Competency Based Assessment (CBA) – An Introduction for Assessors

Assessment is the process of identifying a participant's current knowledge, skills and attitudes sets against all elements of competency within a unit of competency.

Suggested Assessment Methods

For each unit of competency a number of assessment tools have been identified including:

- Work Projects
- Oral Questions
- Written Questions
- Third Party Statements
- Observation Checklists.

Instructions and Evidence Recording Sheets have been identified in this Assessment Manual for use by Assessors.

Alternative Assessment Methods

Whilst the above mentioned assessment methods are suggested assessment methods, the assessor may use an alternate method of assessment taking into account:

- a) The nature of the unit
- b) The strengths of participants
- c) The number of participants in the class
- d) Time required to complete assessments
- e) Time dedicated to assessment
- f) Equipment and resources required.

Alternate assessment methods include:

- Practical demonstrations
- Practical demonstrations in simulated work conditions
- Problem solving
- Portfolios of evidence
- Critical incident reports
- Journals
- Oral presentations
- Interviews
- Videos
- Visuals/slides/audiotapes

- Case studies
- Log books
- Projects and Role plays
- Group projects
- Recognition of Prior Learning.

Whilst there is no specific instruction or evidence collection documents for all the alternative assessment methods, assessors can record competency in the 'Other' section within the 'Competency Recording Sheet'.

Selection of Assessment Methods

Each assessor will determine the combination of Assessment Methods to be used to determine Competency for each Competency Unit on a student by student basis.

'Sufficient' evidence to support the 'Pass Competent'/'Not Yet Competent' decision must be captured.

In practice this means a minimum of 2 – 3 Assessment Methods for each candidate for each Competency Element is suggested.

At least one method should provide evidence of practical demonstration of competence.

The following assessment methods deemed to provide evidence of practical demonstration of competence include:

- Practical Work Projects
- Third Party Statement
- Observation Checklist.

Assessing Competency

Competency based assessment does not award grades, but simply identifies if the participant has the knowledge, skills and attitudes to undertake the required task to the specified standard.

Therefore, when assessing competency, an assessor has two possible results that can be awarded:

- 'Pass Competent' (PC)
- 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

Pass Competent (PC)

If the participant is able to successfully answer or demonstrate what is required, to the expected standards of the performance criteria, they will be deemed as 'Pass Competent' (PC).

The assessor will award a 'Pass Competent' (PC) if they feel the participant has the necessary knowledge, skills and attitudes in all assessment tasks for a unit.

Not Yet Competent' (NYC)

If the participant is unable to answer or demonstrate competency to the desired standard, they will be deemed to be 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

This does not mean the participant will need to complete all the assessment tasks again. The focus will be on the specific assessment tasks that were not performed to the expected standards.

The participant may be required to:

- a) Undertake further training or instruction
- b) Undertake the assessment task again until they are deemed to be 'Pass Competent'.

Regional Qualifications Framework and Skills Recognition System

The 'Regional Qualifications Framework and Skills Recognition System', also known as the 'RQFSRS' is the overriding educational framework for the ASEAN region.

The purpose of this framework is to provide:

- A standardised teaching and assessment framework
- Mutual recognition of participant achievement across the ASEAN region. This includes achievement in individual Units of Competency or qualifications as a whole.

The role of the 'RQFSRS' is to provide, ensure and maintain 'quality assurance' across all countries and educational providers across the ASEAN region.

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

Recognition of Prior Learning is the process that gives current industry professionals who do not have a formal qualification, the opportunity to benchmark their extensive skills and experience against the standards set out in each unit of competency/subject.

This process is a learning and assessment pathway which encompasses:

- Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC)
- Skills auditing
- Gap analysis and training
- Credit transfer.

Code of Practice for Assessors

This Code of Practice provides:

- Assessors with direction on the standard of practice expected of them
- Candidates with assurance of the standards of practice expected of assessors
- Employers with assurance of the standards maintained in the conduct of assessment.

The Code detailed below is based on the International Code of Ethics and Practice (The National Council for Measurement in Education [NCME]):

- The differing needs and requirements of the person being assessed, the local enterprise and/or industry are identified and handled with sensitivity
- Potential forms of conflict of interest in the assessment process and/or outcomes are identified and appropriate referrals are made, if necessary
- All forms of harassment are avoided throughout the planning, conducting, reviewing and reporting of the assessment outcomes

- The rights of the candidate are protected during and after the assessment
- Personal and interpersonal factors that are not relevant to the assessment of competency must not influence the assessment outcomes
- The candidate is made aware of rights and process of appeal
- Evidence that is gathered during the assessment is verified for validity, reliability, authenticity, sufficiency and currency
- Assessment decisions are based on available evidence that can be produced and verified by another assessor
- Assessments are conducted within the boundaries of the assessment system policies and procedures
- Formal agreement is obtained from both the candidate and the assessor that the assessment was carried out in accordance with agreed procedures
- The candidate is informed of all assessment reporting processes prior to the assessment
- The candidate is informed of all known potential consequences of decisions arising from an assessment, prior to the assessment
- Confidentiality is maintained regarding assessment results
- The assessment results are used consistently with the purposes explained to the candidate
- Opportunities are created for technical assistance in planning, conducting and reviewing assessment procedures and outcomes.

Instructions and Checklist for Assessors

Instructions

General instructions for the assessment:

- Assessment should be conducted at a scheduled time that has been notified to the candidate
- Facilitators must ensure participants are made aware of the need to complete assessments and attend assessment sessions
- If a participant is unable to attend a scheduled session, they must make arrangements with the Assessor to undertake the assessment at an alternative time
- At the end of the assessment the Assessor must give feedback and advise the participant on their PC/NYC status
- Complete the relevant documentation and submit to the appropriate department.

Preparation

- Gain familiarity with the Unit of Competency, Elements of Competency and the Performance Criteria expected
- Study details assessment documentation and requirements
- Brief candidate regarding all assessment criteria and requirements.

Briefing Checklist

- Begin the assessment by implementing the following checklist and then invite the candidate to proceed with assessment.

