Competency Based Training (CBT) and assessment an introduction for trainers

Competency

Competency refers to the ability to perform particular tasks and duties to the standard of performance expected in the workplace.

Competency requires the application of specified knowledge, skills and attitudes relevant to effective participation, consistently over time and in the workplace environment.

The essential skills and knowledge are either identified separately or combined.

Knowledge identifies what a person needs to know to perform the work in an informed and effective manner.

Skills describe the application of knowledge to situations where understanding is converted into a workplace outcome.

Attitude describes the founding reasons behind the need for certain knowledge or why skills are performed in a specified manner.

Competency covers all aspects of workplace performance and involves:

- Performing individual tasks
- Managing a range of different tasks
- Responding to contingencies or breakdowns
- Dealing with the responsibilities of the workplace
- Working with others.

Unit of Competency

Like with any training qualification or program, a range of subject topics are identified that focus on the ability in a certain work area, responsibility or function.

Each manual focuses on a specific unit of competency that applies in the hospitality workplace.

In this manual a unit of competency is identified as a 'unit'.

Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace requirement and includes:

- Knowledge and skills that underpin competency
- Language, literacy and numeracy
- Occupational safety and health requirements.

Each unit of competency must be adhered to in training and assessment to ensure consistency of outcomes.

Element of Competency

An element of competency describes the essential outcomes within a unit of competency.

The elements of competency are the basic building blocks of the unit of competency. They describe in terms of outcomes the significant functions and tasks that make up the competency.

In this manual elements of competency are identified as an 'element'.

Performance criteria

Performance criteria indicate the standard of performance that is required to demonstrate achievement within an element of competency. The standards reflect identified industry skill needs.

Performance criteria will be made up of certain specified skills, knowledge and attitudes.

Learning

For the purpose of this manual learning incorporates two key activities:

- Training
- Assessment.

Both of these activities will be discussed in detail in this introduction.

Today training and assessment can be delivered in a variety of ways. It may be provided to participants:

- On-the-job – in the workplace
- Off-the-job – at an educational institution or dedicated training environment
- As a combination of these two options.

No longer is it necessary for learners to be absent from the workplace for long periods of time in order to obtain recognised and accredited qualifications.

Learning Approaches

This manual will identify two avenues to facilitate learning:

Competency Based Training (CBT)

This is the strategy of developing a participant's competency.

Educational institutions utilise a range of training strategies to ensure that participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required for successful:

- Completion of the training program or qualification
- Implementation in the workplace.

The strategies selected should be chosen based on suitability and the learning styles of participants.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

This is the strategy of assessing competency of a participant.

Educational institutions utilise a range of assessment strategies to ensure that participants are assessed in a manner that demonstrates validity, fairness, reliability, flexibility and fairness of assessment processes.

Flexibility in Learning

It is important to note that flexibility in training and assessment strategies is required to meet the needs of participants who may have learning difficulties. The strategies used will vary, taking into account the needs of individual participants with learning difficulties. However they will be applied in a manner which does not discriminate against the participant or the participant body as a whole.

Catering for Participant Diversity

Participants have diverse backgrounds, needs and interests. When planning training and assessment activities to cater for individual differences, trainers and assessors should:

- Consider individuals' experiences, learning styles and interests
- Develop questions and activities that are aimed at different levels of ability
- Modify the expectations for some participants
- Provide opportunities for a variety of forms of participation, such as individual, pair and small group activities
- Assess participants based on individual progress and outcomes.

The diversity among participants also provides a good reason for building up a learning community in which participants support each other's learning.

Participant Centred Learning

This involves taking into account structuring training and assessment that:

- Builds on strengths – Training environments need to demonstrate the many positive features of local participants (such as the attribution of academic success to effort, and the social nature of achievement motivation) and of their trainers (such as a strong emphasis on subject disciplines and moral responsibility). These strengths and uniqueness of local participants and trainers should be acknowledged and treasured
- Acknowledges prior knowledge and experience – The learning activities should be planned with participants' prior knowledge and experience in mind
- Understands learning objectives – Each learning activity should have clear learning objectives and participants should be informed of them at the outset. Trainers should also be clear about the purpose of assignments and explain their significance to participants
- Teaches for understanding – The pedagogies chosen should aim at enabling participants to act and think flexibly with what they know
- Teaches for independent learning – Generic skills and reflection should be nurtured through learning activities in appropriate contexts of the curriculum. Participants should be encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning

- Enhances motivation – Learning is most effective when participants are motivated. Various strategies should be used to arouse the interest of participants
- Makes effective use of resources – A variety of teaching resources can be employed as tools for learning
- Maximises engagement – In conducting learning activities, it is important for the minds of participants to be actively engaged
- Aligns assessment with learning and teaching – Feedback and assessment should be an integral part of learning and teaching
- Caters for learner diversity – Trainers should be aware that participants have different characteristics and strengths and try to nurture these rather than impose a standard set of expectations.

