Competency Based Training (CBT) and assessment an introduction for trainers

Competency

Competency refers to the ability to perform particular tasks and duties to the standard of performance expected in the workplace.

Competency requires the application of specified knowledge, skills and attitudes relevant to effective participation, consistently over time and in the workplace environment.

The essential skills and knowledge are either identified separately or combined.

Knowledge identifies what a person needs to know to perform the work in an informed and effective manner.

Skills describe the application of knowledge to situations where understanding is converted into a workplace outcome.

Attitude describes the founding reasons behind the need for certain knowledge or why skills are performed in a specified manner.

Competency covers all aspects of workplace performance and involves:

- Performing individual tasks
- Managing a range of different tasks
- Responding to contingencies or breakdowns
- Dealing with the responsibilities of the workplace
- Working with others.

Unit of Competency

Like with any training qualification or program, a range of subject topics are identified that focus on the ability in a certain work area, responsibility or function.

Each manual focuses on a specific unit of competency that applies in the hospitality workplace.

In this manual a unit of competency is identified as a 'unit'.

Each unit of competency identifies a discrete workplace requirement and includes:

- Knowledge and skills that underpin competency
- Language, literacy and numeracy
- Occupational safety and health requirements.

Each unit of competency must be adhered to in training and assessment to ensure consistency of outcomes.

Element of Competency

An element of competency describes the essential outcomes within a unit of competency.

The elements of competency are the basic building blocks of the unit of competency. They describe in terms of outcomes the significant functions and tasks that make up the competency.

In this manual elements of competency are identified as an 'element'.

Performance criteria

Performance criteria indicate the standard of performance that is required to demonstrate achievement within an element of competency. The standards reflect identified industry skill needs.

Performance criteria will be made up of certain specified skills, knowledge and attitudes.

Learning

For the purpose of this manual learning incorporates two key activities:

- Training
- Assessment.

Both of these activities will be discussed in detail in this introduction.

Today training and assessment can be delivered in a variety of ways. It may be provided to participants:

- On-the-job – in the workplace
- Off-the-job – at an educational institution or dedicated training environment
- As a combination of these two options.

No longer is it necessary for learners to be absent from the workplace for long periods of time in order to obtain recognised and accredited qualifications.

Learning Approaches

This manual will identify two avenues to facilitate learning:

Competency Based Training (CBT)

This is the strategy of developing a participant's competency.

Educational institutions utilise a range of training strategies to ensure that participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required for successful:

- Completion of the training program or qualification
- Implementation in the workplace.

The strategies selected should be chosen based on suitability and the learning styles of participants.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

This is the strategy of assessing competency of a participant.

Educational institutions utilise a range of assessment strategies to ensure that participants are assessed in a manner that demonstrates validity, fairness, reliability, flexibility and fairness of assessment processes.

Flexibility in Learning

It is important to note that flexibility in training and assessment strategies is required to meet the needs of participants who may have learning difficulties. The strategies used will vary, taking into account the needs of individual participants with learning difficulties. However they will be applied in a manner which does not discriminate against the participant or the participant body as a whole.

Catering for Participant Diversity

Participants have diverse backgrounds, needs and interests. When planning training and assessment activities to cater for individual differences, trainers and assessors should:

- Consider individuals' experiences, learning styles and interests
- Develop questions and activities that are aimed at different levels of ability
- Modify the expectations for some participants
- Provide opportunities for a variety of forms of participation, such as individual, pair and small group activities
- Assess participants based on individual progress and outcomes.

The diversity among participants also provides a good reason for building up a learning community in which participants support each other's learning.

Participant Centred Learning

This involves taking into account structuring training and assessment that:

- Builds on strengths – Training environments need to demonstrate the many positive features of local participants (such as the attribution of academic success to effort, and the social nature of achievement motivation) and of their trainers (such as a strong emphasis on subject disciplines and moral responsibility). These strengths and uniqueness of local participants and trainers should be acknowledged and treasured
- Acknowledges prior knowledge and experience – The learning activities should be planned with participants' prior knowledge and experience in mind
- Understands learning objectives – Each learning activity should have clear learning objectives and participants should be informed of them at the outset. Trainers should also be clear about the purpose of assignments and explain their significance to participants
- Teaches for understanding – The pedagogies chosen should aim at enabling participants to act and think flexibly with what they know
- Teaches for independent learning – Generic skills and reflection should be nurtured through learning activities in appropriate contexts of the curriculum. Participants should be encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning

- Enhances motivation – Learning is most effective when participants are motivated. Various strategies should be used to arouse the interest of participants
- Makes effective use of resources – A variety of teaching resources can be employed as tools for learning
- Maximises engagement – In conducting learning activities, it is important for the minds of participants to be actively engaged
- Aligns assessment with learning and teaching – Feedback and assessment should be an integral part of learning and teaching
- Caters for learner diversity – Trainers should be aware that participants have different characteristics and strengths and try to nurture these rather than impose a standard set of expectations.

