Competency Based Assessment (CBA) – An Introduction for Assessors

Assessment is the process of identifying a participant's current knowledge, skills and attitudes sets against all elements of competency within a unit of competency.

Suggested Assessment Methods

For each unit of competency a number of assessment tools have been identified including:

- Work Projects
- Oral Questions
- Written Questions
- Third Party Statements
- Observation Checklists.

Instructions and Evidence Recording Sheets have been identified in this Assessment Manual for use by Assessors.

Alternative Assessment Methods

Whilst the above mentioned assessment methods are suggested assessment methods, the assessor may use an alternate method of assessment taking into account:

- a) The nature of the unit
- b) The strengths of participants
- c) The number of participants in the class
- d) Time required to complete assessments
- e) Time dedicated to assessment
- f) Equipment and resources required.

Alternate assessment methods include:

- Practical demonstrations
- Practical demonstrations in simulated work conditions
- Problem solving
- Portfolios of evidence
- Critical incident reports
- Journals
- Oral presentations
- Interviews
- Videos
- Visuals/slides/audiotapes

- Case studies
- Log books
- Projects and Role plays
- Group projects
- Recognition of Prior Learning.

Whilst there is no specific instruction or evidence collection documents for all the alternative assessment methods, assessors can record competency in the 'Other' section within the 'Competency Recording Sheet'.

Selection of Assessment Methods

Each assessor will determine the combination of Assessment Methods to be used to determine Competency for each Competency Unit on a student by student basis.

'Sufficient' evidence to support the 'Pass Competent'/'Not Yet Competent' decision must be captured.

In practice this means a minimum of 2 – 3 Assessment Methods for each candidate for each Competency Element is suggested.

At least one method should provide evidence of practical demonstration of competence.

The following assessment methods deemed to provide evidence of practical demonstration of competence include:

- Practical Work Projects
- Third Party Statement
- Observation Checklist.

Assessing Competency

Competency based assessment does not award grades, but simply identifies if the participant has the knowledge, skills and attitudes to undertake the required task to the specified standard.

Therefore, when assessing competency, an assessor has two possible results that can be awarded:

- 'Pass Competent' (PC)
- 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

Pass Competent (PC)

If the participant is able to successfully answer or demonstrate what is required, to the expected standards of the performance criteria, they will be deemed as 'Pass Competent' (PC).

The assessor will award a 'Pass Competent' (PC) if they feel the participant has the necessary knowledge, skills and attitudes in all assessment tasks for a unit.

Not Yet Competent' (NYC)

If the participant is unable to answer or demonstrate competency to the desired standard, they will be deemed to be 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

This does not mean the participant will need to complete all the assessment tasks again. The focus will be on the specific assessment tasks that were not performed to the expected standards.

The participant may be required to:

- a) Undertake further training or instruction
- b) Undertake the assessment task again until they are deemed to be 'Pass Competent'.

Regional Qualifications Framework and Skills Recognition System

The 'Regional Qualifications Framework and Skills Recognition System', also known as the 'RQFSRS' is the overriding educational framework for the ASEAN region.

The purpose of this framework is to provide:

- A standardised teaching and assessment framework
- Mutual recognition of participant achievement across the ASEAN region. This includes achievement in individual Units of Competency or qualifications as a whole.

The role of the 'RQFSRS' is to provide, ensure and maintain 'quality assurance' across all countries and educational providers across the ASEAN region.

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

Recognition of Prior Learning is the process that gives current industry professionals who do not have a formal qualification, the opportunity to benchmark their extensive skills and experience against the standards set out in each unit of competency/subject.

This process is a learning and assessment pathway which encompasses:

- Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC)
- Skills auditing
- Gap analysis and training
- Credit transfer.

Code of Practice for Assessors

This Code of Practice provides:

- Assessors with direction on the standard of practice expected of them
- Candidates with assurance of the standards of practice expected of assessors
- Employers with assurance of the standards maintained in the conduct of assessment.

The Code detailed below is based on the International Code of Ethics and Practice (The National Council for Measurement in Education [NCME]):

- The differing needs and requirements of the person being assessed, the local enterprise and/or industry are identified and handled with sensitivity
- Potential forms of conflict of interest in the assessment process and/or outcomes are identified and appropriate referrals are made, if necessary
- All forms of harassment are avoided throughout the planning, conducting, reviewing and reporting of the assessment outcomes

- The rights of the candidate are protected during and after the assessment
- Personal and interpersonal factors that are not relevant to the assessment of competency must not influence the assessment outcomes
- The candidate is made aware of rights and process of appeal
- Evidence that is gathered during the assessment is verified for validity, reliability, authenticity, sufficiency and currency
- Assessment decisions are based on available evidence that can be produced and verified by another assessor
- Assessments are conducted within the boundaries of the assessment system policies and procedures
- Formal agreement is obtained from both the candidate and the assessor that the assessment was carried out in accordance with agreed procedures
- The candidate is informed of all assessment reporting processes prior to the assessment
- The candidate is informed of all known potential consequences of decisions arising from an assessment, prior to the assessment
- Confidentiality is maintained regarding assessment results
- The assessment results are used consistently with the purposes explained to the candidate
- Opportunities are created for technical assistance in planning, conducting and reviewing assessment procedures and outcomes.