Active Learning

The goal of nurturing independent learning in participants does not imply that they always have to work in isolation or solely in a classroom. On the contrary, the construction of knowledge in tourism and hospitality studies can often best be carried out in collaboration with others in the field. Sharing experiences, insights and views on issues of common concern, and working together to collect information through conducting investigative studies in the field (active learning) can contribute a lot to their eventual success.

Active learning has an important part to play in fostering a sense of community in the class. First, to operate successfully, a learning community requires an ethos of acceptance and a sense of trust among participants, and between them and their trainers. Trainers can help to foster acceptance and trust through encouragement and personal example, and by allowing participants to take risks as they explore and articulate their views, however immature these may appear to be. Participants also come to realise that their classmates (and their trainers) are partners in learning and solving.

Trainers can also encourage cooperative learning by designing appropriate group learning tasks, which include, for example, collecting background information, conducting small-scale surveys, or producing media presentations on certain issues and themes. Participants need to be reminded that, while they should work towards successful completion of the field tasks, developing positive peer relationships in the process is an important objective of all group work.

Competency Based Training (CBT)

Principle of Competency Based Training

Competency based training is aimed at developing the knowledge, skills and attitudes of participants, through a variety of training tools.

Training Strategies

The aims of this curriculum are to enable participants to:

- Undertake a variety of subject courses that are relevant to industry in the current environment
- Learn current industry skills, information and trends relevant to industry
- Learn through a range of practical and theoretical approaches
- Be able to identify, explore and solve issues in a productive manner

- Be able to become confident, equipped and flexible managers of the future
- Be 'job ready' and a valuable employee in the industry upon graduation of any qualification level.

To ensure participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required to meet competency in each unit of competency in the qualification, a range of training delivery modes are used.

Types of Training

In choosing learning and teaching strategies, trainers should take into account the practical, complex and multi-disciplinary nature of the subject area, as well as their participant's prior knowledge, learning styles and abilities.

Training outcomes can be attained by utilising one or more delivery methods:

Lecture/Tutorial

This is a common method of training involving transfer of information from the trainer to the participants. It is an effective approach to introduce new concepts or information to the learners and also to build upon the existing knowledge. The listener is expected to reflect on the subject and seek clarifications on the doubts.

Demonstration

Demonstration is a very effective training method that involves a trainer showing a participant how to perform a task or activity. Through a visual demonstration, trainers may also explain reasoning behind certain actions or provide supplementary information to help facilitate understanding.

Group Discussions

Brainstorming in which all the members in a group express their ideas, views and opinions on a given topic, is a free flow and exchange of knowledge among the participants and the trainer. The discussion is carried out by the group on the basis of their own experience, perceptions and values. This will facilitate acquiring new knowledge. When everybody is expected to participate in the group discussion, even the introverted persons will also get stimulated and try to articulate their feelings.

The ideas that emerge in the discussions should be noted down and presentations are to be made by the groups. Sometimes consensus needs to be arrived at on a given topic. Group discussions are to be held under the moderation of a leader guided by the trainer. Group discussion technique triggers thinking process, encourages interactions and enhances communication skills.

Role Play

This is a common and very effective method of bringing into the classroom real life situations, which may not otherwise be possible. Participants are made to enact a particular role so as to give a real feel of the roles they may be called upon to play. This enables participants to understand the behaviour of others as well as their own emotions and feelings. The instructor must brief the role players on what is expected of them. The role player may either be given a ready-made script, which they can memorise and enact, or they may be required to develop their own scripts around a given situation. This technique is extremely useful in understanding creative selling techniques and human relations. It can be entertaining and energising and it helps the reserved and less literate to express their feelings.

Simulation Games

When trainees need to become aware of something that they have not been conscious of, simulations can be a useful mechanism. Simulation games are a method based on "here and now" experience shared by all the participants. The games focus on the participation of the trainees and their willingness to share their ideas with others. A "near real life" situation is created providing an opportunity to which they apply themselves by adopting certain behaviour. They then experience the impact of their behaviour on the situation. It is carried out to generate responses and reactions based on the real feelings of the participants, which are subsequently analysed by the trainer.

While use of simulation games can result in very effective learning, it needs considerable trainer competence to analyse the situations.

Individual /Group Exercises

Exercises are often introduced to find out how much the participant has assimilated. This method involves imparting instructions to participants on a particular subject through use of written exercises. In the group exercises, the entire class is divided into small groups, and members are asked to collaborate to arrive at a consensus or solution to a problem.

Case Study

This is a training method that enables the trainer and the participant to experience a real life situation. It may be on account of events in the past or situations in the present, in which there may be one or more problems to be solved and decisions to be taken. The basic objective of a case study is to help participants diagnose, analyse and/or solve a particular problem and to make them internalise the critical inputs delivered in the training. Questions are generally given at the end of the case study to direct the participants and to stimulate their thinking towards possible solutions. Studies may be presented in written or verbal form.

Field Visit

This involves a carefully planned visit or tour to a place of learning or interest. The idea is to give first-hand knowledge by personal observation of field situations, and to relate theory with practice. The emphasis is on observing, exploring, asking questions and understanding. The trainer should remember to brief the participants about what they should observe and about the customs and norms that need to be respected.

