Competency Based Training (CBT) and assessment – An introduction for trainers

Competency

Competency refers to the ability to perform particular tasks and duties to the standard of performance expected in the workplace.

Competency requires the application of specified knowledge, skills and attitudes relevant to effective participation, consistently over time and in the workplace environment.

The essential skills and knowledge are either identified separately or combined.

Knowledge identifies what a person needs to know to perform the work in an informed and effective manner.

Skills describe the application of knowledge to situations where understanding is converted into a workplace outcome.

Attitude describes the founding reasons behind the need for certain knowledge or why skills are performed in a specified manner.

Competency covers all aspects of workplace performance and involves:

- Performing individual tasks
- Managing a range of different tasks
- Responding to contingencies or breakdowns
- Dealing with the responsibilities of the workplace
- Working with others.

Unit of Competency

Like with any training qualification or program, a range of subject topics are identified that focus on the ability in a certain work area, responsibility or function.

Each manual focuses on a specific unit of competency that applies in the hospitality workplace.

In this manual a unit of competency is identified as a 'unit'.

Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace requirement and includes:

- Knowledge and skills that underpin competency
- Language, literacy and numeracy
- Occupational safety and health requirements.

Each unit of competency must be adhered to in training and assessment to ensure consistency of outcomes.

Element of Competency

An element of competency describes the essential outcomes within a unit of competency.

The elements of competency are the basic building blocks of the unit of competency. They describe in terms of outcomes the significant functions and tasks that make up the competency.

In this manual elements of competency are identified as an 'element'.

Performance criteria

Performance criteria indicate the standard of performance that is required to demonstrate achievement within an element of competency. The standards reflect identified industry skill needs.

Performance criteria will be made up of certain specified skills, knowledge and attitudes.

Learning

For the purpose of this manual learning incorporates two key activities:

- Training
- Assessment.

Both of these activities will be discussed in detail in this introduction.

Today training and assessment can be delivered in a variety of ways. It may be provided to participants:

- On-the-job – in the workplace
- Off-the-job – at an educational institution or dedicated training environment
- As a combination of these two options.

No longer is it necessary for learners to be absent from the workplace for long periods of time in order to obtain recognised and accredited qualifications.

Learning Approaches

This manual will identify two avenues to facilitate learning:

Competency Based Training (CBT)

This is the strategy of developing a participant's competency.

Educational institutions utilise a range of training strategies to ensure that participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required for successful:

- Completion of the training program or qualification
- Implementation in the workplace.

The strategies selected should be chosen based on suitability and the learning styles of participants.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

This is the strategy of assessing competency of a participant.

Educational institutions utilise a range of assessment strategies to ensure that participants are assessed in a manner that demonstrates validity, fairness, reliability, flexibility and fairness of assessment processes.

Flexibility in Learning

It is important to note that flexibility in training and assessment strategies is required to meet the needs of participants who may have learning difficulties. The strategies used will vary, taking into account the needs of individual participants with learning difficulties. However they will be applied in a manner which does not discriminate against the participant or the participant body as a whole.

Catering for Participant Diversity

Participants have diverse backgrounds, needs and interests. When planning training and assessment activities to cater for individual differences, trainers and assessors should:

- Consider individuals' experiences, learning styles and interests
- Develop questions and activities that are aimed at different levels of ability
- Modify the expectations for some participants
- Provide opportunities for a variety of forms of participation, such as individual, pair and small group activities
- Assess participants based on individual progress and outcomes.

The diversity among participants also provides a good reason for building up a learning community in which participants support each other's learning.

Participant Centred Learning

This involves taking into account structuring training and assessment that:

- Builds on strengths – Training environments need to demonstrate the many positive features of local participants (such as the attribution of academic success to effort, and the social nature of achievement motivation) and of their trainers (such as a strong emphasis on subject disciplines and moral responsibility). These strengths and uniqueness of local participants and trainers should be acknowledged and treasured
- Acknowledges prior knowledge and experience – The learning activities should be planned with participants' prior knowledge and experience in mind
- Understands learning objectives – Each learning activity should have clear learning objectives and participants should be informed of them at the outset. Trainers should also be clear about the purpose of assignments and explain their significance to participants
- Teaches for understanding – The pedagogies chosen should aim at enabling participants to act and think flexibly with what they know
- Teaches for independent learning – Generic skills and reflection should be nurtured through learning activities in appropriate contexts of the curriculum. Participants should be encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning

- Enhances motivation – Learning is most effective when participants are motivated. Various strategies should be used to arouse the interest of participants
- Makes effective use of resources – A variety of teaching resources can be employed as tools for learning
- Maximises engagement – In conducting learning activities, it is important for the minds of participants to be actively engaged
- Aligns assessment with learning and teaching – Feedback and assessment should be an integral part of learning and teaching
- Caters for learner diversity – Trainers should be aware that participants have different characteristics and strengths and try to nurture these rather than impose a standard set of expectations.