Instructions and Checklist for Assessors

Instructions

General instructions for the assessment:

- Assessment should be conducted at a scheduled time that has been notified to the candidate
- Facilitators must ensure participants are made aware of the need to complete assessments and attend assessment sessions
- If a participant is unable to attend a scheduled session, they must make arrangements with the Assessor to undertake the assessment at an alternative time
- At the end of the assessment the Assessor must give feedback and advise the participant on their PC/NYC status
- Complete the relevant documentation and submit to the appropriate department.

Preparation

- Gain familiarity with the Unit of Competency, Elements of Competency and the Performance Criteria expected
- Study details assessment documentation and requirements
- Brief candidate regarding all assessment criteria and requirements.

Briefing Checklist

- Begin the assessment by implementing the following checklist and then invite the candidate to proceed with assessment.

Checklist for Assessors

Prior to the assessment I have:	Tick (✓)	Remarks
Ensured the candidate is informed about the venue and schedule of assessment.
Received current copies of the performance criteria to be assessed, assessment plan, evidence gathering plan, assessment checklist, appeal form and the company's standard operating procedures (SOP).
Reviewed the performance criteria and evidence plan to ensure I clearly understood the instructions and the requirements of the assessment process.
Identified and accommodated any special needs of the candidate.
Checked the set-up and resources for the assessment.
During the assessment I have:
Introduced myself and confirmed identities of candidates.
Put candidates at ease by being friendly and helpful.
Explained to candidates the purpose, context and benefits of the assessment.
Ensured candidates understood the assessment process and all attendant procedures.
Provided candidates with an overview of performance criteria to be assessed.
Explained the results reporting procedure.
Encouraged candidates to seek clarifications if in doubt.
Asked candidates for feedback on the assessment.
Explained legal, safety and ethical issues, if applicable.
After the assessment I have:
Ensured candidate is given constructive feedback.
Completed and signed the assessment record.
Thanked candidate for participating in the assessment.

Instructions for Recording Competency

Specifications for Recording Competency

The following specifications apply to the preparation of Evidence Gathering Plans:

- A Competency Recording Sheet must be prepared for each candidate to ensure and demonstrate all Performance Criteria and Competency Elements are appropriately assessed. This Sheet indicates how the Assessor will gather evidence during their assessment of each candidate
- This Competency Recording Sheet is located at the end of the Assessment Plan
- It is the overriding document to record competency
- The Assessor may vary the Competency Recording Sheet to accommodate practical and individual candidate and/or workplace needs
- Assessor must place a tick (✓) in the 'Assessment Method' columns to identify the methods of assessment to be used for each candidate
- Multiple Competency Elements/Performance Criteria may be assessed at the one time, where appropriate
- The assessor and participant should sign and date the Competency Recording Sheet, when all forms of evidence and assessment have been completed
- The assessor may provide and feedback or clarify questions which the participant may have in regards to the assessment grade or findings
- All documents used to capture evidence must be retained, and attached to the Competency Recording Sheet for each candidate for each Competency Unit.

Instructions for Different Assessment Methods

Specifications for Work Project Assessment

These guidelines concern the use of work projects.

The work projects identified in the Training Manuals involve a range of tasks, to be performed at the discretion of the Assessor.

Work project tasks can be completed through any form of assessment as identified in the Trainer and Trainee Manuals and stated at the start of this section.

Assessors should follow these guidelines:

- Review the Work Projects at the end of each 'Element of Competency' in the Trainee Manual to ensure you understand the content and what is expected
- Prepare sufficient resources for the completion of work activities including:
 - Time – whether in scheduled delivery hours or suggested time participants to spend outside of class hours
 - Resources – this may involve technical equipment, computer, internet access, stationery and other supplementary materials and documents
- Prepare assessment location (if done in class) making it conducive to assessment
- Explain Work Projects assessment to candidate, at the start of each Element of Competency. This ensures that participants are aware of what is expected and can collate information as delivery takes place

- Assessors can use the following phrase as a guide (where an 'X' is identified, please input appropriate information):
 "At the end of each Element of Competency there are Work Projects which must be completed. These projects require different tasks that must be completed.
 These work projects are part of the formal assessment for the unit of competency titled X:
 ■ You are required to complete these activities:
 a) Using the 'X' method of assessment
 b) At 'X' location
 c) You will have 'X time period' for this assessment
 ■ You are required to compile information in a format that you feel is appropriate to the assessment
 ■ Do you have any questions about this assessment?"
- Commence Work Project assessment:
 - The assessor may give time for participants to review the questions at this time to ensure they understand the nature of the questions. The assessor may need to clarify questions
 - Participants complete work projects in the most appropriate format
 - Participants must submit Work Project evidence to the assessor before the scheduled due date
- Assessor must assess the participant's evidence against the competency standards specified in each Element of Competency and their own understanding. The assessor can determine if the participant has provided evidence to a 'competent' standard
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet
- Forward/file assessment record.

Specifications for Oral Question Assessment

These guidelines concern the use of oral questioning.

Assessors should follow these guidelines.