Group Presentation

The participants are asked to work in groups and produce the results and findings of their group work to the members of another sub-group. By this method participants get a good picture of each other's views and perceptions on the topic and they are able to compare them with their own point of view. The pooling and sharing of findings enriches the discussion and learning process.

Practice Sessions

This method is of paramount importance for skills training. Participants are provided with an opportunity to practice in a controlled situation what they have learnt. It could be real life or through a make-believe situation.

Games

This is a group process and includes those methods that involve usually fun-based activity, aimed at conveying feelings and experiences, which are everyday in nature, and applying them within the game being played. A game has set rules and regulations, and may or may not include a competitive element. After the game is played, it is essential that the participants be debriefed and their lessons and experiences consolidated by the trainer.

Research

Trainers may require learners to undertake research activities, including online research, to gather information or further understanding about a specific subject area.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

Principle of Competency Based Assessment

Competency based assessment is aimed at compiling a list of evidence that shows that a person is competent in a particular unit of competency.

Competencies are gained through a multitude of ways including:

- Training and development programs
- Formal education
- Life experience
- Apprenticeships
- On-the-job experience
- Self-help programs.

All of these together contribute to job competence in a person. Ultimately, assessors and participants work together, through the 'collection of evidence' in determining overall competence.

This evidence can be collected:

- Using different formats
- Using different people
- Collected over a period of time.

The assessor, who is ideally someone with considerable experience in the area being assessed, reviews the evidence and verifies the person as being competent or not.

Flexibility in Assessment

Whilst allocated assessment tools have been identified for this subject, all attempts are made to determine competency and suitable alternate assessment tools may be used, according to the requirements of the participant.

The assessment needs to be equitable for all participants, taking into account their cultural and linguistic needs.

Competency must be proven regardless of:

- Language
- Delivery Method
- Assessment Method.

Assessment Objectives

The assessment tools used for subjects are designed to determine competency against the 'elements of competency' and their associated 'performance criteria'.

The assessment tools are used to identify sufficient:

- a) Knowledge, including underpinning knowledge
- b) Skills
- c) Attitudes

Assessment tools are activities that trainees are required to undertake to prove participant competency in this subject.

All assessments must be completed satisfactorily for participants to obtain competence in this subject. There are no exceptions to this requirement, however, it is possible that in some cases several assessment items may be combined and assessed together.

Types of Assessment

Allocated Assessment Tools

There are a number of assessment tools that are used to determine competency in this subject:

- Work projects
- Written questions
- Oral questions
- Third Party Report
- Observation Checklist.

Instructions on how assessors should conduct these assessment methods are explained in the Assessment Manuals.

Alternative Assessment Tools

Whilst this subject has identified assessment tools, as indicated above, this does not restrict the assessor from using different assessment methods to measure the competency of a participant.

Evidence is simply proof that the assessor gathers to show participants can actually do what they are required to do.

Whilst there is a distinct requirement for participants to demonstrate competency, there are many and diverse sources of evidence available to the assessor.

Ongoing performance at work, as verified by a supervisor or physical evidence, can count towards assessment. Additionally, the assessor can talk to customers or work colleagues to gather evidence about performance.

A range of assessment methods to assess competency include:

- Practical demonstrations
- Practical demonstrations in simulated work conditions
- Problem solving
- Portfolios of evidence
- Critical incident reports
- Journals
- Oral presentations
- Interviews
- Videos
- Visuals: slides, audio tapes
- Case studies
- Log books
- Projects
- Role plays
- Group projects
- Group discussions
- Examinations.

Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning is the process that gives current industry professionals who do not have a formal qualification, the opportunity to benchmark their extensive skills and experience against the standards set out in each unit of competency/subject.

Also known as a Skills Recognition Audit (SRA), this process is a learning and assessment pathway which encompasses:

- Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC)
- Skills auditing
- Gap analysis and training
- Credit transfer.

Assessing competency

As mentioned, assessment is the process of identifying a participant's current knowledge, skills and attitudes sets against all elements of competency within a unit of competency. Traditionally in education, grades or marks were given to participants, dependent on how many questions the participant successfully answered in an assessment tool.

Competency based assessment does not award grades, but simply identifies if the participant has the knowledge, skills and attitudes to undertake the required task to the specified standard.

Therefore, when assessing competency, an assessor has two possible results that can be awarded:

- Pass Competent (PC)
- Not Yet Competent (NYC).

Pass Competent (PC)

If the participant is able to successfully answer or demonstrate what is required, to the expected standards of the performance criteria, they will be deemed as 'Pass Competent' (PC).

The assessor will award a 'Pass Competent' (PC) if they feel the participant has the necessary knowledge, skills and attitudes in all assessment tasks for a unit.

Not Yet Competent' (NYC)

If the participant is unable to answer or demonstrate competency to the desired standard, they will be deemed to be 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

This does not mean the participant will need to complete all the assessment tasks again. The focus will be on the specific assessment tasks that were not performed to the expected standards.

The participant may be required to:

- a) Undertake further training or instruction
- b) Undertake the assessment task again until they are deemed to be 'Pass Competent'.