Active Learning

The goal of nurturing independent learning in participants does not imply that they always have to work in isolation or solely in a classroom. On the contrary, the construction of knowledge in tourism and hospitality studies can often best be carried out in collaboration with others in the field. Sharing experiences, insights and views on issues of common concern, and working together to collect information through conducting investigative studies in the field (active learning) can contribute a lot to their eventual success.

Active learning has an important part to play in fostering a sense of community in the class. First, to operate successfully, a learning community requires an ethos of acceptance and a sense of trust among participants, and between them and their trainers. Trainers can help to foster acceptance and trust through encouragement and personal example, and by allowing participants to take risks as they explore and articulate their views, however immature these may appear to be. Participants also come to realise that their classmates (and their trainers) are partners in learning and solving.

Trainers can also encourage cooperative learning by designing appropriate group learning tasks, which include, for example, collecting background information, conducting small-scale surveys, or producing media presentations on certain issues and themes. Participants need to be reminded that, while they should work towards successful completion of the field tasks, developing positive peer relationships in the process is an important objective of all group work.

Competency Based Training (CBT)

Principle of Competency Based Training

Competency based training is aimed at developing the knowledge, skills and attitudes of participants, through a variety of training tools.

Training Strategies

The aims of this curriculum are to enable participants to:

- Undertake a variety of subject courses that are relevant to industry in the current environment
- Learn current industry skills, information and trends relevant to industry
- Learn through a range of practical and theoretical approaches
- Be able to identify, explore and solve issues in a productive manner

- Be able to become confident, equipped and flexible managers of the future
- Be 'job ready' and a valuable employee in the industry upon graduation of any qualification level.

To ensure participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required to meet competency in each unit of competency in the qualification, a range of training delivery modes are used.

Types of Training

In choosing learning and teaching strategies, trainers should take into account the practical, complex and multi-disciplinary nature of the subject area, as well as their participant's prior knowledge, learning styles and abilities.

Training outcomes can be attained by utilising one or more delivery methods:

Lecture/Tutorial

This is a common method of training involving transfer of information from the trainer to the participants. It is an effective approach to introduce new concepts or information to the learners and also to build upon the existing knowledge. The listener is expected to reflect on the subject and seek clarifications on the doubts.

Demonstration

Demonstration is a very effective training method that involves a trainer showing a participant how to perform a task or activity. Through a visual demonstration, trainers may also explain reasoning behind certain actions or provide supplementary information to help facilitate understanding.

Group Discussions

Brainstorming in which all the members in a group express their ideas, views and opinions on a given topic. It is a free flow and exchange of knowledge among the participants and the trainer. The discussion is carried out by the group on the basis of their own experience, perceptions and values. This will facilitate acquiring new knowledge. When everybody is expected to participate in the group discussion, even the introverted persons will also get stimulated and try to articulate their feelings.

The ideas that emerge in the discussions should be noted down and presentations are to be made by the groups. Sometimes consensus needs to be arrived at on a given topic. Group discussions are to be held under the moderation of a leader guided by the trainer. Group discussion technique triggers thinking process, encourages interactions and enhances communication skills.

Role Play

This is a common and very effective method of bringing into the classroom real life situations, which may not otherwise be possible. Participants are made to enact a particular role so as to give a real feel of the roles they may be called upon to play. This enables participants to understand the behaviour of others as well as their own emotions and feelings. The instructor must brief the role players on what is expected of them. The role player may either be given a ready-made script, which they can memorize and enact, or they may be required to develop their own scripts around a given situation. This technique is extremely useful in understanding creative selling techniques and human relations. It can be entertaining and energizing and it helps the reserved and less literate to express their feelings.

Simulation Games

When trainees need to become aware of something that they have not been conscious of, simulations can be a useful mechanism. Simulation games are a method based on "here and now" experience shared by all the participants. The games focus on the participation of the trainees and their willingness to share their ideas with others. A "near real life" situation is created providing an opportunity to which they apply themselves by adopting certain behaviour. They then experience the impact of their behaviour on the situation. It is carried out to generate responses and reactions based on the real feelings of the participants, which are subsequently analysed by the trainer.

While use of simulation games can result in very effective learning, it needs considerable trainer competence to analyse the situations.

Individual /Group Exercises

Exercises are often introduced to find out how much the participant has assimilated. This method involves imparting instructions to participants on a particular subject through use of written exercises. In the group exercises, the entire class is divided into small groups, and members are asked to collaborate to arrive at a consensus or solution to a problem.

Case Study

This is a training method that enables the trainer and the participant to experience a real life situation. It may be on account of events in the past or situations in the present, in which there may be one or more problems to be solved and decisions to be taken. The basic objective of a case study is to help participants diagnose, analyse and/or solve a particular problem and to make them internalize the critical inputs delivered in the training. Questions are generally given at the end of the case study to direct the participants and to stimulate their thinking towards possible solutions. Studies may be presented in written or verbal form.