- Prepare Assessment Record for Oral Questioning. One record for each candidate:
 - Enter Student name
 - Enter Assessor name
 - Enter Location
- Familiarise self with Questions to be asked
- Prepare assessment location (table and chairs) making it conducive to assessment
- Explain Oral Questioning assessment to candidate, using the following phrase as a guide (where a 'X' is identified, please input appropriate information):
"These oral questions are part of the formal assessment for the unit of competency titled X.

There are X questions and you are required to answer all of them to the best of your ability and I will record whether or not you have answered correctly.

We have 60 minutes for this assessment.

- I will give you feedback at the end of the assessment
- Do you have any questions about this assessment?”
- Commence Oral Questioning assessment:
 - Complete Assessment Record for the Oral Questioning by:
 - a) Ticking PC or NYC, as appropriate
 - b) Entering ‘Remarks’ as required
 - c) Completing Oral Questioning within 60 minutes
- Complete Oral Questioning and provide feedback to candidate
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet
- Forward/file assessment record.

Specifications for Written Question Assessment

These guidelines concern the use of written questioning.

Assessors should follow these guidelines:

- Familiarise self with Questions and Answers provided
- Print and distribute copies of ‘Written Questions’ for participants. Ideally this should take place with adequate time for participants to answer all questions before the expected due date
- Explain Written Questioning assessment to candidate, using the following phrase as a guide (where a ‘X’ is identified, please input appropriate information):

“These written questions are part of the formal assessment for the unit of competency titled X.

There are X questions and you are required to answer all of them to the best of your ability.

You may refer to your subject materials, however where possible try to utilise your existing knowledge when answering questions.

Where you are unsure of questions, please ask the Assessor for further instruction. This may be answering the question orally or asking the assessor to redefine the question.

We have X time for this assessment:

- The due date for completion of this assessment is X
- On this date you must forward the completed questions to the assessor by X time on the date of X
- Do you have any questions about this assessment?”
- The assessor may give time for participants to review the questions at this time to ensure they understand the nature of the questions. The assessor may need to clarify questions
- Participants may record written answers (where possible)
- Participants must submit the written answers to the assessor before the scheduled due date

- Assessor must assess the participant's written answers against the model answers provided as a guide, or their own understanding. The assessor can determine if the participant has answered the questions to a 'competent' standard
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet
- Forward/file assessment record.

Specifications for Observation Checklist

These specifications apply to the use of the Observation Checklist in determining competency for candidates.

Only an approved assessor is authorised to complete the Observation Checklist.

The assessor is required to observe the participant, ideally in a simulated environment or their practical workplace setting and record their performance (or otherwise) of the competencies listed on the Observation Checklist for the Competency Unit.

To complete the Observation Checklist the Assessor must:

- Insert name of candidate
- Insert assessor name
- Insert identify of location where observations are being undertaken
- Insert date/s of observations – may be single date or multiple dates
- Place a tick in either the 'Yes' or 'No' box for each listed Performance Criteria to indicate the candidate has demonstrated/not demonstrated that skill
- Provide written (and verbal) feedback to candidate – as/if appropriate
- Sign and date the form
- Present form to candidate for them to sign and date
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet for candidate
- Forward/file Observation Checklist.

This source of evidence combines with other forms of assessment to assist in determining the 'Pass Competent' or 'Not Yet Competent' decision for the participant.

Specifications for Third Party Statement

These specifications relate to the use of a relevant workplace person to assist in determining competency for candidates.

The Third Party Statement is to be supplied by the assessor to a person in the workplace who supervises and/or works closely with the participant.

This may be their Supervisor, the venue manager, the Department Manager or similar.

The Third Party Statement asks the Supervisor to record what they believe to be the competencies of the participant based on their workplace experience of the participant. This experience may be gained through observation of their workplace performance, feedback from others, inspection of candidate's work etc.

A meeting must take place between the Assessor and the Third Party to explain and demonstrate the use of the Third Party Statement.

To complete the Third Party Verification Statement the Assessor must:

- Insert candidate name
- Insert name and contact details of the Third Party
- Tick the box to indicate the relationship of the Third Party to the candidate
- Present the partially completed form to the Third Party for them to finalise
- Collect the completed form from the Third Party
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet for candidate
- Forward/file Third Party Statement.

The Third Party must:

- Record their belief regarding candidate ability/competency as either:
 - Pass Competent = Yes
 - Not Yet Competent = No
 - Unsure about whether candidate is competent or not = Not Sure
- Meet briefly with the assessor to discuss and/or clarify the form.

This source of evidence combines with other forms of assessment to assist in determining the 'Pass Competent' or 'Not Yet Competent' decision for the candidate.

A separate Third Party Statement is required for each Competency Unit undertaken by the candidate.

- Management practices that do not allow reasonable adjustments to work processes
- Quality of service delivery to customers from diverse backgrounds
- Inequitable access to workplace training and development.