UNIT TITLE: MANAGE INTOXICATED PERSONS		NOMINAL HOURS: 10
UNIT NUMBER:	D1.HBS.CL5.17 D1.HSS.CL4.07
UNIT DESCRIPTOR: This unit deals with the skills and knowledge required to manage intoxicated persons within the hotel industries workplace context.
ELEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE CRITERIA		UNIT VARIABLE AND ASSESSMENT GUIDE
Element 1. Determine the level of intoxication 1.1 Assess intoxication levels of customers 1.2 Offer assistance to intoxicated customers politely 1.3 Refer difficult situations to an appropriate person within or outside of the establishment 1.4 Seek assistance from appropriate people for situations which pose a threat to safety or security of colleagues, customers or property Element 2. Apply appropriate procedures 2.1 Analyse situation carefully 2.2 Apply procedures appropriate to the situation and in accordance with organisational policy 2.3 Explain the position to the customer using appropriate communication skills 2.4 Assist the guest/customer to leave the premises if necessary		Unit Variables The Unit Variables provide advice to interpret the scope and context of this unit of competence, allowing for differences between enterprises and workplaces. It relates to the unit as a whole and facilitates holistic assessment. This unit applies to all industry sectors that require to manage intoxicated persons within the labour divisions of the hotel and travel industries and may include: 1. Food and Beverage Service 2. Front Office 3. Housekeeping. Assess intoxication levels may include: • Observation of changes in behaviour • Monitoring noise levels • Monitoring drink orders • Slowing service. Assistance may include: • Organising transport for customers wishing to leave

Element 3. Comply with legislation 3.1 Assess situations 3.2 Deal with intoxicated persons appropriately 3.3 Deal with underage drinkers 3.4 Comply with legislative requirements	• Suggesting staying in a room in the hotel • Assisting customers to leave. Appropriate person may include: • Manager • Security personnel on site • Police • Ambulance. Appropriate people may include: • Manager • Security personnel on site • Police • Ambulance. Procedures may include: • Verbal warning • Asking persons to leave the premises • Calling for appropriate assistance. Appropriate communication skills may relate to: • Giving explanation to customers throughout the event/incident • Providing suggestions and/or alternatives to the customer • Using a quiet and respectful tone of voice at all times • Using tact and discretion • Employing conflict resolution skills.

	Assess situations may relate to: • Customers behaving in an intoxicated manner • Customers behaving in a violent or disorderly manner • Under-age persons. Deal with intoxicated persons may relate to: • Providing suggestions and/or alternatives to the customer/guest • Asking customer/guest to leave the premises • Refusing service of alcohol. Deal with underage drinkers may relate to: • Checking identification • Refusing service of alcohol • Tactfully asking under-age person in restricted areas to leave. Assessment Guide The following skills and knowledge must be assessed as part of this unit: • Knowledge of the effects of alcohol and factors which influence effects • Knowledge of legal requirements for alcohol service and consumption • Knowledge of the benefits in creating a responsible licensed drinking environment to self, colleagues and customer/guests • Knowledge of ways of assessing intoxication of customer/guests. Linkages To Other Units • Prepare and serve cocktails • Process liquor sales at a bar facility
--	--

	• Operate a bar facility • Manage responsible service of alcohol. Critical Aspects of Assessment Evidence of the following is essential: • Demonstrated understanding of legal requirements and the principles of managing intoxicated persons • Demonstrated ability to manage intoxicated persons using appropriate communication, conflict resolution and anger management techniques • Demonstrated ability to offer customer/guests assistance appropriate to situation and level of responsibility. Context of Assessment This unit may be assessed on or off the job: • Assessment should include practical demonstration either in the workplace or through a simulation activity, supported by a range of methods to assess underpinning knowledge • Assessment must relate to the individual's work area or area of responsibility • Assessment should include practical demonstration of the ability to manage intoxicated persons either in the workplace or through a simulation activity, supported by a range of methods to assess underpinning knowledge • Assessment must include project or work activities that allow the candidate to respond to multiple and varying customer/guest service and communication situations that require the candidate to manage intoxicated persons. Resource Implications Training and assessment to include access to a real or simulated workplace; and access to workplace standards, procedures, policies, guidelines, tools and equipment.

Assessment Methods

The following methods may be used to assess competency for this unit:

- Case studies
- Observation of practical candidate performance
- Oral and written questions
- Portfolio evidence
- Problem solving
- Role plays
- Third party reports completed by a supervisor
- Project and assignment work.

Key Competencies in this Unit

Level 1 = competence to undertake tasks effectively

Level 2 = competence to manage tasks

Level 3 = competence to use concepts for evaluating

	Key Competencies	Level	Examples
	Collecting, organising and analysing information	2	Assess customer/guest condition
	Communicating ideas and information	2	Apply intervention techniques to manage intoxicated persons
	Planning and organising activities	2	Plan appropriate action to take
	Working with others and in teams	2	Ensure that colleagues are aware of planned interventions and agree on course of action to be taken.
	Using mathematical ideas and techniques	0
	Solving problems	2	Defuse conflict
	Using technology	0

Assessment for this unit may include:

- Oral questions
- Written questions
- Work projects
- Workplace observation of practical skills
- Practical exercises
- Formal report from supervisor.