Active Learning

The goal of nurturing independent learning in participants does not imply that they always have to work in isolation or solely in a classroom. On the contrary, the construction of knowledge in tourism and hospitality studies can often best be carried out in collaboration with others in the field. Sharing experiences, insights and views on issues of common concern, and working together to collect information through conducting investigative studies in the field (active learning) can contribute a lot to their eventual success.

Active learning has an important part to play in fostering a sense of community in the class. First, to operate successfully, a learning community requires an ethos of acceptance and a sense of trust among participants, and between them and their trainers. Trainers can help to foster acceptance and trust through encouragement and personal example, and by allowing participants to take risks as they explore and articulate their views, however immature these may appear to be. Participants also come to realise that their classmates (and their trainers) are partners in learning and solving.

Trainers can also encourage cooperative learning by designing appropriate group learning tasks, which include, for example, collecting background information, conducting small-scale surveys, or producing media presentations on certain issues and themes. Participants need to be reminded that, while they should work towards successful completion of the field tasks, developing positive peer relationships in the process is an important objective of all group work.

Competency Based Training (CBT)

Principle of Competency Based Training

Competency based training is aimed at developing the knowledge, skills and attitudes of participants, through a variety of training tools.

Training Strategies

The aims of this curriculum are to enable participants to:

- Undertake a variety of subject courses that are relevant to industry in the current environment
- Learn current industry skills, information and trends relevant to industry
- Learn through a range of practical and theoretical approaches
- Be able to identify, explore and solve issues in a productive manner

- Be able to become confident, equipped and flexible managers of the future
- Be 'job ready' and a valuable employee in the industry upon graduation of any qualification level.

To ensure participants are able to gain the knowledge and skills required to meet competency in each unit of competency in the qualification, a range of training delivery modes are used.

Types of Training

In choosing learning and teaching strategies, trainers should take into account the practical, complex and multi-disciplinary nature of the subject area, as well as their participant's prior knowledge, learning styles and abilities.

Training outcomes can be attained by utilising one or more delivery methods:

Lecture/Tutorial

This is a common method of training involving transfer of information from the trainer to the participants. It is an effective approach to introduce new concepts or information to the learners and also to build upon the existing knowledge. The listener is expected to reflect on the subject and seek clarifications on the doubts.

Demonstration

Demonstration is a very effective training method that involves a trainer showing a participant how to perform a task or activity. Through a visual demonstration, trainers may also explain reasoning behind certain actions or provide supplementary information to help facilitate understanding.

Group Discussions

Brainstorming in which all the members in a group express their ideas, views and opinions on a given topic, is a free flow and exchange of knowledge among the participants and the trainer. The discussion is carried out by the group on the basis of their own experience, perceptions and values. This will facilitate acquiring new knowledge. When everybody is expected to participate in the group discussion, even the introverted persons will also get stimulated and try to articulate their feelings.

The ideas that emerge in the discussions should be noted down and presentations are to be made by the groups. Sometimes consensus needs to be arrived at on a given topic. Group discussions are to be held under the moderation of a leader guided by the trainer. Group discussion technique triggers thinking process, encourages interactions and enhances communication skills.

Role Play

This is a common and very effective method of bringing into the classroom real life situations, which may not otherwise be possible. Participants are made to enact a particular role so as to give a real feel of the roles they may be called upon to play. This enables participants to understand the behaviour of others as well as their own emotions and feelings. The instructor must brief the role players on what is expected of them. The role player may either be given a ready-made script, which they can memorise and enact, or they may be required to develop their own scripts around a given situation. This technique is extremely useful in understanding creative selling techniques and human relations. It can be entertaining and energising and it helps the reserved and less literate to express their feelings.

Simulation Games

When trainees need to become aware of something that they have not been conscious of, simulations can be a useful mechanism. Simulation games are a method based on "here and now" experience shared by all the participants. The games focus on the participation of the trainees and their willingness to share their ideas with others. A "near real life" situation is created providing an opportunity to which they apply themselves by adopting certain behaviour. They then experience the impact of their behaviour on the situation. It is carried out to generate responses and reactions based on the real feelings of the participants, which are subsequently analysed by the trainer.

While use of simulation games can result in very effective learning, it needs considerable trainer competence to analyse the situations.

Individual /Group Exercises

Exercises are often introduced to find out how much the participant has assimilated. This method involves imparting instructions to participants on a particular subject through use of written exercises. In the group exercises, the entire class is divided into small groups, and members are asked to collaborate to arrive at a consensus or solution to a problem.

