The suggestions of staff who are actually doing the job

Slide 101

Slide No	Trainer Notes
101.	Class Activity – Discuss Points • Discuss points on organising workflow.

Slide

Delegate work to staff

In this workplace context, delegation has two meanings:

- It can mean the allocating of tasks to staff that are part of their normal duties
- It can also mean allocating some of your own duties to staff who are willing to take these on

Slide 102

Slide No	Trainer Notes
102.	Class Activity – Questions • What is delegation? • Why is it beneficial? • What duties can a manager delegate to staff to perform? • What can they not delegate? Why?

Slide

Delegate work to staff

Delegating tasks to staff that are part of their duties

- Be clear about the task to be done
- Explain why the task has to be done and in a certain way
- Choose an appropriate time to inform and explain delegation
- Provide whatever instructions are necessary in the correct sequence, explaining all of the steps

Slide 103

Slide No	Trainer Notes
103.	Class Activity – Discuss Points Discuss the steps associated with delegating tasks as part of their duties: • Make sure you are clear about the task to be done – if you don't know what you want done how can you expect to convey this to someone else? • If appropriate, explain why the task has to be done, and why it has to be done in the way you are specifying – clear communication is critical • Choose an appropriate time to inform the staff member about the delegation, and don't hurry the explanation • Provide whatever instructions are necessary in the correct sequence, explaining all of the steps.

Slide

Delegate work to staff

Delegating tasks to staff that are part of their duties

- Provide training and demonstration
- Continually encourage and check if the employee has any questions
- Check their understanding
- Give them positive feedback

Slide 104

Slide No	Trainer Notes
104.	Class Activity – Discuss Points Discuss the steps associated with delegating tasks as part of their duties: • Provide training and demonstration, as required • Continually check if the employee has any questions and encourage them to ask questions – ensure your replies underline you expect and encourage questions • Continually check the staff member genuinely understands what is being said and shown to them – you may ask them questions or get them to demonstrate what is required • Give them positive feedback – people operate better from a platform level of optimism and success, so make them positive and confident.

Slide

Clarify work allocation

The allocation of tasks can vary based on issues such as:

- Expected demand
- Nature of specific events
- VIP's
- Staff absences
- Customer/guest feedback
- Equipment problems
- Unexpected events
- Emergencies
- Special requests

Slide 105

Slide No	Trainer Notes
105.	Discussion • How will these affect the allocation of work? • How do you notify staff of these task allocations?

Slide

Communicate information to team members

Whilst communication and information may primarily come from managers, it is important to remember that all colleagues within a team will communicate and share information on a daily basis:

- What information do team members need?
- What is the best way to communicate this information?

Slide 106

Slide No

Slide

Supporting team members

Supporting team members

- Giving moral and verbal support
- Providing relevant training/coaching
- Obtaining more physical resources
- Getting approval for more time
- Advocating to management on behalf of the staff
- Supporting staff
- Soliciting and listening to their feedback
- Thanking them

Slide 107

Slide No	Trainer Notes
107.	Class Activity – Discussion • Why is it important to support staff? • What other types of support can be provided?

Slide

Monitor and control operations

Any aspect of work operations can be monitored with a view to improvement including:

- The procedures or systems
- The workflow
- Gaps or overlaps in service provision
- The workload of staff
- The time it takes to do a task or job
- Job design
- Level of customer satisfaction

Slide

Guidance and support

Managers need to guide and support staff in relation to their performance.

For guidance and support to be effective it needs to be:

- Be seen as a positive experience
- Provided when needed in a timely manner
- Tailor-made to suit the needs of the individual
- Provided willingly
- Aligned with promises made about support and guidance

Slide 113

Slide No	Trainer Notes
113.	Class Activity – Questions • How can you provide guidance and support? • How can you make guidance and support a positive experience?

Slide

Guidance and support

115.	Class Activity – Questions • Discuss the action involved in the points mentioned in this slide • Provision of opportunities to discuss work challenges – which can include staff meetings and briefings as well as having an 'open door' policy towards staff issues. Some properties may establish 'toolbox' meetings where staff meet and discuss work issues together • Provision on confirmation of organisational objectives and key performance objectives – which can include provision of updates, clarification of relevant points and explanation of 'issues arising' • Ensuring adequate resources are applied to identify staff performance needs – the venue must provide whatever resources were promised and must make sure they are available when needed. Resources can include physical resources, knowledge, time, staffing and money • Representation of staff interests in other forums – this includes taking staff issues to senior management/business owners and acting as their advocate in this context. This can also include speaking on behalf of staff when complaints arrive from customers.