Class Activity – General Discussion

Ask general questions:

- What is intoxication?
- What causes intoxication?
- What is an acceptable level of intoxication?
- How do you handle someone who is intoxicated?

Slide

Determine the level of intoxication

Performance Criteria for this Element are:

- Assess intoxication levels of customers
- Offer assistance to intoxicated customers politely
- Refer difficult situations to an appropriate person within or outside of the establishment
- Seek assistance from appropriate people for situations which pose a threat to safety or security of colleagues, customers or property.

Slide

Alcohol

- Many hospitality venues serve alcohol in their various food and beverage outlets
- It is part of most cultures that alcohol is served, with or without meals
- Whilst for the most parts customers are able to enjoy themselves and drink in a responsible manner, this is not always the case.

Class Activity – Questions and Tour of bar

- What is alcohol?
- How is it made?

The trainer should take the audience to a bar or to a location that has a large variety of alcoholic beverages.

- What types of alcoholic drinks are there?

Slide

Alcohol

- The intoxicating ingredient in alcoholic beverages is known as ethyl alcohol or pure alcohol
- This ingredient is contained in all alcoholic drinks
- However the level of concentration differs between drinks.

Slide 17

Slide No	Trainer Notes
17.	Class Activity – Questions • Which alcoholic drinks are stronger than others? • Why is this the case?

Slide

Alcohol

In order to make measurement as uniform as possible, the agreed convention for standardizing drinks is 'grams of pure alcohol'.

18.

Class Activity – Questions

- Why is it important to have a standard measure for alcohol?

Slide

Alcohol by volume

Different drinks will also have some different strengths.

This is referred to as 'alcohol by volume'.

Examples include:

- Beer: normally 3 – 5 %
- Wine: normally 12 – 14%
- Spirits: normally 37 – 43%.

Slide 19

Slide No	Trainer Notes
19.	Class Activity – Questions • What is the ABV of other alcoholic drinks?

Slide

Standard drink

A “standard” drink will always contain a given amount of pure alcohol, regardless of whether it is beer, wine or spirits.

Slide 20

Class Activity – Questions

- What is the volume for a standard drink? (This will change depending on the drink)

Slide

Standard drink

- A standard drink is commonly defined as a beverage that contains 10 grams of pure alcohol
- This may vary between 8 and 14 grams in different countries
- Some countries do not identify a 'standard drink'.

Slide

Standard drink

As a general rule, a standard drink can be defined as:

- 30 mls of spirits
- 285 mls of full strength beer
- 100 mls of wine.

Determining 'standard drink'

A formula for working out how many grams of alcohol / standard drinks in a beverage is:

$$\frac{\{\text{Amount of drink (ml)} \times \text{Strength of drink (ABV)}\} \times 8}{1000}$$

Slide 25

Slide No	Trainer Notes

Slide

Effects of alcohol

It is still important to remember that alcohol:

- Depresses the brain's functions
- Which leads to changes in a person's behaviour.

Slide 27

Slide No	Trainer Notes
27.	Class Activity – Questions • What changes in behaviour take place? • How does alcohol change your behaviour?

Slide

Effects of alcohol

Therefore as a staff member within the hospitality industry, it is important that you ensure customers:

- Consume alcohol in a sensible manner
- Understand the effect alcohol has on people.

Slide 29

29.	Class Activity – Questions How can you ensure customers: • Consume alcohol in a sensible manner? • Understand the effect alcohol has on people?

Slide

Alcohol and the body

Alcohol entering body

- Alcohol, when consumed it is normally swallowed and goes into the stomach
- The stomach breaks down food and drink before passing it to the small intestine
- It is then absorbed into the bloodstream
- The less food eaten, the quicker it is absorbed.

Slide 30

Slide

Alcohol and the body

Alcohol entering body

- The bloodstream then carries the alcohol to the brain
- This process takes about 5 minutes
- It starts to affect the function of the brain including:
 - Judgement
 - Inhibitions.

Alcohol affects people differently

In essence, alcohol affects different people in different ways due to:

- Speed of drinking
- Strength of drink
- Person's sex
- Person's weight
- Amount of food eaten
- Tolerance to alcohol.

Slide 33

Slide No	Trainer Notes
33.	Class Activity – Discuss why alcohol affects people differently • Speed of drinking • Strength of drink - the blood alcohol concentration (BAC) • Person's sex - women are more affected than men • Person's weight - a small person is more affected than a big person • Amount of food eaten - a person who has empty stomach is more affected than a person who has eaten a big meal • Tolerance to alcohol - a person who drinks rarely will appear more affected than a person who drinks regularly.

Slide

Monitoring intoxication

As a staff member, it is important to:

- Know the early symptoms of intoxication
- Refuse to serve such customers well before they become obviously drunk.

Slide 34

Slide No	Trainer Notes
34.	Class Activity – Questions • Why is this role of staff members to monitor? • What consequences exist for the organisation and individual staff members if patrons become intoxicated?