Checklist for Assessors

Prior to the assessment I have:	Tick (✓)	Remarks
Ensured the candidate is informed about the venue and schedule of assessment.
Received current copies of the performance criteria to be assessed, assessment plan, evidence gathering plan, assessment checklist, appeal form and the company's standard operating procedures (SOP).
Reviewed the performance criteria and evidence plan to ensure I clearly understood the instructions and the requirements of the assessment process.
Identified and accommodated any special needs of the candidate.
Checked the set-up and resources for the assessment.
During the assessment I have:
Introduced myself and confirmed identities of candidates.
Put candidates at ease by being friendly and helpful.
Explained to candidates the purpose, context and benefits of the assessment.
Ensured candidates understood the assessment process and all attendant procedures.
Provided candidates with an overview of performance criteria to be assessed.
Explained the results reporting procedure.
Encouraged candidates to seek clarifications if in doubt.
Asked candidates for feedback on the assessment.
Explained legal, safety and ethical issues, if applicable.
After the assessment I have:
Ensured candidate is given constructive feedback.
Completed and signed the assessment record.
Thanked candidate for participating in the assessment.

Instructions for Recording Competency

Specifications for Recording Competency

The following specifications apply to the preparation of Evidence Gathering Plans:

- A Competency Recording Sheet must be prepared for each candidate to ensure and demonstrate all Performance Criteria and Competency Elements are appropriately assessed. This Sheet indicates how the Assessor will gather evidence during their assessment of each candidate
- This Competency Recording Sheet is located at the end of the Assessment Plan
- It is the overriding document to record competency
- The Assessor may vary the Competency Recording Sheet to accommodate practical and individual candidate and/or workplace needs
- Assessor must place a tick (✓) in the 'Assessment Method' columns to identify the methods of assessment to be used for each candidate
- Multiple Competency Elements/Performance Criteria may be assessed at the one time, where appropriate
- The assessor and participant should sign and date the Competency Recording Sheet, when all forms of evidence and assessment have been completed
- The assessor may provide and feedback or clarify questions which the participant may have in regards to the assessment grade or findings
- All documents used to capture evidence must be retained, and attached to the Competency Recording Sheet for each candidate for each Competency Unit.

Instructions for Different Assessment Methods

Specifications for Work Project Assessment

These guidelines concern the use of work projects.

The work projects identified in the Training Manuals involve a range of tasks, to be performed at the discretion of the Assessor.

Work project tasks can be completed through any form of assessment as identified in the Trainer and Trainee Manuals and stated at the start of this section.

Assessors should follow these guidelines:

- Review the Work Projects at the end of each 'Element of Competency' in the Trainee Manual to ensure you understand the content and what is expected
- Prepare sufficient resources for the completion of work activities including:
 - Time – whether in scheduled delivery hours or suggested time participants to spend outside of class hours
 - Resources – this may involve technical equipment, computer, internet access, stationery and other supplementary materials and documents
- Prepare assessment location (if done in class) making it conducive to assessment
- Explain Work Projects assessment to candidate, at the start of each Element of Competency. This ensures that participants are aware of what is expected and can collate information as delivery takes place

- Assessors can use the following phrase as a guide (where an 'X' is identified, please input appropriate information):

“At the end of each Element of Competency there are Work Projects which must be completed. These projects require different tasks that must be completed.

These work projects are part of the formal assessment for the unit of competency titled X:

 - You are required to complete these activities:
 - Using the 'X' method of assessment*
 - At 'X' location*
 - You will have 'X time period' for this assessment*
 - You are required to compile information in a format that you feel is appropriate to the assessment
 - Do you have any questions about this assessment?”
- Commence Work Project assessment:
 - The assessor may give time for participants to review the questions at this time to ensure they understand the nature of the questions. The assessor may need to clarify questions
 - Participants complete work projects in the most appropriate format
 - Participants must submit Work Project evidence to the assessor before the scheduled due date
- Assessor must assess the participant's evidence against the competency standards specified in each Element of Competency and their own understanding. The assessor can determine if the participant has provided evidence to a 'competent' standard
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet
- Forward/file assessment record.

Specifications for Oral Question Assessment

These guidelines concern the use of oral questioning.

Assessors should follow these guidelines.

- Prepare Assessment Record for Oral Questioning. One record for each candidate:
 - Enter Student name
 - Enter Assessor name
 - Enter Location
- Familiarise self with Questions to be asked
- Prepare assessment location (table and chairs) making it conducive to assessment
- Explain Oral Questioning assessment to candidate, using the following phrase as a guide (where a 'X' is identified, please input appropriate information):

“These oral questions are part of the formal assessment for the unit of competency titled X.

There are X questions and you are required to answer all of them to the best of your ability and I will record whether or not you have answered correctly.

We have 60 minutes for this assessment.

- I will give you feedback at the end of the assessment
- Do you have any questions about this assessment?”
- Commence Oral Questioning assessment:
 - Complete Assessment Record for the Oral Questioning by:
 - a) Ticking PC or NYC, as appropriate
 - b) Entering ‘Remarks’ as required
 - c) Completing Oral Questioning within 60 minutes
- Complete Oral Questioning and provide feedback to candidate
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet
- Forward/file assessment record.

Specifications for Written Question Assessment

These guidelines concern the use of written questioning.

Assessors should follow these guidelines:

- Familiarise self with Questions and Answers provided
- Print and distribute copies of ‘Written Questions’ for participants. Ideally this should take place with adequate time for participants to answer all questions before the expected due date
- Explain Written Questioning assessment to candidate, using the following phrase as a guide (where a ‘X’ is identified, please input appropriate information):

“These written questions are part of the formal assessment for the unit of competency titled X.

There are X questions and you are required to answer all of them to the best of your ability.

You may refer to your subject materials, however where possible try to utilise your existing knowledge when answering questions.

Where you are unsure of questions, please ask the Assessor for further instruction. This may be answering the question orally or asking the assessor to redefine the question.