Class Activity – General Discussion

Ask general questions:

- How can you develop performance?
- How do you assess performance?

Slide

Develop human resource performance

Performance Criteria for this Element are:

- Develop staff appraisal system
- Notify staff in regard to implementation of internal staff appraisals
- Implement staff appraisals in-line with established protocols
- Support staff as a result of staff appraisals

Slide 121

Slide No	Trainer Notes
121.	Trainer identifies the Performance Criteria for this Element, as listed on the slide.

Slide

Performance appraisals

Performance assessment

- Assessing a person's performance based on a range of performance indicators
- It has looked at WHAT the person is actually doing

Performance appraisal

- Performance appraisal is the process of evaluating and developing the work performance of employees so organisational goals and objectives are achieved

Slide 122

Slide No	Trainer Notes
122.	Class Activity – Discussion • Trainer to discuss the differences between these two activities.

Slide

Performance appraisals

Performance appraisal

This involves the manager and the staff member and discussing the performance assessment including:

- Identify and discuss aspects of performance, both positive and negative
- Understand why performance is conducted a specific way
- Identify causes for performance not meeting standard
- Discuss and identify how performance can be improved

Slide 123

Slide No	Trainer Notes
123.	Class Activity – Questions • Why are these aims important?

Slide

Purpose of performance appraisals

There are many reasons why formal performance appraisals are undertaken in organisations:

- To improve and maintain performance
- To correct performance deficits
- To reward, recognise and compensate
- To strengthen relationships between supervisor and subordinates
- To share information

Slide 124

Slide No	Trainer Notes
124.	Class Activity – Discussion Discuss why these reasons are important. (see answers below) There are many reasons why formal performance appraisals are undertaken in organisations: • To improve and maintain performance • To correct performance deficits • To reward, recognise and compensate • To strengthen relationships between supervisor and subordinates – performance appraisals are a good way for the manager and subordinate to discuss issues concerning work. If done correctly, it should mean the subordinate and the supervisor have a better understanding of each other's position • To share information – by giving information to employees and getting feedback from employees on methods and processes. By getting feedback, the manager might be able to improve processes.

Slide

Benefits of performance appraisals

Performance appraisals should benefit:

- The organisation's effectiveness
- The supervisor/manager
- The employee and their family
- The customer
- Suppliers

Slide 125

Slide

Performance appraisals forms

Forms may be used when conducting a performance appraisal, either as the primary document or to supplement specific appraisal documents.

Regardless of the documents used it is important that two parties are active in the appraisal process:

- The person conducting the appraisal
- The person being appraised
- As such, a document should be prepared which will be completed by both parties

Slide 128

Slide No

Trainer Notes

128.

Class Activity – Discussion

- What documents can you use?
- Why is it important for both parties to complete?

Slide

Performance appraisals forms

Types of performance appraisal forms

There are two main performance appraisal forms that can be used. These are for:

- Appraisal of staff
- Appraisal of managers

The structure and marking criteria of each form is different to reflect the nature of their job role.

Slide 129

Slide No	Trainer Notes
129.	Class Activity – Discussion • How would these differ?

Slide

Performance appraisals forms

Staff appraisal format

Staff are traditionally employed to complete specific tasks and hence the format will focus on this.

The appraisal focuses on four parts:

- Technical skills
- Performance skills
- Goal setting
- Management appraisal

Slide 130

Slide No	Trainer Notes
130.	Class Activity – Discuss Aspects of Staff Appraisal Form • Technical skills – the actual knowledge and skills they need to undertake their job role. They originate from a Job Description • Performance skills – these are personal characteristics that a person needs to do their job successfully. This originates from a Job Specification • Goal setting – this is to be completed by the staff member. It enables them to identify where they feel they need to improve and what personal development training they may desire to completed • Management appraisal – this allows staff to appraise managers. Remember this is a two way communication system and most management would also like to receive feedback on their performance and they can help staff success in their roles.

Slide

Staff performance appraisals forms

Staff appraisal format

The marking is aimed at what percentage of competency in a specific criteria.