Slide

Monitoring intoxication

As alcohol consumption increases it:

- Worsens customer's physical and mental functioning
- Makes them less likely to be able to make decisions about their own well being.

This is why it is up to the server to decide who has had enough to drink, not the drinking customer.

Slide 35

Alternatively half measures may be suggested when serving spirits ● Offer water – water is free of charge in most facilities. You may suggest a customer having a glass of water between alcoholic drinks or for a specific period of time ● Slowing down service – try to delay the service of drinks to a person, however this should not be obvious as it may frustrate the customer ● Advise other staff – as to the amount of drinks the person has had or any concerns which you may have.

Slide

Refer matters to appropriate people

It must be remembered, that the health and safety of staff, other customers and the intoxicated person themselves is the primary objective when handling instances involving intoxication.

Slide

Establishing a safe venue and atmosphere

The manager plays a pivotal role in ensuring the venue is safe for all staff and patrons to enjoy.

They have control over:

- What will be determined acceptable behaviour and actions within a venue
- How it should be run to ensure patrons can enjoy the facility.

Slide 59

Slide No	Trainer Notes
59.	Class Activity – Questions • What would you consider to be acceptable behaviour and actions? • What measures would you put into place to ensure patrons can enjoy the facility?

Slide

Establishing a safe venue and atmosphere

Their decisions and actions guide the atmosphere of a venue.

In essence the atmosphere is the general mood or feeling of a place.

It influences the:

- Behaviour and actions of customers
- The way they drink
- Their ongoing behaviour.

Slide 60

Slide No

Trainer Notes

60.

Class Activity – Questions

- How do create a safe and responsible drinking environment?

Slide 62

Slide No	Trainer Notes
62.	Class Activity – Questions • What influence can management and staff have? • How can you promote drinking behaviour? • How can you encourage drinking behaviour? • How can you control drinking behaviour?

Slide

Drinking behaviour

Drinking behaviour depends on three different factors:

- The drink
- The drinker
- The environment.

Removing or changing any one of these factors will alter the drinking behaviour.

Slide 63

Slide No	Trainer Notes
63.	Class Activity – Discuss the three factors and how you can influence them? • The drink - the amount and strength of alcohol • The drinker - the characteristics of the person drinking the alcohol and his or her state of mind and personal circumstances • The environment - the atmosphere and prevailing rules of the establishment where the drinking is taking place. This could be a sports area, dancing area or a quieter dining or bistro area. The layout of the premises, whether there are more people sitting or standing, the lighting and the music are all things that create the drinking environment.

Slide

Steps when handling intoxicated patrons

When handling intoxicated persons, there are a number of approaches that can be taken, depending on the individual situation and severity of the problem.

Slide

Steps when handling intoxicated patrons

The following T-A-K-E C-A-R-E steps can help resolve matters involving intoxicated patrons.

- Tell early
- Avoid put-downs
- Keep calm
- Ever courteous
- Clarify refusal
- Alternatives
- Report
- Echo.

Slide 82

Slide No	Trainer Notes
82.	Class Activity – Explain these steps Tell early If staff are aware of early signs of intoxication, they are able to help provide assistance to customers which enable them to still enjoy their experience. Some of these types of assistance were identified in Section 1.1. Avoid put-downs You must be respectful in your approach with people. Do not judge them or talk down to them. Keep calm Whilst it is not uncommon for intoxicated persons to talk in a rude manner to you, remember you are just doing your job and try not to take the comments personally. Try to use a calm and controlled voice. You don't want to use loud or threatening words or tones which can further escalate the problem. Ever courteous Regardless of the way that you may be treated by a specific customer, you must respect the customer and be professional and polite. Don't be confrontational and demeaning about the person. Your role is to explain why you are taking a certain approach. Normally this involves identifying how a person may be breaking the law.

Clarify refusal

You need to explain why a person may be refused a beverage, entry into the premises or the right to remain on the premises. Be practical in your explanation and stick to the facts. Don't get emotional or personal about the intoxicated patron. You may merely state that at this time, the law requires them to follow a certain action. You may want to remind the person they are welcome back when they abide by the law.

Alternatives

If handled in a prompt manner, a staff member will be able to provide and explain a range of alternatives including switching to soft drinks or eating a meal, which will allow the customer to remain on the premises. At least you have placed some responsibility back in the customer's hands in relations to their actions.

Report

Ensure other people are aware of what is happening. For legal reasons you may be required to keep a written record of events as they happen and the approach taken.

Echo

You may wish to notify a friend of the intoxicated person why certain actions are taking place. They may be in a more controlled state and understand the situation more clearly. They can also become an ally when dealing with the intoxicated person.

If the customer is a regular, you may wish to explain your actions and the reasons behind it when they next return and in a clearer frame of mind to avoid a re-occurrence.

Slide

Handling complaints

- There will always be complaints that will be brought to the attention of staff and management

Handling potential problem situations

Games or Sports

To help reduce potential problems:

- Have a set of house rules for everyone to play by
- Put a clear, fair system in place for how to book games and how to determine who plays next
- Ensure the area is well staffed to spot any potential problems
- Put in place a deposit system so equipment is returned.