Field Visit

This involves a carefully planned visit or tour to a place of learning or interest. The idea is to give first-hand knowledge by personal observation of field situations, and to relate theory with practice. The emphasis is on observing, exploring, asking questions and understanding. The trainer should remember to brief the participants about what they should observe and about the customs and norms that need to be respected.

Group Presentation

The participants are asked to work in groups and produce the results and findings of their group work to the members of another sub-group. By this method participants get a good picture of each other's views and perceptions on the topic and they are able to compare them with their own point of view. The pooling and sharing of findings enriches the discussion and learning process.

Practice Sessions

This method is of paramount importance for skills training. Participants are provided with an opportunity to practice in a controlled situation what they have learnt. It could be real life or through a make-believe situation.

Games

This is a group process and includes those methods that involve usually fun-based activity, aimed at conveying feelings and experiences, which are everyday in nature, and applying them within the game being played. A game has set rules and regulations, and may or may not include a competitive element. After the game is played, it is essential that the participants be debriefed and their lessons and experiences consolidated by the trainer.

Research

Trainers may require learners to undertake research activities, including online research, to gather information or further understanding about a specific subject area.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

Principle of Competency Based Assessment

Competency based assessment is aimed at compiling a list of evidence that shows that a person is competent in a particular unit of competency.

Competencies are gained through a multitude of ways including:

- Training and development programs
- Formal education
- Life experience
- Apprenticeships
- On-the-job experience
- Self-help programs.

All of these together contribute to job competence in a person. Ultimately, assessors and participants work together, through the 'collection of evidence' in determining overall competence.

This evidence can be collected:

- Using different formats
- Using different people
- Collected over a period of time.

The assessor who is ideally someone with considerable experience in the area being assessed, reviews the evidence and verifies the person as being competent or not.

Flexibility in Assessment

Whilst allocated assessment tools have been identified for this subject, all attempts are made to determine competency and suitable alternate assessment tools may be used, according to the requirements of the participant.

The assessment needs to be equitable for all participants, taking into account their cultural and linguistic needs.

Competency must be proven regardless of:

- Language
- Delivery Method
- Assessment Method.

Assessment Objectives

The assessment tools used for subjects are designed to determine competency against the 'elements of competency' and their associated 'performance criteria'.

The assessment tools are used to identify sufficient:

- a) Knowledge, including underpinning knowledge
- b) Skills
- c) Attitudes

Assessment tools are activities that trainees are required to undertake to prove participant competency in this subject.

All assessments must be completed satisfactorily for participants to obtain competence in this subject. There are no exceptions to this requirement, however, it is possible that in some cases several assessment items may be combined and assessed together.

Types of Assessment

Allocated Assessment Tools

There are a number of assessment tools that are used to determine competency in this subject:

- Work projects
- Written questions
- Oral questions
- Third Party Report
- Observation Checklist.

Instructions on how assessors should conduct these assessment methods are explained in the Assessment Manuals.

Alternative Assessment Tools

Whilst this subject has identified assessment tools, as indicated above, this does not restrict the assessor from using different assessment methods to measure the competency of a participant.

Evidence is simply proof that the assessor gathers to show participants can actually do what they are required to do.

Whilst there is a distinct requirement for participants to demonstrate competency, there are many and diverse sources of evidence available to the assessor.

Ongoing performance at work, as verified by a supervisor or physical evidence, can count towards assessment. Additionally, the assessor can talk to customers or work colleagues to gather evidence about performance.

A range of assessment methods to assess competency include:

- Practical demonstrations
- Practical demonstrations in simulated work conditions
- Problem solving
- Portfolios of evidence
- Critical incident reports
- Journals
- Oral presentations
- Interviews
- Videos
- Visuals: slides, audio tapes
- Case studies
- Log books
- Projects
- Role plays
- Group projects
- Group discussions
- Examinations.

Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning is the process that gives current industry professionals who do not have a formal qualification, the opportunity to benchmark their extensive skills and experience against the standards set out in each unit of competency/subject.

Also known as a Skills Recognition Audit (SRA), this process is a learning and assessment pathway which encompasses:

- Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC)
- Skills auditing
- Gap analysis and training
- Credit transfer.

Assessing competency

As mentioned, assessment is the process of identifying a participant's current knowledge, skills and attitudes sets against all elements of competency within a unit of competency. Traditionally in education, grades or marks were given to participants, dependent on how many questions the participant successfully answered in an assessment tool.

Competency based assessment does not award grades, but simply identifies if the participant has the knowledge, skills and attitudes to undertake the required task to the specified standard.

Therefore, when assessing competency, an assessor has two possible results that can be awarded:

- Pass Competent (PC)
- Not Yet Competent (NYC).