We have X time for this assessment:

- The due date for completion of this assessment is X
- On this date you must forward the completed questions to the assessor by X time on the date of X
- Do you have any questions about this assessment?”
- The assessor may give time for participants to review the questions at this time to ensure they understand the nature of the questions. The assessor may need to clarify questions
- Participants may record written answers (where possible)
- Participants must submit the written answers to the assessor before the scheduled due date

- Assessor must assess the participant's written answers against the model answers provided as a guide, or their own understanding. The assessor can determine if the participant has answered the questions to a 'competent' standard
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet
- Forward/file assessment record.

Specifications for Observation Checklist

These specifications apply to the use of the Observation Checklist in determining competency for candidates.

Only an approved assessor is authorised to complete the Observation Checklist.

The assessor is required to observe the participant, ideally in a simulated environment or their practical workplace setting and record their performance (or otherwise) of the competencies listed on the Observation Checklist for the Competency Unit.

To complete the Observation Checklist the Assessor must:

- Insert name of candidate
- Insert assessor name
- Insert identify of location where observations are being undertaken
- Insert date/s of observations – may be single date or multiple dates
- Place a tick in either the 'Yes' or 'No' box for each listed Performance Criteria to indicate the candidate has demonstrated/not demonstrated that skill
- Provide written (and verbal) feedback to candidate – as/if appropriate
- Sign and date the form
- Present form to candidate for them to sign and date
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet for candidate
- Forward/file Observation Checklist.

This source of evidence combines with other forms of assessment to assist in determining the 'Pass Competent' or 'Not Yet Competent' decision for the participant.

Specifications for Third Party Statement

These specifications relate to the use of a relevant workplace person to assist in determining competency for candidates.

The Third Party Statement is to be supplied by the assessor to a person in the workplace who supervises and/or works closely with the participant.

This may be their Supervisor, the venue manager, the Department Manager or similar.

The Third Party Statement asks the Supervisor to record what they believe to be the competencies of the participant based on their workplace experience of the participant. This experience may be gained through observation of their workplace performance, feedback from others, inspection of candidate's work etc.

A meeting must take place between the Assessor and the Third Party to explain and demonstrate the use of the Third Party Statement.

To complete the Third Party Verification Statement the Assessor must:

- Insert candidate name
- Insert name and contact details of the Third Party
- Tick the box to indicate the relationship of the Third Party to the candidate
- Present the partially completed form to the Third Party for them to finalise
- Collect the completed form from the Third Party
- Transcribe results/details to Competency Recording Sheet for candidate
- Forward/file Third Party Statement.

The Third Party must:

- Record their belief regarding candidate ability/competency as either:
 - Pass Competent = Yes
 - Not Yet Competent = No
 - Unsure about whether candidate is competent or not = Not Sure
- Meet briefly with the assessor to discuss and/or clarify the form.

This source of evidence combines with other forms of assessment to assist in determining the 'Pass Competent' or 'Not Yet Competent' decision for the candidate.

A separate Third Party Statement is required for each Competency Unit undertaken by the candidate.

UNIT TITLE: MONITOR STAFF PERFORMANCE		NOMINAL HOURS: 60
UNIT NUMBER: D1.HML.CL10.13 D1.HRM.CL9.04 D2.TRM.CL9.16
UNIT DESCRIPTOR: This unit deals with skills and knowledge required by supervisors and managers to monitor workplace performance of staff within an established performance management environment
ELEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE CRITERIA		UNIT VARIABLE AND ASSESSMENT GUIDE
Element 1: Develop staff performance management systems 1.1 Analyse strategic and operational plans to identify relevant staff policies and organisational objectives that underpin performance management 1.2 Develop relevant performance indices to document, monitor and evaluate staff performance 1.3 Develop systems to ensure staff performance is monitored and feedback is given Element 2: Undertake staff performance appraisals 2.1 Appraise staff in the workplace 2.2 Advise staff of the result of staff appraisals 2.3 Determine action to take on the basis of individual staff appraisals		Unit Variables The Unit Variables provide advice to interpret the scope and context of this unit of competence, allowing for differences between enterprises and workplaces. It relates to the unit as a whole and facilitates holistic assessment. This unit applies to organisations that are involved in the monitoring of staff performance within the labour divisions of the hotel and travel industries and may include: 1. Front Office 2. Housekeeping 3. Food and Beverage Service 4. Food Production 5. Travel Agencies 6. Tour Operation Performance management may be defined as: • A process or set of processes for establishing a shared understanding of what an individual or group is to achieve, and managing individuals in a way which increases the probability it will be achieved in both the short and longer terms.

Element 3: Implement rewards and incentive schemes 3.1 Design reward and incentive schemes to motivate staff to attain nominated performance targets 3.2 Communicate reward and incentive schemes to staff 3.3 Administer reward and incentive schemes Element 4: Counsel staff 4.1 Apply counselling techniques and strategies to employees where staff performance appraisals are below requirements 4.2 Document staff counselling sessions 4.3 Generate agreement on action and direction to be taken as a result of the counselling Element 5: Implement disciplinary and termination procedures 5.1 Develop disciplinary and termination procedures for performance-related non-compliance 5.2 Prescribe conditions under which element of the disciplinary and termination procedures will be introduced 5.3 Communicate the established disciplinary and termination procedures to staff 5.4 Implement the identified disciplinary and termination procedures	Performance indices may include: • Key performance indicators (KPIs) used to measure actual performance against set targets • Performance standards defining the level of performance sought from an individual or group that are expressed quantitatively or qualitatively, and which may relate to: - Productivity - Punctuality - Personal presentation - Levels of accuracy in work - Adherence to procedures - Customer service standards - Team interaction - Response times - Waste minimisation - Cost minimisation • Codes of conduct – an agreed or decreed set of rules relating to employee behaviour/conduct with other employees or customers. Systems to ensure staff performance is monitored may include: • Any regularly applied and formalised system where all staff have their actual workplace practice evaluated and assessed against predetermined goals/targets with a view to determining their individual level of performance or achievement • Evaluation based on factual evidence • Feedback on the identified performance • Support for the individual to continue acceptable performance and redress unacceptable performance • Counselling and disciplinary action for staff unable or unprepared to bring their performance in-line with expectations and standards. Appraise staff should include: • Conducting appraisals at regular, pre-determined intervals • Application of appraisals across all staff including management, full-time staff, part-time staff and casual staff • Establishing initial targets for performance and notifying individual staff of these • Gathering evidence of actual staff performance which should include consideration of: Type of assessment/appraisal which may include peer assessment, self-assessment, team assessment, use of productivity indicators including feedback from patrons Methods of collecting performance data to ensure data is reliable, indicative and relevant Methods of interpreting performance data including prioritising results and understanding the data within individual contexts • Convening a meeting to discuss performance with individual staff, including invitations to other appropriate personnel to attend. Advise staff of the result should include: • Providing evidence-based feedback of staff performance • Agreeing on the level of concurrence between actual and required workplace performance • Determining revised action, timelines and targets for the next phase/cycle of the appraisal process. Action to take to underpin attainment of the revised targets may include:

	• Proving necessary support such as mentoring, coaching, training, resources, information • Providing support for out-of-work problems encountered by staff • Re-allocation of duties and adjustment of workload • Re-organisation of work practices • Agreement on short-term goals for improvement • Revisions to required workloads and/or standards • Counselling. Reward and incentive schemes may include: • Allocation of increased levels of authority and responsibilities • Increased discretionary power • Informal acknowledgement • Internal company recognition awards including plaques, mention in newsletters, briefings and team meetings • Pay bonuses/incentives • Promotion • Testimonials • Time off • Sales targets • Written reports to management. Counselling techniques and strategies may include:

	• Informal but structured discussions between management and staff • Timely delivery of counselling to minimise the negative impact of delays and enable linking of discussion and outcomes to recent and identified performance • Pre-determination of the topics to be discussed during the counselling including planning of sequence of session, content of session, words to be used during session, questions to be asked, revised targets to be set, options, suggestions and/or ultimatums to be issued • Application of suitable counselling strategies to meet individual and company needs including variations in formality, structure, format, language used, and the use of internal or external convener • Recording/documenting the counselling sessions • Requiring the employee to sign-off on the decisions reached during the counselling session • Providing the appropriate level of support during the counselling commensurate with the issues being dealt with • Referring the staff member to external professional services, where appropriate. Disciplinary and termination procedures should include: • Verbal warnings supplemented by a series of written warnings including a requirement for signature from staff member and attendance of a third party to witness events • Demotions and removal of authorities, permissions and responsibilities • Reduction on overtime allocated • Non-negotiable requirement to attend training, counselling or other nominated external sessions • Provision of written description of workplace requirements and standards that are expected • Evidence-based conclusions, decision making and action

	• Recording/documenting the procedures • Fair and equitable application of established procedures and sanctions • Integration of procedures with legislated requirements and operational codes of conduct of the host country. Prescribe conditions may relate to: • Enterprise policies and procedures • Host country legislation. Assessment Guide The following skills and knowledge must be assessed as part of this unit: • Understanding of the overall performance management concept within a work-based context • Types of performance standards and performance management systems applicable to the relevant industry • Role of feedback, communication and coaching in staff performance appraisals and management • Knowledge of enterprise policies and procedures pertaining to workplace performance appraisal • Knowledge of the basics of performance appraisal techniques and systems including: - Reasons for workplace performance appraisals - Differentiation between types of performance appraisal models - Compilation and use of workplace performance data - Protocols for conducting staff performance appraisal meetings/interviews - Procedures for conducting formal and informal counselling sessions - Knowledge of the role of effective communication skills in counselling • Knowledge of the industrial relations, equal opportunity and diversity legislation of the host country. Linkages To Other Units • Work effectively with colleagues and customers • Work in a socially diverse environment • Develop and implement operational policies • Develop and supervise operational approaches • Lead and manage people • Monitor staff performance • Provide professional support to business colleagues • Recruit and select staff • Roster staff • Monitor workplace operations. Critical Aspects of Assessment Evidence of the following is essential: • Understanding of why staff performance appraisals and staff performance management is a useful management tool • Demonstrated ability to analyse and interpret key planning documents for a business • Demonstrated ability to develop and prepare workplace performance indicators • Demonstrated ability to apply nominated staff appraisal procedures in a workplace setting including determination of targets/standards to be met, gathering and interpretation of evidence, conduct of staff appraisal interview and generation of appropriate support, or counselling • Demonstrated ability to apply designated reward and incentive schemes to nominated staff • Demonstrated ability to apply pre-determined disciplinary and termination procedures. Context of Assessment Assessment must ensure: • Actual or simulated workplace application of staff appraisal practices and procedures. Resource Implications Training and assessment to include the use of real or simulated staff performance appraisals in actual or simulated workplace conditions; and access to workplace standards, procedures, policies, guidelines, tools and equipment. Assessment Methods The following methods may be used to assess competency for this unit: • Observation of practical candidate performance • Role plays • Case studies • Oral and written questions • Third party reports completed by a supervisor • Project and assignment work • Simulations.

	Key Competencies in this Unit Level 1 = competence to undertake tasks effectively Level 2 = competence to manage tasks Level 3 = competence to use concepts for evaluating
	Key Competencies	Level	Examples
	Collecting, organising and analysing information	3	Gather and analyse workplace performance data
	Communicating ideas and information	3	Communicate KPIs and staff performance management systems to staff; conduct staff appraisal interviews
	Planning and organising activities	2	Schedule staff appraisal interviews; plan data gathering activities to support staff performance appraisals
	Working with others and in teams	3	Liaise with staff; cooperate and collaborate with staff to achieve a mutually beneficial outcome to staff performance appraisals
	Using mathematical ideas and techniques	1	Manipulate workplace data gathered as evidence of staff performance
	Solving problems	3	Negotiate solutions to instances of non-compliance and/or sub-standard performance
	Using technology	1	Engage technology to gather workplace data; applying human resource management software

Monitor staff performance – D1.HML.CL10.13 D1.HRM.CL9.04 D2.TRM.CL9.16

Student Name: _____

Answer all the following questions and submit to your Trainer.

1. In your own words describe what is meant by a 'staff performance management system'.

2. Why is it important to examine/analyse the strategic plans for a business when developing a staff performance management system?

3. What are the nine recommended steps for analysing the strategic and operational plans of a business to assist with development of a PM system?