Case Study

This is a training method that enables the trainer and the participant to experience a real life situation. It may be on account of events in the past or situations in the present, in which there may be one or more problems to be solved and decisions to be taken. The basic objective of a case study is to help participants diagnose, analyse and/or solve a particular problem and to make them internalise the critical inputs delivered in the training. Questions are generally given at the end of the case study to direct the participants and to stimulate their thinking towards possible solutions. Studies may be presented in written or verbal form.

Field Visit

This involves a carefully planned visit or tour to a place of learning or interest. The idea is to give first-hand knowledge by personal observation of field situations, and to relate theory with practice. The emphasis is on observing, exploring, asking questions and understanding. The trainer should remember to brief the participants about what they should observe and about the customs and norms that need to be respected.

Group Presentation

The participants are asked to work in groups and produce the results and findings of their group work to the members of another sub-group. By this method participants get a good picture of each other's views and perceptions on the topic and they are able to compare them with their own point of view. The pooling and sharing of findings enriches the discussion and learning process.

Practice Sessions

This method is of paramount importance for skills training. Participants are provided with an opportunity to practice in a controlled situation what they have learnt. It could be real life or through a make-believe situation.

Games

This is a group process and includes those methods that involve usually fun-based activity, aimed at conveying feelings and experiences, which are everyday in nature, and applying them within the game being played. A game has set rules and regulations, and may or may not include a competitive element. After the game is played, it is essential that the participants be debriefed and their lessons and experiences consolidated by the trainer.

Research

Trainers may require learners to undertake research activities, including online research, to gather information or further understanding about a specific subject area.

Competency Based Assessment (CBA)

Principle of Competency Based Assessment

Competency based assessment is aimed at compiling a list of evidence that shows that a person is competent in a particular unit of competency.

Competencies are gained through a multitude of ways including:

- Training and development programs
- Formal education
- Life experience
- Apprenticeships
- On-the-job experience
- Self-help programs.

All of these together contribute to job competence in a person. Ultimately, assessors and participants work together, through the 'collection of evidence' in determining overall competence.

This evidence can be collected:

- Using different formats
- Using different people
- Collected over a period of time.

The assessor, who is ideally someone with considerable experience in the area being assessed, reviews the evidence and verifies the person as being competent or not.

Flexibility in Assessment

Whilst allocated assessment tools have been identified for this subject, all attempts are made to determine competency and suitable alternate assessment tools may be used, according to the requirements of the participant.

The assessment needs to be equitable for all participants, taking into account their cultural and linguistic needs.

Competency must be proven regardless of:

- Language
- Delivery Method
- Assessment Method.

Assessment Objectives

The assessment tools used for subjects are designed to determine competency against the 'elements of competency' and their associated 'performance criteria'.

The assessment tools are used to identify sufficient:

- a) Knowledge, including underpinning knowledge
- b) Skills
- c) Attitudes

Assessment tools are activities that trainees are required to undertake to prove participant competency in this subject.

All assessments must be completed satisfactorily for participants to obtain competence in this subject. There are no exceptions to this requirement, however, it is possible that in some cases several assessment items may be combined and assessed together.

Types of Assessment

Allocated Assessment Tools

There are a number of assessment tools that are used to determine competency in this subject:

- Work projects
- Written questions
- Oral questions
- Third Party Report
- Observation Checklist.

Instructions on how assessors should conduct these assessment methods are explained in the Assessment Manuals.

Alternative Assessment Tools

Whilst this subject has identified assessment tools, as indicated above, this does not restrict the assessor from using different assessment methods to measure the competency of a participant.

Evidence is simply proof that the assessor gathers to show participants can actually do what they are required to do.

Whilst there is a distinct requirement for participants to demonstrate competency, there are many and diverse sources of evidence available to the assessor.

Ongoing performance at work, as verified by a supervisor or physical evidence, can count towards assessment. Additionally, the assessor can talk to customers or work colleagues to gather evidence about performance.

A range of assessment methods to assess competency include:

- Practical demonstrations
- Practical demonstrations in simulated work conditions
- Problem solving
- Portfolios of evidence
- Critical incident reports
- Journals
- Oral presentations
- Interviews
- Videos
- Visuals: slides, audio tapes
- Case studies
- Log books
- Projects
- Role plays
- Group projects
- Group discussions
- Examinations.

Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning is the process that gives current industry professionals who do not have a formal qualification, the opportunity to benchmark their extensive skills and experience against the standards set out in each unit of competency/subject.

Also known as a Skills Recognition Audit (SRA), this process is a learning and assessment pathway which encompasses:

- Recognition of Current Competencies (RCC)
- Skills auditing
- Gap analysis and training
- Credit transfer.