As different staff within a department will have different skill levels, it focuses on what staff:

- Can successfully do
- What still needs to be achieved for full competency

Methods to share assessment information

- A formal letter
- An information kit
- A specific meeting
- An email
- An information session

Slide 133

Slide No	Trainer Notes
133.	Class Activity – Discuss Discuss the importance of each piece of information identified in the slide: • A formal letter - outlining the assessment process, dates and aims of assessment • An information kit – containing instructions, background information and a booklet of assessment questions for completing • A specific meeting – this may be for all staff members or with an individual person. This is normally used to explain the process to persons conducting the assessment • An email – quick and easy process to share information • An information session – this may be for persons to be assessed, explaining them of the assessment requirements.

Slide

Slide

Staff appraisal outcomes

Types of staff appraisal outcome actions

In its most simple form a staff appraisal will identify two types of performance:

- Performance which meets or exceeds standards and expectations
- Performance which does not meet standards and expectations

The approach taken in response to these performances will vary depending on the severity of performance, either positive or negative.

Slide 138

139.	Class Activity – Questions • How would you handle these outcomes?

Slide

Coaching and training

Where staff performance is below requirements, one effective way of addressing this situation is to provide appropriate coaching or training.

To address staff performance deficiencies, you may elect to:

- Provide on-the-job training
- Mentor the staff
- Coach the staff
- Involve the employee in off-the-job training
- Provide formal in-house training, off-the-job

Slide 140

Slide No	Trainer Notes
140.	Class Activity – Questions • What on-the-job training programs exist or could be developed? • How can you mentor staff? • How can you coach staff? • What off-the-job training programs exist?

Slide

Follow up changes in the workplace

Regardless of the action chosen as a result of the performance appraisal, it is the role of the manager to follow up the performance of staff in the workplace to see:

- If the desired changes have actually taken place
- The current progress towards them
- If the action plan is still relevant

Slide 141

Slide No	Trainer Notes
141.	Class Activity – Questions • How can you follow up changes in the workplace? • Who should do this? • When should it be done?

Slide

Follow up changes in the workplace

Following up

Obviously the follow-up will depend on what was originally contained in the action plan.

The two basic follow-up actions are:

- Checking that what was promised is happening
- Taking action to make sure things happen as planned

Slide

Follow up changes in the workplace

Follow up requirements

- Re-write the action plan
- Schedule another appraisal interview at an earlier time
- Extend timelines originally agreed on
- Include new tasks for the staff member as need dictate
- 'Sign off' on activities as they are completed
- Meet with others (co-workers, customers, other supervisors) to get feedback on the progress of the employee

Slide

Follow up changes in the workplace

Conducting a review with the staff member

At the pre-arranged date and time the review of the employee's performance should take place.

Points to ensure include:

- Provide the employee with sufficient notice of the session
- Prepare the venue for the review
- Obtain objective evidence regarding current employee performance

Slide 146

Slide No

Trainer Notes

Class Activity – Questions

- Why is a review with the staff member important?
- When is it best done?
- What information would you like at your disposal when conducting a performance follow up review with staff?

Slide

Follow up changes in the workplace

Conducting a review with the staff member

Allow the employee to comment on their opinion of:

- How their work has changed
- How effective the support provided by the employer has been
- What they think needs to be done into the future
- Give your opinion
- Record the review session

Slide

Professional development opportunities

One of the key characteristics of successful teams is the ability to recognise and provide training and development opportunities to staff:

- What training and development opportunities exist?

Slide 150

Slide No	Trainer Notes
150.	Discussion What are the benefits of providing these for: a) Owners b) Managers c) Staff members themselves d) Customers.

Slide

Professional development opportunities

Developing the 'skill set'

All team members must have the opportunity to improve their 'skill set' which aims at the development of:

- Knowledge
- Skills
- Attitudes

Slide 151

Slide No	Trainer Notes
151.	Discussion • Trainer to discuss the difference between these • Identify examples of different training sessions and how each of these points are developed • What is the best way to 'develop' each of these points?

Slide

Professional development opportunities

Staff training and staff development

- Staff training will be applied to address a need that has some immediacy to it
- Staff development has more of a future orientation and relates to skills and knowledge the staff member may need at some future date

Slide 152

Slide No	Trainer Notes
152.	Discussion • What are the benefits of each of these approaches? • What are examples of development programs for each of these?

Slide

Professional development opportunities

Professional development

Staff development is often referred to in another name: 'Professional development':