	Assessment Guide The following skills and knowledge must be assessed as part of this unit: • Knowledge of specific diversity issues which apply to the hotel and travel industry and which contribute to the industries' progress including benefits of productive diversity • Ability to apply cross-cultural communication skills with reference to the roles of leaders and managers including cross-cultural communication for: conflict resolution; problem solving, negotiation and motivation • Knowledge of legal issues that relate to diversity including equal employment opportunity and anti-discrimination • Ability to identify the need(s) and concerns of others • Ability to communicate effectively with a range of people from diverse backgrounds relevant to position and role • Ability to appropriately deal with cross-cultural misunderstandings. Linkages To Other Units • Work in a socially diverse environment • Manage and resolve conflict situations • Monitor workplace operations • Lead and manage people • Recruit and select staff. Critical Aspects of Assessment Evidence of the following is essential: • Ability to demonstrate use of effective communication skills to build and maintain interpersonal relationships with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds • Ability to demonstrate effective communication with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds

- Ability to demonstrate dealing with cross-cultural misunderstandings
- Demonstrate understanding of the role of leaders and managers in encouraging diversity in the hotel and travel industries
- Demonstrate application of cross-cultural communication techniques as they apply to leaders and managers
- Knowledge of specific cultural issues that might apply in a particular hotel and travel industry context
- Consistency of performance across a range of situations that demonstrates knowledge, understanding and skill in implementing the principles and practices of managing diversity.

Context of Assessment

This unit may be assessed on or off the job:

- Assessment should include practical demonstration of the ability to manage workplace diversity either in the workplace or through a simulation activity, supported by a range of methods to assess underpinning knowledge
- Assessment must relate to the individual's work area, job role and area of responsibility
- Assessment must include project or work activities that allow the candidate to respond to multiple and varying workplace diversity issues relevant to work area, job role and area of responsibility that allow the candidate to demonstrate knowledge and awareness of diversity issues in the workplace and how to manage such issues.

Resource Implications

Training and assessment to include access to a real or simulated workplace; and access to workplace standards, procedures, policies, guidelines, tools and equipment.

Assessment Methods

The following methods may be used to assess competency for this unit:

- Case studies
- Observation of practical candidate performance
- Oral and written questions
- Portfolio evidence
- Problem solving
- Role plays
- Third party reports completed by a supervisor
- Project and assignment work.

Key Competencies in this Unit

Level 1 = competence to undertake tasks effectively

Level 2 = competence to manage tasks

Level 3 = competence to use concepts for evaluating

Key Competencies	Level	Examples
Collecting, organising and analysing information	1	Identify different cultural beliefs and values and typical diversity issues
Communicating ideas and information	3	Communicate the benefits of promoting workplace diversity to work team

	Planning and organising activities	2	Identify ways to improve workplace practices; organise work allocations to meet different cultural needs; make reasonable adjustments to work practices to accommodate the specific needs of a person with a disability
	Working with others and in teams	3	Work cooperatively with team members from diverse backgrounds and build positive team spirit
	Using mathematical ideas and techniques	1	Calculate whether the diversity of the workforce reflects overall diversity in the community
	Solving problems	3	Apply conflict resolution and communication skills to resolve conflict and/or misunderstandings within the work team; develop a diversity plan that identifies diversity issues and problems and methods to overcome them
	Using technology	1	Use the internet to research diversity issues

Answers to written questions

Manage workplace diversity

D1.HML.CL10.11

D1.HRM.CL9.02

D2.TRM.CL9.13

The following are model answers only – Trainers/Assessors must use discretion when determining whether or not an answer provided by a Student is acceptable or not.

1. In your own words describe/define ‘workplace diversity’.

Answer should address:

Workplace diversity is a concept:

- Underpinning Equal Employment Opportunity and Equity principles – which may be:
 - A legal requirement
 - A moral obligation
- Requiring planning for successful and effective implementation – in terms of ‘Diversity’:
 - Strategies
 - Policies
 - Procedures/SOPs
- Referring to a blend/mix of people from different backgrounds – as opposed to a group of homogenous people
- Acquiring increasing importance, significance and acceptance – as employers realise the many benefits it brings to businesses
- Providing a range of perspectives – on:
 - Problems
 - Opportunities
 - Decisions and action the business takes
- Highlighting the principle of ‘inclusion’/‘inclusivity’.

2. List six elements/dimensions of workplace diversity.

- Age
- Class
- Disability
- Education
- Ethnicity
- Family-related issues
- Gender.

3. Describe six actions managers/supervisors can take to role model appropriate workplace behaviour that demonstrates respect for diversity.

- Realising all their actions and communications can be seen/heard by others – who will infer values into what is done
- Creating a suite of ‘diversity’ documents – to underpin the implementation of workplace diversity
- Dealing with unacceptable behaviour – whenever they see it, hear it and/or otherwise become aware of it
- Acknowledging good work by staff – in relation to encouraging, embracing and working with diversity
- Avoiding unacceptable behaviour or language – which runs contrary to diversity and ‘inclusion’ principles
- Celebrating successes – where the business has reaped a reward/benefit as a result of following a strategy of workplace diversity
- Offering training to others – to help them understand the role of diversity in business and how it can benefit not only the organisation but also all the workers within it as well as the customers
- Creating a genuinely diverse workforce – through application of structured/strategic actions.

4. Identify three ways group identity might influence things the members of the group do in a work situation.

- The way they act/behave in the workplace – towards each other, other teams/groups and towards management and customers
- How they speak/talk to others while at work – especially workers from another group/team, customers and management/owners
- The way and the extent to which they communicate/share information in the business – between teams, with customers and with management
- Their dress standards – and the extent they comply with imposed guidelines/requirements for personal presentation of staff
- Compliance levels – with workplace policies and procedures/general requirements, the extent they strive to achieve goals/objectives set for the team and/or the business, and the degree to which they are prepared to align with legally-imposed obligations/mandatory obligations.