Pass Competent (PC)

If the participant is able to successfully answer or demonstrate what is required, to the expected standards of the performance criteria, they will be deemed as 'Pass Competent' (PC).

The assessor will award a 'Pass Competent' (PC) if they feel the participant has the necessary knowledge, skills and attitudes in all assessment tasks for a unit.

Not Yet Competent' (NYC)

If the participant is unable to answer or demonstrate competency to the desired standard, they will be deemed to be 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

This does not mean the participant will need to complete all the assessment tasks again. The focus will be on the specific assessment tasks that were not performed to the expected standards.

The participant may be required to:

- a) Undertake further training or instruction
- b) Undertake the assessment task again until they are deemed to be 'Pass Competent'.

UNIT TITLE: SERVE A RANGE OF WINE PRODUCTS		NOMINAL HOURS: 90
UNIT NUMBER: D1.HBS.CL5.15
UNIT DESCRIPTOR: This unit deals with skills and knowledge required to develop and maintain wine knowledge, undertake the sensory evaluation of wines, provide advice on, and the table service of, wines
ELEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE CRITERIA		UNIT VARIABLE AND ASSESSMENT GUIDE
Element 1: Develop wine knowledge 1.1 Identify and differentiate between wine styles 1.2 Identify and differentiate between the major grape varieties used in wine production 1.3 Identify major wine producing countries and the wines they produce 1.4 Identify the steps in basic wine production 1.5 Describe variations in grape growing and wine production techniques 1.6 Interpret wine labels to identify and make assessment of wine contained within bottles Element 2: Store and retrieve wines 2.1 Develop in-house wine storage facilities 2.2 Create floor wine displays and self-service stands 2.3 Store wines in established wine storage facilities		Unit Variables The Unit Variables provide advice to interpret the scope and context of this unit of competence, allowing for differences between enterprises and workplaces. It relates to the unit as a whole and facilitates holistic assessment This unit applies to all industry sectors that includes the table service of wine within the labour divisions of the hotel and travel industries and may include: - Food and Beverage Service. Wine styles must include: • Still reds and still whites • Sparkling reds and sparkling whites • Pink wines • Fortified wines • Rice wines • Styles of wines distinctive to, or popular within, individual establishments and/or host countries • Generic wines and varietals • Impact of European Union (EU) And European Economic Community (EEC) on wine production

2.4 Retrieve wines for service/sale Element 3: Undertake sensory appraisal of wines 3.1 Create the conditions for wine tasting and appraisal 3.2 Evaluate wines by sight, taste and smell 3.3 Identify wines by style and grape variety 3.4 Determine wine quality and characteristics 3.5 Identify wine faults Element 4: Provide advice to patrons 4.1 Present wine list/lists to patrons 4.2 Identify patron preferences and food that has been ordered 4.3 Recommend suitable wine and food combinations to meet identified needs and preferences 4.4 Explain choice of recommended wine and food combinations 4.5 Inform patrons of relevant wine production countries, grape varieties, wine production techniques and associated wine industry information, trends and details 4.6 Interpret wine medals and wine judging methodologies	and naming protocols. Major grape varieties must include: • Red, such as but not limited to Shiraz, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Pinot Noir • White, such as but not limited to Chardonnay, Rhine Riesling, Semillon, Sauvignon Blanc, Chenin Blanc, Colombard • Grape varieties distinctive to, or popular within, individual establishments and/or host countries. Major wine producing countries must include: • Australia, France (including Bordeaux, Burgundy, Champagne), Germany, Italy, Portugal, New Zealand, Chile, South Africa, California, Bali • Other countries and/or regions popular within individual establishments and/or host countries. Steps in basic wine production must include: • The basic steps may be seen as, harvesting grapes, crushing, pressing, yeast addition, fermentation, clarification and stabilisation, storage, bottling, bottle maturation • Consideration of variations in winemaking including white wine, red wine, sparkling wine and fortified wine production techniques. Variations in grape growing and wine production techniques may include: • Impact of geographical location, soil, climate considering macro-/micro-climates • Canopy and harvest management, rainfall and/or irrigation, fertilisers used • Techniques such as maceration, cold fermentation, barrel fermentation, use of oak, ageing, malolactic fermentation, reduced alcohol wines and various viticulture techniques • Alternative methods for the production of sparkling wines, including, méthode champenoise, transfer method, bulk method, injection method. Wine storage facilities should include: • Storage facilities for red, white, sparkling and fortified wines • Create appropriate storage conditions for each wine classification, including suitable space, temperatures and humidity • Facilities to allow the cellaring of vintage wines for future use

Element 5: Serve wines5.1 Present and serve red table wines5.2 Present and serve white table wines5.3 Present and serve sparkling wines5.4 Present and serve fortified wines5.5 Serve house wines5.6 Respond to patron complaints about wineElement 6: Maintain wine knowledge*6.1 Implement formal and informal research to update knowledge about wine6.2 Identify emerging trends in the consumption of wine and changes in patron preferences6.3 Share updated wine knowledge with others

- Consideration of a system to store wines according to type, vintage, style, maker or country

Store wines must include:

- Completion of necessary in-house documentation to record wine storage
- Storage of red, white, sparkling and fortified wines under correct storage conditions
- Ensuring the security and presentation of all products
- Monitoring wine and bottle conditions during storage.