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

4. Define 'performance indices' in relation staff management performance systems.

5. Give six areas to which an organisation might apply performance indices as part of its staff performance management system.

6. For three of the areas identified in the answer to the previous question provide an example of a relevant performance index/metric.

- Outline the series of activities which combine to provide a practical platform to help managers develop performance indices appropriate to every workplace.

This image shows a blank sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and extend across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

8. Identify five important points to note in relation to monitoring of staff performance.

9. State the six steps identified in the notes which can be used/followed to develop a formal performance management system.

10. If 'what the person does in the job is important' what types of performance management system should be used?

11. Identify one traditional performance management scheme and describe its implementation including advantages and disadvantages.

12. Describe six planning and preparation activities managers might undertake in relation to workplace staff appraisals.

13. List five key things a manager must ensure when undertaking staff appraisal activities.

14. Describe four key activities/actions managers need to engage in prior to sitting down with individual employees to discuss the results of their staff appraisals.

15. Differentiate between “confirming” or ‘corrective’ feedback as a result of staff appraisals.

16. Give an example of a 'positive-negative-positive' sandwich which might be given as feedback at a meeting to discuss the results of a staff appraisal.

17. List four key points managers must bear in mind when providing staff with feedback on the results of their most recent appraisal.

18. When taking action on the basis of individual staff appraisals list four considerations managers must always take into account.

19. List six actions managers might take to underpin attainment of revised targets for staff on the basis of their individual appraisal.

Answers to written questions

Monitor staff performance –D1.HML.CL10.13 D1.HRM.CL9.04 D2.TRM.CL9.16

The following are model answers only – Trainers/Assessors must use discretion when determining whether or not an answer provided by a Student is acceptable or not.

1. In your own words describe what is meant by a 'staff performance management system'.

No model answer but response should address a performance management system can be seen as a set of processes put in place by an organisation to:

- Identify and describe the type and standards of performance staff are required to deliver in nominated areas
- Monitor staff performance in areas covered
- Capture evidence-based data on actual staff performance measured against the defined standards
- Communicate results of staff appraisals to individual staff
- Generate action to maintain or improve staff workplace activities
- Reward, recognise, discipline, counsel and/or terminate staff regarding their performance as appropriate or necessary.

2. Why is it important to examine/analyse the strategic plans for a business when developing a staff performance management system?

Because this will:

- Provide direction to the business – in terms of where it wants to go into the future
- Prioritise the goals/objectives – giving different weighting/importance to competing achievements the company wants to attain
- Give insight to managers when they need to make business-related decisions – requiring the decisions to align with the directions and priorities in the plan
- List the risks facing the business – as identified by a formal risk analysis.

3. What are the nine recommended steps for analysing the strategic and operational plans of a business to assist with development of a PM system?

- Obtaining copies of all relevant documentation – which must include Plans, Policies, Procedures/SOPs
- Verifying copies of documents obtained are current versions – and not out-of-date
- Noting when the plans were prepared – to get a perspective on their relevancy to the current time
- Identifying names of those who developed the plans – as this can help provide context and explanation for decisions taken and goals set and indicate people to talk to in order to obtain additional information

- Allocating sufficient time for the process – realising it is a time-consuming activity and cannot be done in five minutes
- Reading the plans – carefully and in detail, in a quiet location free from interruptions and distractions
- Taking notes – as the plans are read regarding Questions which need to be asked, Matters which need to be clarified, Topics about which extra detail/information is required
- Integrating details in the plans with other information known about the business – to gain a fuller understanding and more comprehensive insight
- Following up as required after reading – to answer questions and gather additional information.

4. Define ‘performance indices’ in relation staff management performance systems.

Performance indices are metrics which describe and measure/quantify actions and activities implicit in workplace activities.

5. Give six areas to which an organisation might apply performance indices as part of its staff performance management system.

- Productivity
- Punctuality
- Personal presentation
- Levels of accuracy in work
- Adherence to procedures
- Customer service standards
- Team interaction
- Response times
- Waste minimisation
- Cost minimisation
- Codes of conduct.

6. For three of the areas identified in the answer to the previous question provide an example of a relevant performance index/metric.

No model answer.

7. Outline the series of activities which combine to provide a practical platform to help managers develop performance indices appropriate to every workplace.

- Start with a thorough understanding of the goals for the organisation as stated in their key planning documents
- Gain a complete picture of the public statements the business has made about itself to the general public
- Review the current performance of the business
- Gain a context for the operational environment in which the organisation is operating
- Obtain (if possible) sample industry performance/service delivery or product-related standards
- Meet with senior management/owners to discuss their thoughts and/or requirements in relation to performance
- Generate an overview of the individual organisation (or different departments/areas within the business) in respect of all relevant factors which will impact on service delivery and/or staff performance
- Develop draft performance indices incorporating information and input from all the above listed sources ensuring indices are Specific, Rational, Measurable, Achievable
- Circulate the draft performance indices for comment and feedback
- Review and refine the draft performance indices as/if required on the basis of legitimate feedback received and then circulate/communicate the finally developed and approved indices to staff and for inclusion in internal SOPs (such as staff training, handbooks, induction and orientation programs).

8. Identify five important points to note in relation to monitoring of staff performance.

- Many of the activities and processes involved in performance monitoring are also known as performance appraisal
- Performance must be monitored in the work/areas staff were told they would be evaluated on and not on areas about which they were not informed
- Monitoring needs to be ongoing
- Staff should be advised of how their performance will be monitored and evaluated
- Monitoring activities should not be covert or hidden
- All staff should have their performance monitored
- The standards identified for each work activity must be used/provide the metrics applied as the basis of the monitoring process
- Hard evidence must be obtained as part of the monitoring process
- The data captured during the monitoring process must enable determination of the level of individual performance of each staff member as distinct to providing evidence about a group of workers or a department.

9. State the six steps identified in the notes which can be used/followed to develop a formal performance management system.

Step 1: Identify dimensions for the job in question

Step 2: Determine methods of measuring actual performance

Step 3: Measure and compare actual performance with the required standard

Step 4: Create and maintain performance records

Step 5: Conduct staff appraisal/performance management interviews

Step 6: Take action.