Assessing competency

As mentioned, assessment is the process of identifying a participant's current knowledge, skills and attitudes sets against all elements of competency within a unit of competency. Traditionally in education, grades or marks were given to participants, dependent on how many questions the participant successfully answered in an assessment tool.

Competency based assessment does not award grades, but simply identifies if the participant has the knowledge, skills and attitudes to undertake the required task to the specified standard.

Therefore, when assessing competency, an assessor has two possible results that can be awarded:

- Pass Competent (PC)
- Not Yet Competent (NYC).

Pass Competent (PC)

If the participant is able to successfully answer or demonstrate what is required, to the expected standards of the performance criteria, they will be deemed as 'Pass Competent' (PC).

The assessor will award a 'Pass Competent' (PC) if they feel the participant has the necessary knowledge, skills and attitudes in all assessment tasks for a unit.

Not Yet Competent' (NYC)

If the participant is unable to answer or demonstrate competency to the desired standard, they will be deemed to be 'Not Yet Competent' (NYC).

This does not mean the participant will need to complete all the assessment tasks again. The focus will be on the specific assessment tasks that were not performed to the expected standards.

The participant may be required to:

- a) Undertake further training or instruction
- b) Undertake the assessment task again until they are deemed to be 'Pass Competent'.

UNIT TITLE: WORK IN A SOCIALLY DIVERSE ENVIRONMENT		NOMINAL HOURS: 25 hours
UNIT NUMBER: D1.HRS.CL1.19; D1.HOT.CL1.02; D2.TCC.CL1.02
UNIT DESCRIPTOR: This unit deals with the skills and knowledge required to work effectively in a socially diverse environment in a range of settings within the hotel and travel industries workplace context.
ELEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE CRITERIA		UNIT VARIABLE AND ASSESSMENT GUIDE
Element 1: Communicate with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds 1.1 Value customers and colleagues from different cultural groups and treat them with respect and sensitivity 1.2 Take into consideration cultural differences in all verbal and non-verbal communication 1.3 Attempt to overcome language barriers 1.4 Obtain assistance from colleagues, reference books or outside organisations when required Element 2: Deal with cross cultural Misunderstandings 2.1 Identify issues which may cause conflict or misunderstanding in the workplace 2.2 Address difficulties with the appropriate people and seek assistance from team leaders or others where required 2.3 Consider possible cultural differences when difficulties or misunderstandings occur 2.4 Make efforts to resolve misunderstandings, taking account of cultural considerations 2.5 Refer issues and problems to the appropriate team leader/supervisor for follow up		Unit Variables The Unit Variables provide advice to interpret the scope and context of this unit of competence, allowing for differences between enterprises and workplaces. It relates to the unit as a whole and facilitates holistic assessment This unit applies to all industry sectors that seek to work in a socially diverse environment within the labour divisions of the hotel and travel industries and may include: 1. Front Office 2. Housekeeping 3. Food and Beverage Service 4. Food Production 5. Travel Agencies 6. Tour Operation. Cultural differences may include: • Forms of address • Levels of formality/informality • Non-verbal behaviour • Work ethics • Personal grooming

	• Family obligations • Recognized holidays • Special needs • Preferences for personal interactions. Attempt to overcome language barriers may include: • Use simple gestures • Use simple words • Use words in the other person's language • Describe goods and services simply • Use diagrams or maps to give simple directions. Assistance may include: • Co-workers who speak the same language • Interpreter services • Diplomatic services • Supervisors, or managers, or specialist customer service staff within the enterprise. Issues which may cause conflict may include: • Competing group, family or personal interests • Power and control issues • Lack of communication • Personality clashes • Cross-cultural issues • Differences between cultural groups • Dissatisfaction in the community • Competing needs.

Misunderstandings in the workplace including:

- Speaking too quickly/quietly
- No visual clues
- Poor observation
- Poor communication style
- Intolerance
- Prejudice
- Inadequate language skills
- Not clarifying or asking questions
- Inappropriate body language
- Poor understanding of other cultures.

Resolve misunderstandings may relate to:

- Staff training
- Utilising staff cultural skills
- Employing a variety of communication methods
- Knowledge of location of cultural buildings sites and support agencies
- Developing an understanding and tolerance of cultural diversity
- Overcoming prejudice and assumptions
- Utilising non-verbal communication skills
- Actively seeking to break down barriers.