5. Describe three activities which will help create a work climate where group identities do not inhibit/negatively impact workplace performance or the attainment of individual career goals.

- Commit to an inclusive workforce – the business needs to determine it is genuinely committed to the concept/principles of diversity and equity
- Initiate a team to develop the protocols to support and underpin the diversity initiative – in terms of writing/creating the necessary documentation and workplace frameworks to enable diversity to exist and flourish
- Develop a Diversity Strategy – to guide how the organisation will address workplace diversity and what it will do to achieve the targets and goals it sets for itself within that Strategy
- Develop a suite of Policies – to support the Diversity Strategy giving guidance and direction about how the Strategy will be implemented in the workplace defining and describing terms, responsibilities, monitoring, reporting and other operational imperatives
- Including all diversity policies in the Staff Handbook – and providing each workers with a copy of this as part of their Induction and Orientation
- Writing/re-writing the public statements of the organisation to reflect the sentiments and direction espoused by the Diversity Strategy and supporting Diversity policies – and create a workplace culture of mutual respect and inclusion
- Making someone responsible for implementation of the initiative – so there is ownership of the innovation
- Initiating/including formal workplace training for all staff – on diversity in the workplace
- Actively identifying diversity issues which are negatively impacting workers in the business – through a formal auditing or investigation process
- Working immediately to address diversity issues – as revealed by the formal auditing or investigation process
- Ensuring adequate resourcing for the diversity initiative – in terms of time, money, staffing and physical resources
- Encouraging all workers to participate – and to become actively engaged with the innovation
- Getting managers/owners to talk about diversity – and make public statements to staff about their commitment to it and what they will do to implement and sustain it as genuine workplace practice
- Implementing a ‘zero tolerance’ policy/approach – to all breaches of acceptable behaviour, languages or relevant workplace policies.
- Integrating achievement of personal goals with the attainment of organisational targets/objectives – so there is a win-win outcome
- Creating ‘workplace champions’ – of staff who have demonstrated a commitment to the diversity process and a capacity to implement appropriate requirements.

6. In your own words describe what is meant by ‘merit-based’ employment of people.

Answer must address:

- Hiring or promoting the ‘best person for the job’ – based on their skills and knowledge
- Ignoring irrelevant factors – such as looks, gender, age, race, religion, sexuality)when making staffing decisions
- Not allowing favouritism, prejudice or personal bias to influence or determine decisions made about individual staff members
- Using a competitive process selection process where applicants compete against each other – as opposed to selection/decisions being made on the basis of hunches or bigotry
- Making decisions which are based on selection (or other relevant) criteria and not on a whim or on other irrelevant factors – so there is consistency and fairness across all decisions made
- Making decisions which are transparent – and able to be justified, explained and/or defended.

7. Employment policies always comprise three standard policies: identify these three policies by name and then illustrate how one of these should be written to encourage/support workplace diversity.

The three policies are:

- Recruitment of staff
- Selection of staff
- Promotion of staff.

No model answer for remainder of question as it will depend on the illustration/example provided.

8. Name five keys in the process when planning practices to demonstrate respect for workplace diversity.

- Ensuring the policies which have been written reflect/flow from the Diversity Strategy – so there is alignment between these documents
- Reading and gaining a comprehensive understanding of all the diversity policies for which practices are to be written
- Networking with ‘relevant others’ (other organisations, industry bodies and government agencies)
- Involving the workforce in the planning process
- Allocating sufficient resources to the process
- Setting timelines and schedules – for development activities
- Identifying the support needed for staff
- Determining consequences for non-compliance with SOPs.

9. Describe five considerations in the development of workplace practices to support diversity.

- Writing drafts of SOPs – based on input from:
 - Staff
 - Legislated obligations which must be complied with
 - Management
- Presenting draft SOPs to stakeholders – in order they:
 - Remain engaged with the process
 - Can identify where and how their input/thoughts have been integrated into the drafts SOPs which have been prepared
 - Have an opportunity to provide comment/feedback for the purposes of revisions
- Revising the drafts documents – so that:
 - Legitimate comment is accepted and incorporated into documentation
 - Transparency and accountability of the process can be seen by all
 - Staff can see the process is not being rushed
- Making sure the practices which are written support the stated intentions, guidelines and directions contained in each of the diversity policies – there needs to be alignment between:
 - Diversity Strategy and the diversity policies
 - The diversity policies and the diversity practices/SOPs
- Re-presenting revised drafts – so:
 - Staff can see their input has been accommodated
 - Staff can approve the document as the Final Draft – subject to any changes which may need to be made at this stage
- Submitting approved and revised draft to management – for their approval as the basis for:
 - Producing the Final approved version of the SOPs
 - Circulating the Final approved version to staff and trainers
 - Lodging the SOPs on the business intranet
 - Incorporating the SOPs in Staff Handbooks and Induction and Orientation programs.