10. If 'what the person does in the job is important' what types of performance management system should be used?

Behaviourally Anchored Rating Scale or similar.

11. Identify one traditional performance management scheme and describe its implementation including advantages and disadvantages.

Answer will depend on the model identified.

12. Describe six planning and preparation activities managers might undertake in relation to workplace staff appraisals.

- Determining the techniques to be used and the type of evidence which will need to be gathered
- Scheduling the appraisal activities
- Diarising the appraisal times
- Reviewing any previous discussions and/or decisions made in respect of the individual being appraised
- Reviewing the personnel file/staff appraisal file for the worker
- Obtaining necessary secondary data
- Generating or acquiring necessary documentation to record data
- Ensuring appraisals occur across all staff.

13. List five key things a manager must ensure when undertaking staff appraisal activities.

- Reflect the particular performance management system/s used by the organisation – as required by individual schemes
- Use the designated evidence recording tool/s – as appropriate for each individual observation/appraisal event
- Capture the evidence deemed necessary for each employee – in accordance with the requirements of the performance indices for each job and as was explained to every employee being appraised
- Obtain sufficient and appropriate to date to ensure suitability of the evidence/data – in terms of being Reliable, Indicative, Relevant

- Demonstrate support, sensitivity and empathy – for any staff member whose work is being observed first-hand to obtain primary data: it must be remembered many staff will become anxious when they know they are being watched and assessed for the purposes of a staff appraisal, fearing their job may be at risk
- Never interfere with service delivery/provision – to internal or external customers.

14. Describe four key activities/actions managers need to engage in prior to sitting down with individual employees to discuss the results of their staff appraisals.

- Verify the appraisal has been conducted honestly – and with necessary attention having been paid to due process
- Ensure they have captured sufficient, objective relevant data – on which to make useful and valid decisions about the employee
- Make sure they understand the methods of interpreting performance data – as they apply to the individual scheme being used and the nature of the particular performance indices being applied to the evidence
- Consider and analyse the primary and secondary data they have gathered, captured and/or researched – prioritising results and understanding the data within individual contexts
- Conduct follow-up appraisals or activities where required – for example to:
 - Obtain additional/supplementary data/evidence
 - Clarify issues and/or ambiguities
 - Discuss difficult decisions with peers
- Convene/arrange a meeting to discuss performance with individual staff – at a mutually acceptable time within paid working hours
- Invite any other persons who may need to attend the session – which may be required where:
 - A witness is required to make a statement about something
 - A witness is required to observe/note the giving of a verbal warning
 - A person is required to be advised of their role in providing assistance to the staff member.

15. Differentiate between ‘confirming’ or ‘corrective’ feedback as a result of staff appraisals.

- ‘Confirming’ feedback is positive feedback to reinforce and reward desired behaviour to encourage it to be repeated
- ‘Corrective’ feedback is feedback designed to address specifically identified deficiencies in performance.

16. Give an example of a ‘positive-negative-positive’ sandwich which might be given as feedback at a meeting to discuss the results of a staff appraisal.

No model answer.

17. List four key points managers must bear in mind when providing staff with feedback on the results of their most recent appraisal.

- Keep the mood positive – even where a negative comment needs to be made or some unsatisfactory performance needs to be addressed
- Make reference to actual evidence as the basis for the feedback given
- Focus on the performance of the person as was indicated to them when the staff performance/appraisal scheme was explained to them
- Make specific reference to three groupings of performance for each staff member – that is, indicating exactly where, when and how:
 - Performance was below expectations, standards or requirements (stated performance indices for each task)
 - Performance met/matched expectations, standards or requirements (stated performance indices for each task)
 - Performance was above/exceeded expectations, standards or requirements (stated performance indices for each task).
- Involve the staff member in the discussion – by:
 - Asking questions
 - Seeking their input
 - Asking if they agree or disagree with results/findings – and if how/why
- Make sure the staff member knows where they stand as a result of the feedback session – it is vital they leave the session knowing (for example/as appropriate):
 - Their performance is acceptable – and everything is good
 - Where their performance is not acceptable – and:
 - What has to be done to retrieve it – see next section
 - The support to be provided by the organisation
 - Consequences of continued lack of adequate performance
 - The next staff appraisal period and what will be assessed.

18. When taking action on the basis of individual staff appraisals list four considerations managers must always take into account.

- Must align predominantly with the feedback provided – in terms of whether it was ‘confirming’ or ‘corrective’ (see previous section)
- Needs to be considered managers before the appraisal feedback session – so suitable a suitable course of action can be discussed and agreed as part of the feedback
- Must specifically address the identified needs of the individual employee based on the objective evidence captured as part of the appraisal process – so there is a distinct connection between remedial/corrective action and the need for same
- Should involve input from the staff member – who should be allowed/encouraged to:
 - Contribute/suggest a course of action they believe would effectively/best address identified need

- Discuss suggestions/proposals from managers which were developed prior to the feedback session
- Agree the proposed course of action is appropriate for identified need and will actually address/resolve the issue/s requiring attention
- Should be documented – so a record of the arrangements is available to give to the staff member, relevant others and for future reference
- Must always make staff aware of consequences which are a possible outcome from the appraisal – for example:
 - Making it clear they their employment is not at risk/threat – when an acceptable outcome has been achieved
 - Stating clearly when and why counselling is or may be required
 - Clearly explaining if and why disciplinary action might flow from what has already transpired
- Must be undertaken with great sensitivity and empathy – as they always have the potential to trigger strong personal emotions within individuals
- Must reflect what has previously been stated to staff regarding the overall staff performance system/performance appraisal scheme/s – if the organisation has held itself out as being ‘supportive and encouraging’, the action taken needs to mirror those statements and not indicate to staff management say one thing but do another
- Must be undertaken in a timely manner – the sooner known outcomes have been developed, the sooner action should be taken.
- Do not delay or defer the process of meeting with employees to discuss what has to/needs to be done.
- Must include advice to employees about what they can do if they believe their appraisal is inaccurate or unfair – according to any internal or legislated complaint resolution (or similar) procedures
- Must include realisation that while management is obliged to keep staff appraisals confidential, staff often do not – so it is important to understand what is said and what occurs as part of this phase of the process will often be shared by an employee with other members of staff and can quickly become ‘public knowledge’.