Assessment Guide

The following skills and knowledge must be assessed as part of this unit:

- Knowledge of the principles of effective communication skills
- Ability to identify the need(s) and concerns of others

	• Ability to use active listening, feedback techniques and team building techniques to build and maintain interpersonal relationships with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds • Ability to communicate effectively with a range of people from diverse backgrounds relevant to position and role • Ability to appropriately deal with cross cultural misunderstandings. Linkages To Other Units • This is a core unit that underpins effective performance in all other units; combined training and assessment may be appropriate. Critical Aspects of Assessment Evidence of the following is essential: • Demonstrated ability to apply active listening techniques • Demonstrated ability to use effective communication skills to build and maintain interpersonal relationships with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds • Demonstrated ability to maintain effective communication with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds • Demonstrated ability to communicate effectively with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds • Demonstrated ability to deal with cross-cultural misunderstandings • Observation that verbal and non-verbal communication takes account of cultural differences • Demonstrated commitment to include and/or communicate with others where language barriers exist • Demonstrated ability to apply knowledge of different cultures and cultural characteristics appropriately in communications with customers and colleagues from diverse backgrounds.

Context of Assessment

This unit may be assessed on or off the job:

- Assessment should include practical demonstration either in the workplace or through a simulation activity, supported by a range of methods to assess underpinning knowledge
- Assessment must relate to the individual's work area or area of responsibility.

Resource Implications

Training and assessment to include access to a real or simulated workplace; and access to workplace standards, procedures, policies, guidelines, tools and equipment.

Assessment Methods

The following methods may be used to assess competency for this unit:

- Case studies
- Observation of practical candidate performance
- Oral and written questions
- Portfolio evidence
- Problem solving
- Role plays
- Third party reports completed by a supervisor
- Project and assignment work.

	Key Competencies in this Unit Level 1 = competence to undertake tasks effectively Level 2 = competence to manage tasks Level 3 = competence to use concepts for evaluating
	Key Competencies	Level	Examples
	Collecting, organising and analysing information	1	Identify different cultural beliefs and values
	Communicating ideas and information	2	Explain how to do something to a colleague or customer from another language or cultural background
	Planning and organising activities	2	Identify ways to improve workplace communication with colleagues/customers from diverse backgrounds
	Working with others and in teams	2	Work cooperatively with team members from diverse backgrounds
	Using mathematical ideas and techniques	0
	Solving problems	2	Applying conflict resolution and communication skills to resolve conflict and/or misunderstandings
	Using technology	0

Assessment for this unit may include:

- Oral questions
- Written questions
- Work projects
- Workplace observation of practical skills
- Practical exercises
- Formal report from supervisor.

Class Activity – General Discussion

Ask general questions:

- What is communication?
- Why is communication important?
- What information do you communicate with customers – both internal and external?
- What challenges exist when communicating with people from diverse backgrounds?

Slide

Communicate effectively

Performance Criteria for this Element are:

- Value customers and colleagues from different cultural groups and treat them with respect and sensitivity
- Take into consideration cultural differences in all verbal and non-verbal communication
- Attempt to overcome language barriers
- Obtain assistance from colleagues, reference books or outside organisations when required.

Educational background – how far they got through schooling, and whether or not they did any further education. Sporting interests – whether they play sport, or whether they are even interested in sport: and which sport. Class Activity – General Discussion & Exercise (incorporates this and next slide) Discuss the diversity of the audience in relation to these points. Write the answers down on the board. Slide

Different cultural groups

Diversity of colleagues

Our industry traditionally employs people from many countries either as full-time staff who have:

- Residency in the country
- Work visas.

Some of these will be first generation and many will be second or third generation.

Slide 16

Slide No	Trainer Notes
16.	Class Activity – Discussion • What different countries are staff in your organisation from? Class Activity – General Discussion & Exercise (incorporates this and past slide) Discuss the diversity of the audience in relation to these points. Write the answers down on the board. You will find a great amount of diversity just amongst this group. Imagine the expanse of diversity given all the staff and customers in a typical hospitality business. Given the list you have developed, what can a hospitality business do to help cater to these cultural differences?

Slide

Different cultural groups

Diversity of customers

- Every hospitality and tourism business will have specific countries from which their customers come from
- It is important that the organisation and their staff understand the profile of their customers
- This enables them to tailor their products and services.

Slide 17

Slide No	Trainer Notes
17.	Class Activity – Discussion - What different countries are customers coming to an organisation in your region from? - Why do they come to your region? - How can you tailor products and services to meet their needs?

Slide

Understanding cultural differences

Knowing about the various cultural differences that exist does not come naturally.

The first requirement in understanding these differences is a desire to find out about:

- How these cultures vary
- How you can accommodate those needs.

Which businesses are successful in catering to different cultural customers?

Slide 18

Slide No	Trainer Notes
18.	Class Activity – Discussion This slide contains the same topic as the previous slide. You may wish to discuss businesses who have successfully catered to the needs of different cultural markets.

Slide

Considering cultural differences

Working in a socially diverse environment necessitates communicating with people from different cultural and social backgrounds.