Slide

Asking customers to leave premises

Whilst it is unreasonable to ask every patron who is showing even the smallest sign of intoxication to leave, it is essential that a person will be asked to leave who:

- Is using or threatening violence
- Is disturbing the enjoyment of other patrons
- Is disorderly or not abiding by premises rules
- Is breaking the law
- Is using disgusting, profane or foul language.

Slide 93

Slide

Asking customers to leave premises

Steps when asking someone to leave

- Final warning
- Notifying friends
- Identify transportation
- Arrange assistance
- Explain why the person is being asked to leave.

Slide 94

Slide No	Trainer Notes
94.	Class Activity – Discuss and role play someone being asked to leave the premises Steps when asking someone to leave • Final warning - The first step may be to give someone a final warning explaining their actions may lead to them being asked to leave • Notifying friends – you may wish to notify a friend of the intoxicated person what is happening. Intoxicated people are more likely to listen to their own friends than those of authority • Identify transportation – you may wish to arrange a taxi for the person or identify suitable transportation, whether it is with one of their friends. Whilst it is not always a legal requirement, you do not want an intoxicated person in a situation where they are roaming the streets or trying to drive themselves home. Not only does this cause potential risk to the community, but may have legal ramifications on the organisation • Arrange assistance – before a person is being asked to leave you may wish to call upon others to either assist, monitor or actually undertake the process • Explain why the person is being asked to leave – be professional and explain to the person why they must leave the premises. Normally notifying them that they are breaking the law is enough information.

Slide

Asking customers to leave premises

Steps when asking someone to leave

- Explain transportation options
- Follow the person to the door
- Ensure the person is safely off the premises
- Ensure they are looked after.

95.	Class Activity – Discuss and role play someone being asked to leave the premises Steps when asking someone to leave • Explain transportation options – you may wish to notify the person how they will be getting home, once they have left the premises • Follow the person to the door – ensure the person has collected all their belongings. Do not touch the person as this may provoke them further and try to keep the process as discreet as possible • Ensure the person is safely off the premises – hopefully this is in transportation or they have a friend who can ensure the person gets home safely.

Introduce topic.

Class Activity – General Discussion

Ask general questions:

- What does 'legislation' mean?
- What legislation applies to businesses that sell or supply alcohol?

Slide

Comply with legislation

Performance Criteria for this Element are:

- Assess situations
- Deal with intoxicated persons appropriately
- Deal with underage drinkers
- Comply with legislative requirements.

Slide 98

Slide No	Trainer Notes
98.	Trainer identifies the Performance Criteria for this Element, as listed on the slide.

Slide

Comply with legislation

As a manager or a server in an establishment that serves alcohol it is your responsibility that it is done in a manner that:

- Maintains the health and safety of all people concerned
- Is legal
- Promotes responsible service and consumption of alcohol.

Slide 99

Slide No	Trainer Notes
99.	Class Activity – Questions • How can you ensure these three things?

Slide

Legal considerations

There are a number of actions to ensure a safe and legal operation including:

- Establish a house policy
- Avoid promotions that encourage irresponsible consumption of alcohol
- Train staff in responsible service of alcohol
- Identify and address potential difficult situations
- Create the right atmosphere.

Slide 100

Slide No	Trainer Notes
100.	Class Activity – Questions • What would be good promotions to have? • What areas of training would you conduct with staff?

Slide

Legal considerations

Tips to remember

- Identify situations where problems may arise as early as possible
- Try to involve the customer by providing options
- Treat the customer professionally
- Don't touch the customer, where possible
- Take action as early as possible
- Follow all house policies, rules and regulations.

Class Activity – Questions

- What other tips would you have when handling intoxicated persons in a legal manner?

Slide

Underage drinkers

It is human nature for people who are under the legal age of drinking in a specific country to want to consume alcohol due to:

- Peer group pressure
- The right to fit in
- The act of rebellion
- Simply wanting to act older than they are.

Slide 102

Slide No	Trainer Notes
102.	Class Activity – Questions • Have you ever drunk at an age which you shouldn't have? • Why?

Slide

Underage drinkers

- Every establishment that serves alcohol, at some stage will need to deal with underage drinkers
- A person under the legal drinking age will be referred to as a 'minor'.

Slide 103

Slide No

Trainer Notes

103.

Class Activity – Questions

- How can you stop underage drinkers?

Slide

Underage drinkers

Reasons for having a designated drinking age

- Every country will have a designated age in which people are allowed to legally drink alcohol
- This is set because the consumption of alcohol by minors is very dangerous.

Slide 104

Slide No	Trainer Notes
104.	Class Activity – Questions • What is the minimum drinking age in your country? • Why is the consumption of alcohol more dangerous to young people?

Slide

Underage drinkers

Reasons for having a designated drinking age

- They lack the experience of drinking alcohol
- They may not be mature enough to handle themselves in a drinking capacity
- Brain does not fully develop until the age of 24 in males and 22 in females
- Therefore the effects of alcohol impacts brain development to a greater extent.

Slide 105

105.

Class Activity – Questions

- Remember back to when you were a minor, how did alcohol affect you?