Retrieve wines must include:

- Completion of necessary in-house documentation to track stock movement of wine
- Retrieval of designated red, white, sparkling and fortified wines to meet customer requests and/or display and other internal requirements
- Verifying the condition of wines that are retrieved.

Conditions for wine tasting must include:

- Preparation of suitable venue with necessary accoutrements such as glassware, corkscrews, spittoons, product information sheets, tasting notes, tasting and wine style criteria
- Assembly of appropriate wines.

Sight, taste and smell must include:

- Swirling of wines, assessing clarity, describing colour and its intensity and assessment of alcohol content by 'legs' (viscosity)
- Recognising 'off' odours, describing smell characteristics and assessing wine age
- Recognised tasting and spitting techniques, recognising acidity, sweetness, weight/body, length and faults
- Describing flavour intensity and assessing balance of the wine on the palate.

Wine quality and characteristics (wine evaluation) must include:

- Comparison and rating of wines against set criteria
- Assessing acceptability of wines against identified preferences of target markets
- Consideration and evaluation of wine clarity, colour, type, alcohol, aroma, flavour, sweetness,

	acidity, body, weight, mouth feel, tannin, balance and length • Consideration of the suitability of wines for ageing/cellaring. Wine faults must include: • Deposits, haze, tartrates, oxidation, cork taint and excessive sulphur • Visible problems with bottles, labels and corks before wines are opened. Wine and food combinations must include nominating suitable wine marriages for: • Appetisers and entrees • Main course dishes, including primary ingredients that include meat, such as beef, lamb, pork, and poultry, fish and seafood, pasta, wet dishes, salads, and cuisine dishes specific to the host country • Hot and cold desserts • Cheese platters • Nominated occasions, celebrations and special events. Wine medals and wine judging methodologies must include: • Identification of wine criteria for show judging purposes • Identification and interpretation of wine trophies • Explanation of the medal classifications that apply to wine judging • Explanation of techniques used by wine judges to evaluate and score wines submitted for judging. Serve wines must include: • Presentation and announcement of wines to patrons prior to opening, including checking of quality, temperature and bottle presentation • Selection and setting of appropriate glassware by style and capacity to match the chosen wine, including the use of trays to carry glassware to table • Use of wine serving accoutrements, including wine baskets, waiter's friend, corkscrews, candle, decanter, napkins, wine lists • Decanting of wines that have thrown deposits

- Application of traditional wine service ritual
- Pouring of wines at table
- Tasting of wine by host and pouring of wine to other guests
- Replenishment of glasses and selling additional wine, where appropriate
- Clearing of wine glasses, bottles and corks from tables
- Compliance with liquor licensing and service legislation of the host country
- Compliance with safe food handling requirements of the host country.

Formal and informal research should include:

- Reading trade/wine magazines and other literature
- Attending wine shows and seminars
- Speaking with industry representatives
- Visiting wineries and speaking with wine makers
- Tasting wines and building a comprehensive set of personal tasting notes
- Reviewing new wine releases
- Attending wine training courses/sessions.

Emerging trends should include:

- In-house patterns and trends
- Host country patterns and trends
- International patterns and trends.

Share updated wine knowledge must include:

- Dissemination of New Wine Knowledge to Waiting Staff, Management and Patrons.

Assessment Guide

The following skills and knowledge must be assessed as part of this unit:

- The enterprise's policies and procedures in regard to the sale, service and promotion of alcohol
- Ability to use safe food handling techniques

	• Ability to research and maintain specialised knowledge in relation to all wine types from a diverse range of wine countries • Selling, promotional and interpersonal skills including communication, complaint resolution and refusal of service • Knowledge of wine suppliers who can assist in meeting establishment wine needs. Linkages To Other Units • Provide food and beverage service • Operate a bar facility • Manage responsible service of alcohol • Promote hospitality products and services • Comply with workplace hygiene procedures • Develop and maintain food and beverage product knowledge • Provide advice to patrons on food and beverage services. Critical Aspects of Assessment Evidence of the following is essential: • Understanding of why safe food handling procedures must be followed • Demonstrated ability to evaluate a nominated range of wines from each wine category • Demonstrated ability to comply with the liquor licensing requirements of the host country • Demonstrated ability to research and present information on a nominated wine • Demonstrated ability to store, monitor and retrieve designated wines • Demonstrated ability to present, where appropriate, serve and clear: ▪ Red table wines ▪ White table wines ▪ Sparkling wines ▪ Fortified wines ▪ House wines
--	---

- Demonstrated Ability To Recommend Wines That Would Be Suitable To Accompany A Range Of Nominated Menu Items.