Ensure that the two components of communication are appropriate to the person and culture being communicated with:

- Verbal language
- Body language.

Slide 23

Slide No	Trainer Notes
23.	Class Activity – Discussion • How do you use verbal language to communicate? • How do you use body language to communicate?

Slide

Types of cultural differences

The cultural differences that you must ensure you take into account may relate to:

- Race
- Language
- Special needs
- Family structure
- Disabilities
- Gender
- Age
- Sexual preference.

Slide 24

Slide No	Trainer Notes
24.	Class Activity – Group Exercise Break the audience into groups and give each group one point identified in this slide. For each of the points identified in this slide: a) Provide examples b) Provide how these differences may cause problems c) Identify ways a hospitality organisation can accommodate these cultural differences – considering products and services.

Slide

Law and culture

- All people should be valued and treated with respect when it comes to their individual differences
- Equal Opportunity legislation was created to be enforced in society in general with specific emphasis on activities in all workplaces.

Slide 25

Slide No	Trainer Notes
25.	Class Activity – Research and discuss The class should research specific equal opportunity legislation and/or employment law as applied to your country: • What specific laws exist to provide equality in the work place? • What areas or topics do these laws cover?

Slide

Law and culture

Objectives of EO legislation

- To promote recognition and acceptance of everyone's right to equality of opportunity
- To eliminate discrimination against people by prohibiting discrimination on the basis of various 'listed attributes'
- To eliminate sexual harassment.

Slide 26

Slide No	Trainer Notes
26.	Class Activity – Discussion Based on your research in the past slide: • Do these generic objectives differ in your country? • What are the differences and why do they exist?

Slide

Slide

Stereo types

When dealing with people it is important not to use stereotypes.

Never assume that someone fits into a particular category, simply based on what you think is the case based on personal observation, information given to you by other staff, your personal experience or your individual perspectives.

Slide 29

Slide No	Trainer Notes
29.	Class Activity – Discussion • What are common stereo types that exist? • Identify different countries and think of generic stereotypes we may have about people from them? • How true are these stereotypes? • What stereotypes does the rest of the world have about people from your country? • How true are these stereotypes?

Slide

Verbal and non verbal communication

Keys in factoring in appropriate verbal and non-verbal communication when dealing with people from another culture include:

- Identify the country and culture
- Take time to plan what to say and how to say it
- Be mindful of your body language
- Avoid industry and establishment jargon

Slide 30

Slide No	Trainer Notes

Slide

Overcoming language barriers

- You should identify the languages that need to be taken into account
- There are often 2-4 common foreign languages spoken by the majority of customers
- Develop phrases in these languages.

Slide 32

Slide No	Trainer Notes
32.	Class Activity – Discussion • What are the common foreign languages used by the majority of customers in your country? Select a maximum of 4 languages • What are some phrases that would be useful to know? Class Activity – Language Phrases • Research, identify and practice some of the phrases in small groups. You may want to write them on pieces of paper with the foreign phrase on one side and your language on the other. Read out the phrase and see if the audience can a) identify the language b) identify the phrase.

Slide

Language phrases

- Meet, greet and farewell customers
- Provide simple directions
- Give simple instructions
- Answer simple enquiries
- Prepare for, serve and assist customers
- Describe goods and service.

Slide 33

Slide No	Trainer Notes
33.	Meet, greet and farewell customers – at different times of the day, and to different types of customers including men, women, children and business people. Provide simple directions – to the restaurant, bar, swimming pool, different floors, various rooms as well as to common landmarks and tourist attractions. Give simple instructions – on how to use telephones, how to operate in-room and venue facilities. Answer simple enquiries – such as questions relating to availability of rooms, process of goods and services and local conditions. Prepare for, serve and assist customers – in accordance with your designated work role and responsibilities. For instance, the language needs of a front office receptionist will differ to those of a room attendant which will be, in turn, different to those required by a food and beverage waiter or a bar attendant. Describe goods and service – once again this will relate to your specific workplace role. For example, a food waiter should be able to describe tastes, smells, ingredients, cooking styles, portion sizes and so on. Class Activity – Discussion • Explain the information you would like to communicate within the points mentioned in the slide.

Slide

Language phrases

Simple words in foreign languages

- To greet and welcome
- To farewell and say goodbye
- Count the numbers 1 – 10
- The days of the week and months of the year
- Titles used by people including Mister and Missus
- Basic functions – walk, drive, sleep, eat and drink
- Basic establishment facilities
- Basic products and services
- Methods of transportation.

Slide 34

Slide

Verbal communication

When speaking to a person from a different culture, it is important to take into consideration their particular cultural differences:

- Pitch or tone of your voice
- Volume of the talking
- Speed at which you talk
- Pauses in the conversation.