10. Give five examples of work practices/SOPs which demonstrate respect for diversity.

- Acknowledging religious and cultural celebrations
- Appropriately allocating duties to particular staff members – based on their individual characteristics
- Culturally appropriate mixing of staff
- Training employees in a range of issues
- Considering customers with special needs
- Addressing workplace communication
- Using personal differences of staff within the organisation
- Tackling identified workplace barriers
- Preparing and developing appropriate issue resolution procedures
- Initiating flexible work practices
- Incorporating the wearing of national or religious dress with staff uniforms required by the organisation.

11. List five examples of the provision of workplace support to employees to enable them to genuinely embrace diversity in relation to both co-workers and customers.

- Delivering formal staff training courses to all operational staff
- Delivering training to management-level staff
- Conducting practical sessions/training
- Providing regular forums/meeting opportunities for staff to discuss the initiative
- Making 'Diversity' a standing agenda item at meetings/briefings
- Encouraging staff to be self-reflective on their implementation of protocols
- Developing a framework/infrastructure to support staff activities
- Providing coaching to individuals and small groups as the need to do so is identified and the opportunity to do so occurs
- Making sure promised/planned resources and support are actually being provided
- Having an open-door policy for staff
- Responding immediately to genuine problems identified as a result of implementation of the diversity initiative
- Holding regular reviews of diversity policies and procedures.

12. Identify six ways to identify the skills, knowledge and potential available to an organisation through its diverse workforce.

- Reviewing the CVs and job applications of staff – to gain a context for each employee in terms of their background, experience and qualifications
- Reviewing internal performance management records of individual employees – to match identified workplace capacity with each worker
- Reviewing internal training records – to identify the staff who have successfully completed on-the-job training and other similar PD activities
- Talking to individual workers – and asking them about their skills and knowledge, and about their aspirations and where they see themselves being able to make a contribution to the business.
- Speaking with supervisors – about their workers to gain their perspective into the abilities each workers brings with them
- Speaking with co-workers – to ask them about the skills and knowledge of their colleagues
- Conducting trade tests – to evaluate the current ability of workers in designated practical skills
- Observing the performance of all workers – as they perform their roles and responsibilities using a checklist to record demonstrated skills.

13. Illustrate with reference to an example how it might be possible to use employee diversity in the workplace to enhance organisational performance.

No model answer.

14. In your own words describe ‘productive diversity’.

Answer needs to address:

‘Productive diversity’ can be seen as:

- An accepted and acknowledged economic strategy which intentionally leverages diversity within a business (or country) to benefit the business (or country)
- Focussing on domestic business and international business/trade
- An initiative/concept that values and respect the diverse nature of all people in society and aligns with and supports the principles of equity and social and economic justice
- Encouraging utilisation of the diverse skills to benefit of the worker, their colleagues, the business and its customers.

15. Give six examples of the benefits an organisation may gain from engaging with workplace diversity.

- Demonstrated evidence of Equity principles the organisation may espouse
- More innovation
- Better customer service
- More efficient and effective operation of the business
- Businesses are increasingly operating with a global market and a diverse workforce optimises accessing these markets and engaging with those customers
- Higher staff retention rates
- More varied, valuable and viable staff
- Better problem-solving
- Lower staff-related expenditures
- Enhanced reputation/image of the business.

16. List six ways to promote the benefits of productive diversity.

- Making a formal presentation to management – so they are aware of the potential available
- Advising new employees of the organisation's commitment to diversity – and part of standard Induction and Orientation
- Verbally informing staff about the benefits diversity brings – as staff may be reluctant to embrace the concept and/or unaware of the many benefits it can bring
- Placing posters around the workplace – to extol the virtues of workplace diversity to other staff, customers and the organisation
- Celebrating successful/profitable outcomes which were generated as result of the diversity initiative by the business – so everyone can 'see it works'
- Encouraging staff to participate – by explaining what they can do to engage with the concept
- Making 'diversity' a standing topic' as staff meetings – to keep it 'front and centre' in the minds of staff.

17. Provide ten examples of practices which will enable management to demonstrate implementation of the principles of diversity management.

- Treating people as they should and need to be treated – it is a reality of diversity that treating everyone fairly will mean treating some people differently
- Expecting people to be different – and accepting, acknowledging, valuing and respecting their differences
- Realising the way a person looks is not a predictor of how they will behave – as a worker or as a customer
- Recruiting employees from all dimensions of diversity
- Including ‘diversity’ as a topic for managers who are being internally trained
- Supporting staff to become the best they can be regardless of their background, origins or characteristics
- Promoting and integrating representatives from all under-represented groups into key positions throughout the business – in-keeping with the principles of ‘affirmative action’
- Taking whatever action is necessary to help ensure employees achieve and maintain a suitable ‘work-life balance’
- Benchmarking diversity for their organisation
- Strategically managing the employees within the organisation from each identified diversity dimension
- Complying with any legal obligations imposed by legislation in this regard
- Setting targets for diversity
- Using the concept of ‘Diversity Champions’
- Ensuring ongoing commitment to diversity
- Promoting and ensuring inclusive practices – in all aspects of the operation of the business as this applies to staff, customers and other stakeholders
- Actively managing the relationships which may occur as a result of a diverse workforce
- Being prepared to conduct (and pay for) research on diversity issues
- Taking prompt action to resolve diversity issues
- Canvassing options for innovation in relation to managing diversity within the organisation
- Avoiding narrow, stereotyped views of workers and people in general
- Being flexible and open to using different approaches – to staff rostering and management.