Context of Assessment

Assessment must ensure:

- Actual or simulated workplace settings which must include:
 - Service area such as a dining room or restaurant
 - Patrons
 - Wine storage areas/cellars
 - Food menu to serve, as the basis for recommending wines
 - Wine list/s
 - Glassware and wine service requisites.

Resource Implications

Training and assessment must include the use of real products, materials, utensils, and wines; and access to workplace standards, procedures, policies, guidelines, tools and equipment.

Assessment Methods

The following methods may be used to assess competency for this unit:

- Observation of practical candidate performance
- Taste testing, identification and evaluation of a nominated range of wines including identification of nominated wine faults
- Development of new wine storage facilities or written critique of existing wine storage facilities within the host enterprise
- Creation of an in-room display to promote a nominated wine product
- Oral and written questions
- Third party reports completed by a supervisor
- Project and assignment work
- Simulations.

Key Competencies in this Unit

Level 1 = competence to undertake tasks effectively

Level 2 = competence to manage tasks

Level 3 = competence to use concepts for evaluating

Key Competencies	Level	Examples
Collecting, organising and analysing information	3	Gather information on wines, the industry and trends; read wine literature; write tasting notes
Communicating ideas and information	3	Share information with patrons and other staff; work with wine suppliers, makers and distributors
Planning and organising activities	2	Organise wine storage/cellaring and advise on wine stocks
Working with others and in teams	1	Provide timely service of wines to match food service
Using mathematical ideas and techniques	1	Calculate quantity of wine required for parties
Solving problems	2	Resolve patron complaints; change wine lists to mirror changes in food menus
Using technology	1	Use wine storage equipment and other wine service accoutrements

Questions

- What is the difference between varietal and generic wines?
- What is the difference between these?

Slide

Varietal wines

- 'Varietal' wines are wines made from one grape variety
- The name of this grape appears on the label of the bottle
- The wine must be made from a minimum 85% of that stated variety

Slide 9

Slide No	Trainer Notes
9.	Questions • What types of varietal wines do you know? • Which are white wines? • Which are red wines?

Slide

Generic wines

'Generic' is the term used to describe wines are made to a style, usually naming a European location as its origin.

- What generic wines do you know?

Generic wines

Generic white wines

Generic white wines include:

- Chablis
- Hock
- Moselle
- Sauternes
- White Burgundy

Slide 11

Slide No	Trainer Notes
11.	Questions & Discussion What taste characteristics do each of these generic wines have? • Chablis – a very dry, flinty wine • Hock – a very dry white wine • Moselle – a popular and pleasantly semi-sweet wine, less sweet than Sauternes • Riesling – drier than Moselle. Often described as fruity and has its fruitiness confused with sweetness • Sauternes – produced from fully ripe grapes, a very sweet wine • White Burgundy – a fairly dry white with full flavour.

Slide

Generic wines

Generic red wines

Generic red wines include:

- Burgundy
- Claret

Slide 12

Slide No	Trainer Notes
12.	Questions & Discussion What taste characteristics do each of these generic wines have? • Burgundy – a soft and fruity red wine • Claret – a dry red with more astringency than burgundy.

Slide

Varietal and generic wines

When most wine industries started, most if not all of its wines were generic wines.

Today there is a tendency for:

- Cask or house wines to be generic
- Premium bottled wines to be varietal

Slide 13

Slide No	Trainer Notes
13.	Review menu, questions and wine selection Audience to review detailed wine menus identifying different types of varietal and generic wines. • What wines are house wines and why? • If you were preparing a menu based on the food menu what wines would you select and why? • What are other characteristics of house wine?

Slide

Fortified wines

Fortified wines are base wines which are strengthened or 'fortified' by the addition of grape spirit or brandy.

The addition of the grape spirit:

- Stops fermentation
- Increases alcoholic strength
- Adds sweetness
- Imparts keeping qualities
- Provides the brandy character

Slide 16

Slide

Identify and differentiate between the major grape varieties

Grapes

The most significant influence on the character of a wine is the actual berry or grape variety used.

- Grape variety refers to the type of grape
- Varietal refers to the wine made from those grapes

Slide 19

Slide No	Trainer Notes
19.	Questions • What types of grapes are used?

Slide

Identify and differentiate between the major grape varieties

Grapes

The structure of the grape berry can be broken down into three major components:

- Flesh containing juice
- Skin
- Seeds

Slide 20

Slide No	Trainer Notes
20.	Questions • How do these components impact a wine?