Slide 36

Slide No

Trainer Notes

36.

Class Activity – Discussion

- For each of the points mentioned in the slide, what techniques could you use to make your verbal communication effective?

Slide

Non verbal communication

- Non-verbal communication occurs in all person-to-person situations
- Some people use more non-verbal communication than others, though we all use it to some degree
- Non-verbal communication is traditionally more important when communicating with someone from a culturally diverse background where there is a spoken word language difficulty.

Slide 37

Slide No	Trainer Notes
37.	Class Activity – Discussion • How can you use non-verbal communication to actually communicate?

Slide

Non verbal communication

Types of non-verbal communication

- Stance and posture
- Speed with which you move
- Facial expression
- Hold your arms
- Hand and finger gestures
- Personal hygiene
- Eye contact.

Slide 38

Slide No

Trainer Notes

38.

Class Activity – Discussion

- What do each of these types of non-verbal communication communicate?
- See below for examples.

Your stance and posture may be interpreted as:

- Shoulders back – positive attitude
- Shoulders slumped forward – negative attitude.

The speed with which you move may be interpreted as:

- Slow walk – don't care
- Fast walk – flat out and stressed.

Your facial expression may be interpreted as:

- Grumpy face – don't want to be at work; don't like the person they are talking to
- Smiling face – happy with life; happy to work with customers.

How you hold your arms may be interpreted as:

- Arms crossed – defensive
- Arms at your side – open to discussion.

Hand and finger gestures may be interpreted as:

- Waving a hand – saying goodbye
- Curling a finger - beckoning
- The thumbs up – all is okay or some other more abusive message!

How you attend to your personal hygiene may be interpreted as:

- Bad body odour – don't care attitude; disrespect for others
- Hair tied back neatly – person with pride; respect for others.

Eye contact may be interpreted as:

- Direct eye contact – telling the truth, intimidating, sexual
- No eye contact – not listening, disinterested or lying.

Slide

Non verbal communication

Language barriers - the role of gestures

When faced with a language barrier, service staff should attempt to communicate through the use of gestures or simple words:

- What gestures can you use?

Slide 39

Slide No

Trainer Notes

Class Activity – Charades

- Get the audience to play charades. Get them to communicate just using gestures.

Slide

Non verbal communication

Language barriers - the role of gestures

Gestures may include:

- Pointing to indicate a location, a position or a menu item
- Holding fingers up to establish quantities
- Rubbing your hands to indicate temperature
- Nodding your head in agreement
- Shaking your head in disagreement
- Using facial expressions to relay your feelings.

Slide 48

Slide No	Trainer Notes
48.	Introduce topic Class Activity – General Discussion Ask general questions: • What is a misunderstanding? • What are common cross cultural misunderstandings? • What are they caused by? • How can they be avoided?

Slide

Communicate effectively

Performance Criteria for this Element are:

- Identify issues which may cause conflict or misunderstanding in the workplace
- Address difficulties with the appropriate people and seek assistance from team leaders or others where required
- Consider possible cultural differences when difficulties or misunderstandings occur
- Make efforts to resolve misunderstandings, taking account of cultural considerations
- Refer issues and problems to the appropriate team leader/supervisor for follow up

Slide

Conflict and misunderstanding

What is conflict and misunderstanding?

Anything that upsets another person, whether a customer or colleague, can be regarded as a conflict or a misunderstanding.

Slide 50

Slide No	Trainer Notes
50.	Class Activity – Discussion • What are common conflicts you have in your private life? • What causes them? • How can they be solved?

Slide

Addressing conflict and misunderstanding

Addressing workplace conflict and misunderstanding properly and as early as possible seeks to:

- Keep all conflict and misunderstanding at the 'mild' end of the spectrum
- Clarify any perceptions that arose due to misunderstanding
- Rectify the situation to the greatest extent possible.

Slide 51

Slide No	Trainer Notes
51.	Class Activity – Discussion • What are some ways to handle a conflict quickly?

Slide

Causes of conflict and misunderstanding

Difficulties or conflict can also arise out of misunderstandings due to:

- Poor communication
- Lack of communication
- Intolerance
- Impatience
- Poor judgment
- Conflicting personal values, beliefs and opinions
- Personal prejudices.

Slide 52

Slide

Identifying conflict and misunderstanding

Issues causing conflict or misunderstanding in the workplace are most commonly identified by:

- Intuition
- Personal observation
- Being informed by the person themselves
- Being told by another person that you have upset someone.

Slide 55

Slide No

Trainer Notes

55.

Class Activity – Discussion

- What is the best way to identify a conflict in your point of view?

Slide

Identifying conflict and misunderstanding

When conflict is identified, remember:

- It isn't always your fault
- Be open-minded to their assertion that you said or did something unacceptable
- Apologise where necessary
- Take steps to make sure you don't repeat any actions or statements that gave rise to the issue.