18. Explain why it is necessary to address LLN issues when seeking to implement the concept of workplace diversity.

Answer must address:

It is important to address LLN issues in relation to workplace diversity for a variety of reasons such as:

- Inability to speak or read the language of the organisation can prevent individuals from:
 - Making initial applications for job vacancies – and so discriminate against those who do not speak the language of the company
 - Understanding and following instructions:
 - From supervisors
 - Written on forms, tickets and general documentation
 - Effectively responding to customer enquiries and providing comprehensive and relevant information:
 - Making and processing sales
 - Accessing and using internal records, information and/or databases
 - Creating itineraries, tickets and general travel documentation
 - Total engagement with the enterprise and with other employees.
- Poor literacy levels function to exclude a certain cohort of people from the workplace – who may have otherwise have outstanding other skills, knowledge and experience which could be of enormous benefit to the business
- Adequate levels of numeracy and arithmetic skills are a standard pre-requisite for all staff engaged in jobs where cash handling, sales activities, ticketing, the preparation of quotations and general financial transactions are required.

19. Identify five ways to identify LLN barriers which may exist for staff in relation to workplace diversity.

- Conducting a workplace diversity audit
- Talking to individual staff
- Analysing workplace documentation
- Identifying behaviours potentially indicating staff have language, literacy and/or numeracy issues
- Checking with customers to determine their levels of satisfaction with LLN abilities of employees
- Using a trained LLN specialist
- Reviewing the performance management records of individual staff
- Observing staff as they perform their everyday workplace roles.

20. Identify five basic requirements for effectively addressing identified language, literacy and numeracy barriers in a diverse workforce.

- A range of approaches – as opposed to a single initiative
- Use of options which best suit the individual needs of the learner – to deliver only the training/knowledge required
- Methodology matching individual learning styles and preferences – rather than a ‘one method fits all’ approach
- Clear direction about the objectives of the learning
- Accommodation of individual and cultural differences
- Supportive environment.

21. Give six examples of options and approaches available for managing identified LLN issues in relation to workplace diversity.

- Using an external training provider to provide specialist LLN support – to deliver on-the-job or off-the-job courses
- Employing within the business an LLN specialist or teacher – with suitable qualifications coupled with relevant industry knowledge to give proper context to training
- Using support available through government agencies with responsibility for immigration, employment and/or industry development – specialist government funded programs are sometimes available to support targeted staff development in this area
- Obtaining input from local community support and/or voluntary services – who sometimes operate free programs for people of certain backgrounds
- Encouraging workers to generate personal word lists – as relevant to their workplace tasks and responsibilities
- Providing dictionaries in the workplace (other than computer-based Thesaurus) – to allow/encourage people to look up words and their spelling
- Using a translator – to translate forms, instructions, checklists and other workplace documentation into required other languages
- Providing completed/model documents – for employees to use as models/templates for documents they are required to complete
- Generating scripts – for staff to use as a model for:
 - Dealing with customers, making sales and providing standard information
 - Handling predictable situations which occur regularly
- Making sure those with LLN problems are given opportunities to verbally discuss requirements of job tasks – as opposed to simply relying on email, signs or other documents to communicate critical information and work instructions/directions
- Using visual communication to supplement the spoken and/or written word – including explanatory charts and tables, audio, video and pictures.
- Notifying staff at job interviews of the support available for anyone with LLN needs – and reinforcing this with more detailed advice about the help provided by the employer as part of the standard induction and orientation program

- Nominating a staff member to be the primary contact person for any employee with an LLN issue – as distinct from nominating a management-level person
- Issuing awards – to staff who achieve designated competency in their LLN development
- Buddying-up staff – with more competent workers so they receive ongoing and individualised assistance from a colleague who can demonstrate the required competency and has relevant experience in the job/role.

22. Most workplace problems that arise from diversity issues can be traced back, in some form, to one of two root causes: what are they?

- Problems with communication – such as:
 - Lack of understanding
 - Unintentional use of an objectionable word/phrase
 - Accidental use of inappropriate body language
 - Traditional barriers to communication interfering with the communication process – for example matters relating to language, dialect and idiom used
- Conflicting beliefs and values – these can relate to:
 - Personal values varying between different people – that is, not that one is ‘right’ or ‘wrong’ but they are simply different
 - Differing religious beliefs – and cultural attitudes
 - A lack of understanding and genuine knowledge about the ‘other person’ and who they are
 - Stereo-typing – believing the actions or beliefs of one or two people represent the actions and beliefs of all the people in that cohort
 - Lack of tolerance – for other people
 - Peer-group pressure – whereby pressure is applied by colleagues to ridicule or be intolerant of anyone who is different.