19. List six actions managers might take to underpin attainment of revised targets for staff on the basis of their individual appraisal.

- Proving necessary support to the individual targeted to identified and agreed need – this may involve:
 - Mentoring
 - Coaching
 - Training
 - More or different resources
 - Provision of or access to more or different information

- Providing support for out-of-work problems encountered by staff – such as:
 - Introducing workers to professional external assistance – for relevant issues such as relationships, health, financial matters
 - Making staff aware of government funded/subsidised staff assistance schemes
 - Preparing rosters in a way which will help relieve pressure or help accommodate assistance for identified problems
- Re-allocating work-related matters – such as:
 - Re-distribution of duties and/or responsibilities
 - Re-determination of targets to more achievable (or realistic) levels
 - Revision of product and/or service standards to different levels/standards
 - Adjustment of workload
 - Re-organisation of work practices
- Providing formal counselling – as appropriate to agreed needs identified by the outcome of the appraisal
- Making a conscious decision to take no action – where the results of the appraisal are deemed to be acceptable
- Promoting the person – where their results on an ongoing basis have indicated their potential/capacity for higher-level responsibilities and positions, and the individual has expressed a desire for advancement
- Agreement on short-term goals for improvement – by creating a formal plan for the staff member setting actions and dates for achieving sub-sets of the main objective which needs to be attained as identified by the appraisal
- Raising the standards and/or targets – for workers who achieved the previous goals set for them as a way of acknowledging their achievement and keeping their work challenging and interesting
- Moving a staff member to another role – this may be applicable where:
 - Their current performance in a role remains unacceptable despite genuine effort to improve and where the organisation believes the staff member is a real asset to the business
 - The individual has expressed a wish to be transferred to another role – and such a position is available and appears to be a logical response to the given situation
- Setting a different focus for subsequent staff appraisals – so the skills, knowledge and attitude of the staff member are evaluated in a different area and/or for a different skill set
- Using a staff member who has achieved outstanding results within the organisation – as:
 - Role model for others
 - A coach or mentor
 - A workplace trainer.

20. Identify six points which need to be taken into account when developing reward and incentive schemes for workplaces.

- The need to identify exactly who is entitled to which rewards – in some businesses there may be certain staff who are not eligible, and in other cases certain staff are only eligible for some rewards but not others
- The nature/type of reward – stating and describing exactly what the incentive is
- Approvals which have to be obtained before the reward can be given
- Limitation to rewards
- Time-frames may apply to the application of rewards
- Records which needs to be completed when issuing a reward
- Ways in which rewards and incentives are communicated
- Protocols for celebrating awards – internally and externally.

21. Rewards and incentives must be of value in the eyes of the staff/people they are aimed at: discuss.

No model answer.

22. Give five examples of generic rewards and incentives which may be used to motivate employees.

- Financial compensation and benefits
- Verbal praise
- Certificates and letters
- Free product/services
- Promotions
- Time off
- Encouraging/allowing attendance at events
- Promoting industry nomination.

23. Describe six effective and efficient ways for organisations to communicate their rewards and incentive schemes to employees.

- As part of the standard induction and orientation given to new workers
- As a topic for internal staff training
- By including the procedures in the Staff handbook
- By including the procedures on the internal organisational intranet facility
- By using workplace posters
- By holding special meetings
- Making regular mention of the schemes at standard staff meetings
- Sending emails to staff
- Distributing hard copies of rewards and incentives
- Including an article in an internal staff newsletter.

24. Describe five key actions for managers to take to properly and fairly implement approved reward and incentive schemes.

- Know the policies and the schemes thoroughly
- Ensure without doubt and without exception all staff who are eligible for the rewards and incentive have been properly advised in relation the schemes
- Take action to make sure the performance/results of staff in relation to the subject (topic/focus) of the scheme is actively tracked and monitored
- Make sure the schemes and the rewards and incentives are kept 'front of mind' in the minds of staff
- Ensure the rewards and incentives are issued in accordance with promises made about them
- Celebrate all rewards and incentives which are provided
- Discuss the scheme with employees and senior management after it has been operational for some time.

25. Discuss the context of workplace counselling of staff.

Answer must address:

- Workplace counselling is concerned with discussions and analysis of personal and work-related problems which affect an employee's work performance in an attempt to find a solution
- Discipline by contrast can be defined as a direct statement by a manager of what is wrong and a directive to the employee to improve: in effect it is a warning
- Counselling is about problem solving and as such must come before any disciplinary action
- The employee should be told clearly in a counselling session that it is a counselling session, not a disciplinary session.

26. Identify four opportunities provided for by workplace counselling for employees.

- Correct actions requiring attention
- Rebuild skills, knowledge, attitudes and/or confidence
- Improve unsuitable, unsatisfactory or unsafe conditions
- Change the working environment, policies, procedures and/or protocols
- Solve existing problems which have been raised/identified
- Prevent future problems which can be predicted/foreseen
- Build trust and consolidate relationships between employees and their supervisors
- Communicate the goals and objectives of the organisation and individual departments.

27. What are the three important generic reasons managers must learn counselling skills?

- Legal
- Organisational
- Individual.

28. Counselling is not a 'friendly chat': discuss.

Answer must address:

- Counselling requires the use of skills, knowledge and a special attitude
- The counselling session has a structure and it has a structured follow-up or action plan as its result
- For example, the effective manager/counsellor is aware of notions such as stereotyping, personal bias, victimisation, individual personalities and similar.
- The supervisor/counsellor must be able to separate the person from the behaviour.

29. What are the three reasons managers might initiate a counselling session?

- Poor work performance
- Breach of policy – poor behaviour
- Information sharing.

30. Identify five counselling techniques and strategies which have proven to be effective for workplace managers.

- Applying informal but structured discussions between management and staff
- Implementing application of suitable counselling strategies to meet individual and company needs
- Recording/documenting the counselling sessions
- Requiring the employee to sign-off on the decisions reached during the counselling session
- Providing the appropriate level of support during the counselling commensurate with the issues being dealt with
- Referring the staff member to external professional services
- Scheduling the delivery of counselling in a timely manner.