Slide

Underage drinkers

Reasons for having a designated drinking age

- Their internal organs haven't fully developed, therefore the effects of alcohol are greater
- Minors are more likely to binge drink, which is a major health risk
- Minors are most likely to become dependent on alcohol and become heavy drinkers later in life.

Slide 106

106.	Class Activity – Questions • Remember back to when you were a minor, how did alcohol affect you?

Slide

Underage drinkers

Types of laws

- The law will also state conditions in which alcohol can be served in relation to minors
- Each country will have their own laws in relation to the sale and consumption of alcohol in relation to minors.

Slide 107

Trainer Notes

107.

Class Activity – Questions

- What are the laws of your country when it comes to minors being able to:
 - Be in an area where alcohol is sold?
 - Able to buy or consume alcohol?
 - Need for a parent or custodian?

Slide

Underage drinkers

Legal considerations may include:

- Alcohol cannot be sold to a person under the legal drinking age
- Alcohol cannot be supplied or consumed by a person under the legal drinking age
- Proof of age must be checked if a person looks under 25 years of age.

Slide 108

Slide No	Trainer Notes

Class Activity – Discussion

- Discuss the legal considerations stated in this slide
- Is it different in your country?

Slide

Underage drinkers

Legal considerations may include:

- Some venues may allow a minor to have an alcoholic drink if they are having a meal or with a spouse, parent or guardian
- Food containing alcohol may be consumed if below a certain percentage of the entire meal
- Minors may not be allowed into areas where their primary product sold is alcohol including bars and night clubs.

Slide

Strategies to prevent underage drinking

Checking upon entry

- Many establishments may have staff located at the door to ensure minors are not granted access
- If there are no allocated staff, it should be the responsibility of staff to observe new arrivals
- This check is also helpful in identifying intoxicated persons entering the venue.

Trainer Notes

115.

Class Activity – Question

- What are common types of fake identification used by underage people?

Slide

Strategies to prevent underage drinking

Observe drinkers

- In many establishments, minors are allowed into a wide variety of food and beverage outlets that serve both food and beverage
- Staff should observe people who are drinking alcohol
- In some cases, adults may have purchased these drinks on their behalf.

Slide 116

Slide No	Trainer Notes
116.	Class Activity – Question • What is the best way to spot an underage person drinking?

Slide

Complying with laws

All businesses that serve food and beverage will have a series of laws in which they must comply.

Licensing law is the set of legal rules governing the sale of alcohol in a given jurisdiction.

It usually defines who can:

- Sell or supply alcohol
- When, where and to whom.

Slide 117

Slide No

Trainer Notes

117.

Class Activity – Question

- What laws apply in your area?

Slide

Complying with laws

- Generally the underlying purpose of licensing law is to act as a protection against any potential harm to public order or to public health
- This is sometimes stated in the law.

Slide 118

Slide No	Trainer Notes
118.	Class Activity – Question • What aspects of the law ensure 'order and protection to public health'?

Slide

Types of laws

License to sell

- Most countries that have restrictions on who can buy alcohol, will also have restrictions on who can do the selling
- In order to sell alcohol, you may have to obtain a permit or license
- The license may simply permit you to sell alcohol in general or may have stipulations.

Slide 119

Slide No

Trainer Notes

119.

Class Activity – Question

- What stipulations can apply in relation to the sale and supply of alcohol?

Slide

Types of laws

License to sell

Stipulations include:

- In which areas of the establishment it may be sold
- What may be sold
- At what times sales can be made
- If alcohol is allowed to be brought into the venue for consumptions.

Slide 120

Slide No	Trainer Notes
120.	Class Activity – Question • What other stipulations apply which are specific to your country or location?

Slide

Types of laws

Establish policies and procedures

- Establish house rules
- Place appropriate signs in place
- Ensure staff understand
- Ensure compliance with policies and procedures.

Class Activity – Discuss

Discuss points.

Slide

Types of laws

Training of staff

Management may need to ensure:

- Correct types of staff – including security
- Correct numbers of staff
- Correct age of staff serving alcohol
- Have technical knowledge and skills.

Slide 122

Slide No	Trainer Notes
122.	Class Activity – Questions • What types of training would you give to staff who need to sell or serve alcohol? • Who would do this training? • Where would it be done?

Slide

Types of laws

Training of staff

Staff may be required to:

- Undertake responsible service of alcohol courses
- Gain certification in specific courses
- Attend regular staff meetings to discuss RSA issues
- Understand their responsibilities
- Be properly trained and consistently apply their training and knowledge of RSA in the workplace.

Slide 123

Slide No	Trainer Notes
123.	Class Activity – Questions • What other requirements are there for staff?

Slide

Types of laws

Documentation of systems

In order to prove that you are complying with the laws, it is good practice to keep records to show what systems you have in place including:

- Training and Training Records
- Incident Diary
- Refusals Book.

Slide 124

Slide No	Trainer Notes
124.	Class Activity – Discuss the types of documents • What are the benefits of having documentation? • What is the purpose of each type of document? • What information should be included in each type of document? • Who should complete each type of document?