Slide 56

Slide No	Trainer Notes
56.	It isn't always your fault – the misunderstanding may be caused by their misinterpretation of facts or words. Be open-minded to their assertion that you said or did something unacceptable – don't immediately become defensive and start trying to defend a position that is essentially wrong or indefensible. Apologise where necessary – it is truly amazing how many issues, disputes, misunderstandings and conflicts can be successfully resolved by a simple yet genuine and sincere apology. Take steps to make sure you don't repeat any actions or statements that gave rise to the issue – this should apply even where you believe you were genuinely not 'at fault'. The crux of the decision to change your actions or words should not be whether you are, in fact right or wrong in what you said or did, but whether or not it actually gave offence or upset someone.

Slide

Addressing difficulties

- Where cross-cultural misunderstandings occur, efforts to resolve the situation should be made with the person concerned
- But addressing difficulties and resolving them is not always a straight-forward task or one that can be readily achieved
- When you can't rectify or retrieve the situation, get help from others.

Slide 57

Slide No	Trainer Notes
57.	Class Activity – Discussion • Why can't a staff member solve all problems? • When would you get help from others? • Who would you go to for help?

Slide

Addressing difficulties

Scope of authority

Guidelines as to what action they can take in the workplace without having to get special permission from management:

- Their ability to act on behalf of the venue
- Their authority to spend money on behalf of the venue
- Their authority to act in given situations.

Slide 58

Slide No	Trainer Notes
58.	Class Activity – Discussion • What scope of authority do line staff normally have when handling difficulties?

Slide

Addressing difficulties

Scope of authority

Establishments may give staff standard scopes of authority to respond in standard ways such as:

- Offering a free product – glass of drink or free dessert
- Offering a service – such as dry cleaning
- Offering a set percentage discount on advertised selling prices.

Slide 59

Slide No

Trainer Notes

59.

Class Activity – Discussion

- What are some examples in different departments?

Slide

Addressing difficulties

Where your scope of authority is insufficient to deal with the problem, assistance from others should be sought.

Keys in involving other people are to:

- Make every genuine and realistic effort to resolve the issue yourself
- Act quickly once the decision to involve someone else has been taken
- Make sure you give them all the
- Try to stay around to listen and learn from how they handle the situation.

Slide

Addressing difficulties

Tips when addressing conflict and misunderstandings

- Quick identification of a misunderstanding can prevent a conflict from occurring
- All possible cultural differences should be taken into consideration
- Resolve the misunderstanding as quickly as possible
- Follow organisational procedures
- Putting yourself in the other person's shoes
- Frustration or impatience should be avoided
- Focus on respect and sensitivity.

Slide 61

Slide No	Trainer Notes
61.	Class Activity – Discussion • What are other tips you may have when addressing conflicts and misunderstandings?

Slide

Consider cultural differences

- It is possible that the cause of differences and difficulties are due to traditional service problems such as poor service, slow service, low-quality products or unclean rooms
- However when dealing with people from diverse backgrounds it is also possible that cultural differences have caused the problems.

Slide 62

Slide

Resolving misunderstandings

- When faced with a misunderstanding in the workplace, we must be prepared to think about all cross-cultural factors likely to affect the situation
- When a cross-cultural misunderstanding occurs with a customer, it is necessary for service staff to take the appropriate steps to find a resolution
- All talk should be honest, explained clearly, briefly and in simple unbiased terms.

Slide 65

Class Activity – Discussion

- Think about conflicts that have occurred in the past. How did you resolve these misunderstandings?

Slide

Resolving misunderstandings

Actions that can help resolve the situation

This may involve you in:

- Discussing the issue in a courteous manner
- Speaking directly with the person concerned in a respectful way
- Apologising for offence or misunderstanding that may have been caused
- Taking time to talk with the person concerned
- Asking for advice from the other party.

Slide

Refer issues and problems

Know when to refer issues to management

It is always important to know when and where to draw the line in relation to any cross-cultural misunderstanding:

- Notify the appropriate person when you don't seem to be making any headway in reaching a resolution
- Notify the appropriate person after you believe you have come to a solution.

Slide 70

Slide No	Trainer Notes
70.	Class Activity – Discussion • What is 'your line' when it is time to stop handling a situation and to refer it to someone else?

Slide

Refer issues and problems

This should be done so that any necessary follow-up and debriefing can be arranged including:

- Revisions to standard operating procedure within the establishment
- Inclusion of the issues at staff meetings and briefing sessions
- Making contact with those involved in order to:
 - Demonstrate their concern in relation to the matter
 - Ensure that the agreed solution has genuinely resolved the situation.