31. Give five good reasons for documenting staff counselling sessions.

- Industrial relations legislation or relevant employment instruments may require it
- It demonstrates sound management practice
- Documenting the conversation serves to highlight to staff who are part of the process the session is being taken seriously
- It provides solid details of the discussion
- It generates a permanent record of the discussion
- When shared with the staff member who was participating in the discussion it helps remind them of what was discussed.

32. Describe four protocols which might apply to the sharing of information/records generated as a result of a staff counselling sessions.

- Shared with the staff member who was part of the counselling session – they are traditionally given a copy of the record which they are asked to sign as a ‘true and correct account of what occurred in the session
- Staff are given a copy of the signed record to keep for their own purposes and a signed copy is kept on file, as proof of what took place within the counselling session
- Provided to a designated staff member – who is functioning as a staff advisor/representative throughout the process
- Forwarded to designated senior managers/management – in accordance with internal policies regarding staff management practices
- Sent to central administration/HR department – for inclusion in the personnel file of the individual staff member
- Given to any worker within the organisation who has been allocated responsibility under the plan designed to address identified individual staff need – in most cases an edited version of the record could be provided to certain co-workers, supervisors and/or training officers.

33. What three objectives must a manager achieve before a counselling session concludes?

- Identify the action to take to address the requirements which are the basis of the counselling
- Gain agreement from the worker about the action to be taken – agreeing:
 - The proposed course of action will actually effectively address/resolve the identified problem or issue
 - The intended course of action is a legitimate response to the problem/issue and does not place any unfair obligations on the staff member
 - The worker will commit to genuinely engaging with proposed activities – to help resolve/solve the issue
- Set a date, time and venue for the next counselling session.

34. Give three reasons every counselling session is unique.

Each session:

- Will address an individual problem
- Involve a certain staff member
- Occur at a different/certain point in time
- Be surrounded by a range of dynamic factors.

35. Describe six options available to managers to include in 'actions and directions' they could include in a planning document designed to help a staff member improve their workplace performance as a result of a counselling session.

- Providing formal training
- Introducing job rotation
- Allowing internal transfer
- Bringing in job sharing
- Resourcing
- Reformulating documentation
- Refining the work role
- Altering the motivational factors applicable to the individual
- Changing the work hours of the staff member
- Requiring attendance at nominated sessions/events.

36. Identify the steps/processes to follow when developing disciplinary or termination procedures.

- Obtain copies of similar policies and procedures from similar business
- Contact employment-related authorities to obtain their input in relation to relevant/mandatory legislated obligations which must be complied with
- Convene a workplace team to develop the workplace policies and procedures
- Develop draft policies
- Develop draft procedures
- Circulate the draft policies and procedures for discussion and feedback
- Refine and/or revise the draft policies and procedures into final form on the basis of feedback and/or as necessary
- Obtain formal management approval for all policies and procedures
- Circulate the final/approved policies and procedures.

37. Give four examples of possible workplace disciplinary procedures.

- Verbal warnings
- Demotions
- Reduction in job-related 'privileges'
- Reduction of work hours
- Imposition of non-negotiable requirements
- Provision of written description of workplace requirements and standards.

38. Give four examples of possible workplace termination procedures.

- Evidence suitable other action has been undertaken prior to the decision to terminate the staff member
- Advice to the employee their employment is to be terminated – either in writing or in front of an appropriate witness
- Identification of termination payments to be paid to the person – and how these are to be calculated
- Notification of relevant termination information – such as cause of termination, date of termination, payment of wages
- Advice in relation to a range of allied issues as/if appropriate – such as return of keys and uniform, participation in exit interview, completion of final paperwork, escorting from premises.

39. What are the two constant mandatory requirements when applying disciplinary procedures?

- Enterprise policies and procedures must be observed
- Host country legislation must be complied with.

40. Give six examples of situations which may give rise to legitimate implementation of approved disciplinary procedures.

- Failure of employee to meet performance standards required by the organisation
- Failure by staff to behave/act in ways required by the organisation
- Failure by employee to meet identified personal presentation standards
- Failure of worker to meet performance and/or productivity target/s
- Failure by an employee to follow/implement required safety protocols in the execution of their job
- Inappropriate actions or conduct in the workplace and/or towards other people (staff, management and/or customers)
- Wilful misconduct in the workplace including deliberate insolence and/or verbal abuse
- Disobedience of a lawful directive/instruction
- Breach of certain terms and conditions as spelled out in individual contracts of employment/employment instruments.

41. Identify five situations which may give rise to legitimate implementation of approved termination procedures.

- Deliberate and intentional damage to workplace equipment
- Fighting and/or violence in the workplace
- Harassment or unacceptable treatment of and/or dealings with others in the workplace
- Intoxication in the workplace
- Theft/stealing of any kind in the workplace
- Making threats.

42. Describe six ways for organisations to communicate their disciplinary and termination procedures with employees.

- As part of the standard induction and orientation given to new workers – where verbal explanations supplemented by handouts may be provided
- As a stand-alone topic for internal staff training – required as a mandatory component for all employees
- By including the procedures in the Staff handbook – provided to all staff
- By including the procedures on the internal organisational intranet facility – so all staff have access
- By using workplace posters – located in common staff areas such as staff rooms, change rooms, meal rooms
- By holding special meetings – to highlight, explain and disseminate new or revised procedures
- Making regular mention of the procedures at standard staff meetings – such as team meetings, briefings and de-briefing sessions
- Sending emails to staff – with attachments containing new or revised procedures
- Distributing hard copies of procedures – for example at staff meetings and briefings and/or in pay envelopes.

43. What are the five steps identified in the notes to follow when implementing disciplinary and termination procedures?

- Step 1 – staff should be counselled about their behaviour and/or performance
 - Step 2 – time and resources should be provided to allow staff to comply with requirements
 - Step 3 – failure to meet requirements may result in disciplinary action being taken according to the type and severity of the issue
 - Step 4 – further time and resources should be provided to allow staff to comply with requirements
 - Step 5 – continued non-compliance results in implementation of termination of the employee.