Slide

Varietal wines

Varietal white wines

White grape varieties include:

- Chardonnay
- Chenin Blanc
- Riesling
- Sauvignon Blanc
- Semillon
- Traminer

Slide 21

Slide No	Trainer Notes
21.	Questions & Discussion What taste characteristics do each of these varietal wines have? • Chardonnay – a full-flavoured dry white wine • Chenin Blanc – a pleasant fruity 'drink now' wine with a refreshing acid finish • Rhine Riesling – a delicate wine with fruit character and a trace of sugar that varies hugely depending on the region in which it is grown. Common flavour asparagus • Sauvignon Blanc – a dry white wine with distinct varietal flavour such as melon, pineapple, tropical fruit • Semillon – a dry, crisp white wine with grassy flavours • Traminer – a fresh and fruity wine with a spicy smell and taste.

Slide

Varietal red wines

Red grape varieties include:

- Cabernet Sauvignon
- Malbec
- Merlot
- Pinot Noir
- Shiraz

Slide 22

22.

Questions & Discussion

What taste characteristics do each of these varietal wines have?

- Cabernet Sauvignon – an aromatic red with berry, mint, capsicum and blackcurrant highlights
- Malbec – a fruity, soft wine
- Merlot – another fruity and aromatic red reminiscent of plums, pumpkins and fruitcake
- Pinot Noir – a lighter style red, thin in taste and colour, berry flavours
- Shiraz – also called 'Hermitage' this grape produces fine full-flavoured reds that vary greatly from region to region. They are often blended and have peppery characteristics.

Impacts on wine production

Different wine production methods

- Maceration
- Cold fermentation
- Barrel fermentation
- Use of oak
- Ageing

Slide 38

Slide No	Trainer Notes
38.	Discussion about winemaking influences • Maceration - To macerate is to soften by soaking, and maceration is the process by which the red wine receives its red colour • Cold fermentation – used to help control temperatures, especially in hot climates, during the fermentation process • Barrel fermentation - Barrel fermentation is the process of letting grape juice sit in a large wooden barrel (usually oak), during which time yeast turns the sugar in the grapes into alcohol and the juice is converted into wine • Use of oak – adds flavour, smoothness and vanilla, buttery characteristics in wine. This is achieved through contact with oak either in barrels or in 'chips or shavings' • Ageing – wine is left to mature leading to smoother, deeper and more complex characteristics.

Slide

Impacts on wine production

Different wine production methods

- Malo-lactic fermentation
- Reduced alcohol wines
- Various viticulture techniques
- Alternative methods for the production of sparkling wines

Slide 39

Slide No	Trainer Notes
39.	Discussion about winemaking influences • Malo-lactic fermentation – a process which tends to create a rounder, fuller feel in the mouth when drinking • Reduced alcohol wines – an alternative to attract different market segments • Various viticulture techniques • Alternative methods for the production of sparkling wines, including - Méthode Champenoise, transfer method, bulk method, injection method. These have been mentioned in the previous section.

- Country
- Vintage
- Alcohol content

Slide 41

Slide No	Trainer Notes
41.	Discuss information contained on label • Vineyard – name of the wine producer. This indicates expected wine quality and guarantee of consistency • Grape variety - tells you the most about the body and complexity of the wine. For example, Cabernet Sauvignon is full-bodied, intense, and tannic. As mentioned, the characteristics of different grape varieties will be explained later in this manual • Region – where the wine was produced. It helps to identify the expected style, intensity, and flavour • Country – again, notes where the wine has been produced • Vintage - or the year the wine is produced. This helps to reveal the best time to drink the wine • Alcohol content.

Slide

Provide wine advice

This section will explore the different elements of wine service that can be provided to a customer to help them make an informed decision in regards to selecting a wine, either to:

- Compliment a meal
- To be enjoyed on its own

Slide 99

Slide No	Trainer Notes
99.	Class Activity – Questions • Why is wine knowledge so important? • How can you gather this knowledge?

Slide

Provide wine advice

A fundamental requirement when assisting customers to buy a product is to:

- Determine their needs, wants and preferences
- Attempt to match what you have to these identified factors

Slide 100

Slide No	Trainer Notes
100.	Discuss the importance of listening and asking questions. This has been covered in a previous section.

Slide

Provide wine advice

Asking questions

- Do they prefer, or are they looking for, a red or a white?
- Do they want a wine from a selected country?
- If they are looking for a white wine, do they prefer or want a sweet or dry one?
- If they are after a red wine, do they want a full- or light-bodied one?
- Do they have a preference for a particular grape variety, growing region, or winery?
- How much do they wish to spend?
- What is the wine to be consumed with?

Slide 101

Slide No	Trainer Notes
101.	Questions • What other questions could you ask?

Slide

Provide wine advice

Giving general assistance

The most common form of assistance to be provided will evolve around helping to clarify:

- Compatibility of food and wine choices
- Interpretation of wines

Slide 102

Slide No

Trainer Notes

102.

Questions

- What interpretation do customers require about menu items?