23. Describe five actions which can be taken to identify diversity-based workplace problems.

- Personal observation of what is happening in the workplace – which highlights the need to walk around the business and watch what is occurring and what is not occurring with a view to identifying problems
- Talking to staff – talking to staff on a one-on-one basis provides them with the perfect opportunity to raise any issues which are of concern to them
- Having an open door policy – which encourages staff to come and speak to management, either before/after work or during work hours
- Having a standing item at staff meetings/briefings of ‘workplace issues’ and/or ‘inclusion’ or ‘diversity’ – and encouraging employees to raise any issue of concern
- Putting in a suggestion box or similar – where staff can drop in an anonymous (or signed note) describing an issue affecting them or others

- Asking other staff (trainers, other supervisors) to pass on any diversity issues mentioned to them – by the people they work with
- Analysing staffing records – to identify absenteeism, high staff turnover rates and requests to be re-assigned with different co-workers.

24. Present four examples of problems which can present in the workplace as a result of diversity-related issues.

- Direct and indirect discrimination – such as discriminatory systems and practices being used commonly throughout the business as the ‘accepted way’ things are done
- Harassment of individuals or groups
- Racism – in terms of:
 - Use of unacceptable words, terms or phrases to describe members of a certain race
 - Avoiding contact with people of a certain race – or ostracising them
- Under-representation of minority groups
- Employment of people from diverse backgrounds concentrated at lower salary levels – rather than being proportionately represented across all pay scales
- Illogical and irrelevant barriers within the organisation – preventing groups comprising members from diverse backgrounds progressing to higher salary levels and/or positions of authority
- Culturally inappropriate workplaces – which do not genuinely and in a practical way respect and value diversity
- Buildings that do not facilitate access to people with a physical disability – or which take no action to alter the work environment to accommodate disabilities
- Management practices that do not allow reasonable adjustments to work processes
- Inequitable access to workplace resources and opportunities.

25. Provide five examples of activities which could/should be taken to resolve workplace diversity-related problems.

- Ensuring all employees are aware of the policies and procedures that apply
- Providing necessary training and/or refresher courses for staff
- Planning and preparing
- Consulting with employees to develop standard issue resolution protocols for responding to identified instances of problems caused by diversity issues
- Counselling employees through discussion and/or training – who fail to:
 - Comply with agreed requirements
 - Abide by standard requirements
- Disciplining staff – as or if the need to do so arises
- Restructuring the organisation
- Reviewing and revising unacceptable protocols.

26. In relation to workplace diversity, what is an ‘acceptance gap’ and when does one occur?

An ‘acceptance gap’ occurs when the organisation has introduced initiatives to improve (in this case) diversity awareness and there are people within the business who are resistant to the change, meaning they are reluctant to implement requirements or refuse to do so.

27. Name three ways the need for training to handle diversity-based problems might be identified in an organisation.

The need for training can be identified through:

- Internal identification of issues – this occurs when:
 - Teams determine their own need for assistance
 - Individuals self-disclose a need
- Management identification – based on:
 - Personal observation
 - Monitoring of workplace activities/events and occurrences
 - Introduction of new legislation which must be complied with
- Customer feedback – based on issues raised in relation to:
 - Complaints and compliments received
 - Customer satisfaction surveys.

28. Describe and differentiate between ‘personal coaching’ and ‘lateral coaching’.

Personal coaching:

- Involves the supervisor or manager providing the coaching
- Builds personal credibility with employees
- Demonstrates interest in individuals and commitment to the diversity initiatives.
- Lateral coaching:
 - Involves referring the matter to another person – such as a peer/colleague/co-worker of the person requiring the coaching
 - Is a legitimate action for supervisors/managers to take as it saves their time and shows faith/confidence in the person who has been delegated the task
 - Has proven to be effective as employees often learn better from their peers than they do from anyone else.

29. What three techniques might a supervisor use when providing on-the-spot coaching to a staff member?

- Verbal discussion
- Demonstration
- Role plays.

30. Describe five tips to optimise the effectiveness of coaching delivery.

- Actively listening to the employee/s involved – using active listening techniques
- Providing a suitable context – so the content occurs within a relevant framework and not in isolation from reality
- Encouraging questions – so the learner feels welcome to challenge what is said to them and/or free to request additional information or advice
- Giving pragmatic advice – in order that the crux of the issue can be reasonably addressed and a workable response/solution can be implemented
- Including active learning techniques – where the staff member is actively engaged in doing something as part of the coaching/learning process, as opposed to being an ‘inactive recipient’ of knowledge
- Giving feedback – on comments, progress and opinions of the staff member in relation to the question/issue being coached
- Using/building on what the learner says – to demonstrate their individual needs/issues have been understood and are being addressed
- Praising and congratulating the person – for any/all efforts and achievements relevant to the discussion/topic.

31. Identify five practices essential to effective workplace mentoring in relation to diversity issues.

- The mentor and the mentee should share the same characteristics/backgrounds – to make them more relatable to each other
- The process needs to be voluntary – the mentor has to agree to be the mentor and the mentee has to agree to be mentored: there can be no compulsion attached to successful mentoring
- There needs to be agreement about what the objectives of the mentoring arrangement is intended to achieve – there must be agreement on clear goals/outcomes to be achieved
- Both parties have the right to cancel or quit the arrangement – if they want to without being coerced into continuing with it
- Adequate resources need to be provided – especially time (mentoring must occur within working hours), and a private place free of interruptions and other people who can overhear what is being said
- Maintaining privacy and confidentiality – what is said within the mentoring process remains within that process and is not shared outside with others.