Slide

Provide wine advice

Advise customers on appropriate wine and food choices

Information can be gained from:

- Winemakers
- Reading wine labels
- Wine literature
- Asking others
- Conducting research
- Conducting wine tastings

Slide 103

Slide

Explain special features

Understanding special items

Given that some wine and accompanying food will come from a specific region, it will be the first time the customer will try it.

- What do you need to know about these products?
- Why is it important to know it?
- How can the information help customers?

Slide 109

Slide No	Trainer Notes
109.	Questions Ask the questions in the slide.

Slide

Explain special features

Understanding special item features

- History of the wine
- Characteristics of the items
- Region of origin
- How it is made
- Any menu accompaniments that are commonly served with the wine
- Its availability for purchase

Slide 110

Slide No

Trainer Notes

110.

Discuss these points

- History of the wine – some basic background information
- Characteristics of the items – taste, smell etc
- Regions of origin – where it is produced
- How it is prepared – an explanation of any preparation activities
- Any menu accompaniments that are commonly served with the wine
- Its availability for purchase – most customers will welcome the opportunity to take some samples home to family and friends, whether to enjoy it themselves or as a possible gift.

Slide

Interpret wine medals

One very influential factor that impacts a customer's perception of a wine is through the awards and medals that they have won.

- What awards are given to wines?
- How are they judged?
- What separates a good wine from a bad wine, in terms of quality?

Slide 111

Slide

Check bottle condition

Check bottle condition

- Label
- Top near the cork or screw cap
- Bottle top
- Nothing floating in the wine
- Overall condition of the bottle

Slide 120

Slide No	Trainer Notes
120.	Class Activity – General Discussion and demonstration • Label – legible and intact • Top near the cork or screw cap – intact and entire • Bottle top - clean and not leaking • Nothing floating in the wine – as best as can be identified • Overall condition of the glass – not cracked, not leaking.

Slide

Check wine temperature

Correct serving temperatures

- Red wine: 16°C
- White wine: 2°C – 5°C
- Sparkling wine: 2°C – 5°C
- Fortified wines: room temperature

Slide 121

Slide No	Trainer Notes
121.	Discussion • Why is it important to serve these wines at these temperatures? • How can you get wine to these temperatures?

Slide

Presenting the wine

Slide

Serve after meal drinks

Fortified wines

In some cases customers may wish to have a fortified wine at the end of a meal or to accompany a dessert.

These normally consist of:

- Port
- Muscat
- Tokay

Slide 127

Slide No	Trainer Notes
127.	Class Activity – Questions & Review beverage list • What is the difference between these types of wines? • How are they served to the customer?

Slide

Responding to complaints

Respond to patron complaints about wine

- Due to the very nature of wine, at times wine will not be to the expected standard
- Given the appreciation of wine is very much a personal thing, it is always possible that what one person sees as grounds for a complaint, is really not a wine fault, but simply a difference of opinions

Slide 128

Slide No

Trainer Notes

128.

Class Activity – General Discussion

- Discuss how this makes complaint handling harder?

Slide

Responding to complaints

Standard procedures

Where obvious legitimate complaints are identified, the standard procedure is to:

- Apologise
- Replace the wine – if that is what the customer wants, or
- Refund the purchase price

Slide 129

150.	Discuss the benefits of sharing information with staff ● Why is this important? ● What else can you do?

Slide

Using wine information

Making practical use of the knowledge gained

- Add wines to your wine list
- Remove wines from your wine list
- Buy additional stocks of wines that are proving popular
- Buy wines and cellar them for later sale
- Develop new menu items to accompany the emerging wine trend

Slide 151

Slide No	Trainer Notes
151.	Discuss these points and how they can be implemented • Add wines to your wine list – by buying in new stock • Remove wines from your wine list – by moving wine to the wine shop for sale; discounting unpopular wines to clear them. Note 'removing wines' may also involve reducing the level of stock on hand while still keeping some of the wines available • Buy additional stocks of wines that are proving popular – to ensure you do not run out • Buy wines and cellar them for later sale – capitalising on the extra money that can be made from ageing the wine yourself, in-house • Develop new menu items to accompany the emerging wine trend.

Slide

Using wine information

Making practical use of the knowledge gained

- Obtain point-of-sale promotional material to assist in optimising sales of new wines
- Reducing selling prices
- Generating a new target market

Slide 152

Slide No	Trainer Notes
152.	Discuss these points and how they can be implemented ● Obtain point-of-sale promotional material to assist in optimising sales of new wines. Increasing profit margins – new products, used as alternatives to current products, may be more cost-effective, enabling better returns which can translate into larger portion sizes ● Reducing selling prices – where the premises is in an extremely competitive environment, the new products may mean you can compete more effectively on the basis of price and be in a position to offer the same portion size or larger at a lower price than the opposition ● Generating a new target market – the new food item that is now available to you may mean you can now attract a fresh demographic, or rejuvenate an existing one.
